3,000 Automobile Deaths.
The Gay Night Clubs.
Switzerland on the Ocean.
Eskimo Alice's Baby.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IN SEPTEMBER, according to the Hartford Insurance Company, 3,000 were killed in automobile accidents, a new record.

Bad whisky accounts for some killings, and "jay-walking," carelessness of pedestrians, accounts for many more.

Adults should know, children should be taught, that every highway is more dangerous than a railroad, automobiles being more numerous than trains, and just as dangerous.

FIVE young men went to the "Piccadilly" Night Club in Newark, N. J. One quarreled at 4 a. m. with the owner, was hit in the eye. When his friends went to see about it a gunman appeared in the door.

"HOLD on, you wouldn't shoot any of us, would you?"

Grant Patterson, 25 years old, asked the question. Four bullets in his body answered.

HE IS dead, the gunman not identified, the night club still running, presumably. Forty couples dancing heard no shots.

In Detroit, night club windows were barred to keep out rum raiders, fire came, and many, kept in by the bars, died.

The whisky is worse than the gunmen or other risks at our gay night clubs, but "intelligent Americans" go, and will continue going.

IN OLD fashioned war, Switzerland relied on her mountains, her men, all trained soldiers able to use a rifle, and on the fact that it would cost more than it would be worth, to conquer her.

BUT now, with mountains, rivers, or water no longer a protecting barrier Switzerland ORDERS ONE HUNDRED AND FI AIRPLANES. Men used to joke about "the Swiss navy." But Switzerland is now on the shore, the air being the real ocean, and she means to have an air fleet.

Uncle Sam, take notice.

SPEAKING in Collier's Armistice Radio Hour on Sunday, General Mitchell, our most brilliant fighting air officer in the big war, said, among other things: "Airplanes can cross the Atlantic in 20 hours, the Pacific in less than 40 hours. In the big war battleships appeared in two engagements, one lasting sixteen minutes, the other twenty-four minutes. No ship was sunk. Our battle fleet never fired a shot, except in salute.

New York could be destroyed in a morning by air torpedoes fired from a distance of hundreds of miles.

"WE LIVE," said General Mitchell, "in an era of bunk, special privilege and lobby control." That is all true, and the problem is to get results, by repetition, even in such an era.

TODAY, and never again, probably the world will hear of Alice, young Eskimo mother, last name unknown.

She and her husband conducted to safety a party of white fliers, stranded in the Arctic.

The white men suffering great hardship, travelling on rough ice, dangerously thin, were frost-bitten from nose to toes.

ALICE is sterner, as described by Richard Pearce, editor of the Northern Miner, of Toronto, one of the white men, "Alice, wife of the Eskimo with whom McAlpine, Baker and I were traveling, took her boy, 3 years old, after he had been tossed from the sled several times, stripped him naked, tied him on her back, under her clothing.

KEEPING her baby warm, next to her flesh, with the temperature 27 below zero, she "continued a man's share of the work, urging on the dogs, helping the sled over difficult spots."

When the ice broke and Alice fell through, she did not flounder, or get hysterical and vanish with her baby. She lay flat on her back until her husband rescued her.

The babe was all right, not frost bitten.

CADET PAUL CAPRON, dismissed from West Point for marrying the colonel's daughter, is working as a reporter for Mr. Curley, editor of the New York Journal. In his new job, with Curley for a teacher, he will learn about the real world, more than West Point could teach in five years.

WEST POINT, forbidding cadets to own "dogs, horses, a mustache or a wife," should change the wife rule.

The strength of a man's emotions sometimes proves power in other directions.

FOR instance, a young English captain, Horatio Nelson, 24 years old, commanding the British frigate Albermarle, in the war against this country, fell desperately in love with a Canadian girl at Quebec.

Rules of the navy would not let him marry. He left his ship, told his brother officers he was leaving the navy and went ashore to marry the girl.

Friends followed, argued in vain, finally dragged him back to his ship by force and took him out to sea.

HE DID not marry the girl, but he did win the battle of Trafalgar, and the battle of the Nile, and now he stands in bronze on his magnificent monument in Trafalgar Square. His body lies under a huge tomb, next to Well-

STOCKS HIT NEW LOWS FOR YEAR

6,440,500 Shares Traded in Heavy Selling, Swamping Facilities of Exchange

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Heavy selling broke out in the stock market today, carrying prices of active industrial and railroad shares to new low levels for the year, with losses of 2 to 10 points. The volume of trading on the big board was tremendous, sales totaling 6,440,500 shares for the three-hour session, against 3,357,800 shares yesterday and 3,199,000 shares Friday. The ticker was more than an hour behind at the close.

The fall in stock prices today accompanied the new reactions of 10 to 60 points in bank stocks and the fall of convertible industrial and utility bonds to the lowest levels of the year. In the grain market, wheat tumbled 5 cents a bushel in Chicago and other important trading centers, while cotton lost more than a dollar a bale.

SELLING WAVE

The selling movement today was but a repetition of what has been happening on the big board with little interruption since the first week in October. Whether from the camps of the "big bears," or from steadily weakened bullish sources, selling orders rained in on the market today from the opening gong, clogging the wheels of orderly operations and driving prices of the leaders to new low levels for the year.

Powerful bears for the greater part of the day held the market at their mercy, delivering sledge-hammer blows with deadly effect.

After an early rally to 165, U. S. Steel common crashed again and closed at 153½, the lowest price in two years. American Can was battered down about 7 points to 95; American Telephone and Telegraph down 7 points at 202 and numerous industrials stocks 3 to 5 points.

BIG BLOCKS TRADED

Stocks came out in big blocks at the opening. Fifty thousand General Motors shares, 30,000 Commonwealth and Southern, 20,000 Standard Oil of New Jersey, 15,000 United Corporation, 15,000 General Foods and numerous 10,000-share blocks were among the initial transactions.

Officer Scares Bandits Away

Three youthful bandits lost their nerve today after slugging Nelson A. Wieland, 55, collector for the A. D. Miller & Sons Refining Company in front of a policeman's home at 1512 Sheffield street. They fled in their auto without obtaining the collections of about $400.

Wieland was driving in Sheffield street when another car forced him to the curb. Two masked youths jumped from the machine and threatened him with guns.

Wieland locked the door. One youth smashed a window and hit Wieland with the butt of his revolver. Patrolman Leo Fitzgerald, seeing the disturbance, ran from his home toward the cars and the bandits fled.

Fitzgerald obtained the license number.

BIG NATIONS DIVIDED ON PEACE PLEA

Great Britain, Germany Well Pleased, France and Italy Skeptical on Hoover Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Armistice Day speech of President Hoover was favorably received in Great Britain and Germany, but brought only skeptical and satirical comment from the French and Italian press.

London newspapers lavished praise upon the address, heralding it as a continuance of the new "open diplomacy" set in motion by the conferences here between President Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

In British official quarters it was plainly stated that the question of the inviolability of food ships would not be discussed at the forthcoming London naval conference unless complete agreement was reached on naval limitation. Hoover suggested these vessels be exempted from blockade in time of war.

REGARDED AS 'FEELER'

In unofficial sources the suggestion was viewed as a "feeler." The Daily Telegraph declared President Hoover's "proposition as revolutionary as it is simple," adding:

"He argues with unanswerable force that restrictions such as he suggests would 'greatly tend toward lessening the pressure for naval strength' in food importing and exporting countries alike."

The London press as a whole was enthusiastic about the obvious sin-

SIFT DEATH OF MRS. SOMERSET

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—A post-mortem examination was ordered performed today on the body of Shelby Worrall Somerset, wife of Pat Somerset, actor, who was found dead in her bed yesterday.

Although physicians said the woman apparently died of a heart attack, the inquiry to determine the cause of death was decided upon when it was learned that a physician was not in attendance when she died.

The marriage of Somerset and Shelby Worrall, winner of a beauty contest in Texas, in Hollywood about a year and a half ago, was marked by their arrest on the night after the wedding as a result of an alleged wild party staged for them by friends.

A short time later the bride filed a separate maintenance suit, alleging Somerset beat her, breaking three ribs. They were reconciled.

Somerset was divorced in New York by Edith Day, musical comedy player, his second wife.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Nov. 12.—(INS.)—His beloved police dog already sold in order to buy food, and without money to purchase fuel for the heating of his home, Edward J. Heinrichs today was taking steps to speed the settlement of the million-dollar estate left by his father.

Churchman Missing, Wife Starts Police Search

Thomas E. Forgie, 56, prominent churchman, building contractor, of Homewood, has disappeared, the Bureau of Missing Persons revealed today.

Today, four weeks after his disappearance, Forgie's wife asked police to search for him.

In tears, Mrs. Forgie sent this message to her husband:

"If he is too humiliated to return, tell him to write me and tell me what to do. Any decision he makes will be all right. We feel just as kindly towards him as we ever did."

Mrs. Forgie said that her husband has been worried about his business for the last two years.

In their home at 825 Inwood street, Mrs. Forgie and her daughter, Jean, a high school senior, who was 19 years old the day after her father disappeared, hope for his return.

Forgie left the home October 14.

Forgie was an active member of the Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, the No. 34 Bible class and the official board of the Oakland Methodist Episcopal Church.

BABY MURDER SUSPECT FIRM

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 12.—Despite an all-night grilling, Gladys Mae Parks, the "iron woman," today refused to admit she was a baby murderer.

The Junoesque, auburn-haired former model and piano player continued to insist she "accidentally" beat 4-year-old Dorothy Rogers to death and that 2-year-old Timothy, the child's brother, died from falling downstairs.

At one point in the intensive cross-examination, detectives thought they had broke through the ice of the woman.

TELLS OF OTHER BABY

"There was another baby I had charge of in 1926—a 3-year-old baby," she shouted.

"What did you do with it?"

"I used that baby to get money from men," she answered.

"What did you do with it?"

But the "iron woman" regained the old grip on herself and would go no farther.

Detective Sergt. Louis Shaw said today that an investigation had

HUNT FOR BODY IN LAKE FAILS

River Patrolmen Charles Snyder and Henry Reddy today after dragging Silver Lake, Washington boulevard, in the belief a woman had been drowned, abandoned the search without finding the body.

Late last night East End police received a telephone call from residents of a nearby house informing them that screams of a woman were heard near the lake.

Raise in City Tax Seen

The city tax rate for next year will be increased at least 1½ mills, according to a prediction today by members of Council at a conference with officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

The conferees were seeking to agree on dividing the cost of street changes proposed in connection with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company's terminal extensions.

The plan favored by the city would cost about $1,000,000 more than that presented by the company.

Robert Garland, chairman of the Councilmanic Finance Committee, said "I don't think the city can afford to pay the higher cost. We will have to raise taxes as it is and you all know about it."

W. Y. English said, "Not more than a mill and a half."

'Bossy' Gillis Fights Two for Re-election

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—(INS.)—The battle of Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis, "bad boy" mayor of Newburyport, against three candidates for a third term, featured today's primaries in eight Massachusetts cities.

Mayor Gillis was opposed by Oscar H. Nelson, whom he defeated two years ago; Councilman Henry B. Little and John F. Cutter, former chief of the fire department.

STATE'S BAR BOARD HAS RECORDS

Standing Master Receives Complaint, Withholding The Text Pending Inquiry

Disbarment of former Judge Henry G. Wasson and Attorney George H. Calvert is asked in a petition filed with the Board of Governance of the Pennsylvania Bar, at Philadelphia, it was disclosed today.

The petition was filed with H. G. Gabell, secretary of the board in Philadelphia.

Attorney John Hampton Barnes, chief standing master of the board, when asked if the petition had been filed, said that it had, but that until the board should have completed its action in the matter none of the details of the petition would be made public.

NO COMMENT MADE

When reached by the Sun-Telegraph to learn if he cared to comment on the disbarment proceedings, Judge Wasson answered that he had nothing to say.

Efforts to reach Mr. Calvert for a statement had been unavailing as this edition went to press.

The Board of Governance of the Pennsylvania Bar was established January 1, 1929, and is composed of Attorney Barnes, of Philadelphia; J. Roy Dickie and Charles F. C. Arensberg, of Pittsburgh; Thomas C. Hare, Altoona; Bernard J. Meyers, Lancaster; Francis B. Bracken, Philadelphia; Aaron S. Swartz, Jr., Norristown; Archibald M. Hoagland, Williamsport; William S. Rial, Greensburg; W. A. Valentine Wilkes-Barre, and Arthur W. Mitchell, Erie.

ESTATE INVOLVED

The action for disbarment is understood to have been taken by Martha K. and M. Blanche Hibbert, sisters of Mrs. Eleanor Hibbert Davidson. Mrs. Davidson is the widow of Frederick Davidson, former president of the Union Drawn Steel Company. She lost her mind following the drowning of her husband at Atlantic City. He left an estate valued at more than $3,000,000.

Wasson and Calvert were appointed a committee for Mrs. Davidson in 1921. Objections were filed to their accounting

Half-Ton Block Plunges 35 Floors in Wall Street

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—A half-ton block of terra cotta broke loose from a hoisting crane today and fell to the street through three floors of the 70-story Bank of Manhattan Building under construction, in Wall street.

As the big block tore its way through the roof of the building at the setback line and then through the succeeding floors before it broke clear, the crashes reverberated through the financial district and brought thousands rushing to windows, fearing a bombing.

Two persons received injuries from falling debris. James Bella, a workman on the ninth floor, received contusions and a possible fractured shoulder, and Helen Pratt, sitting on the street in a motor car, was slightly cut and bruised.

The block of imitation stone had been hoisted to a point opposite the thirty-fifth story of the building when it broke loose. Its first momentary stopping place, 26 floors below, was the roof of the ninth floor setback.

GRUNDY RENEWS ATTACK ON INSURGENT TARIFF FOES

VOTING DATA SUPPORTS STAND

Lobby Chief Submits Figures To Show Why Small States Should 'Talk Darn Small'

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Joseph R. Grundy, the high priest of tariff protection, who shocked the Senate Lobby Committee recently by declaring that southern and western Senators should "talk darn small" in tariff legislating, renewed hostilities today by firing another salvo of criticism at those who are voting daily to decrease the rates of the Hawley-Smoot bill.

"Uncle Joe" submitted a bill of particulars to support his contention that the states which send Democrats and insurgent Republicans to the Senate are "backward states," and in defense of his theory that the large industrial states like Pennsylvania should be permitted a free hand in framing tariff legislation.

CITES SOUTHERN STATES

In a letter filed with the committee, Grundy singled out six southern states to illustrate his arguments that their Senators should "talk darn small" in comparison with the talking done by the representatives of the populous and rich industrial states of the East.

He took the figures of the 1926 senatorial elections and showed that only 4.83 per cent of Alabama's population participated in the voting; only 1.89 per cent of Arkansas; 1.65 per cent of Georgia; 1.50 per cent of Mississippi; 0.87 per cent of South Carolina, and 4.67 per cent of Virginia.

Against these figures, he cited the fact that Pennsylvania, with her 8,720,000 people, cast 1,504,696 votes.

Upon this record of voting, Grundy declared he unhesitatingly declared these states "backward," or, he said, "the committee is at liberty to select its own term."

TAX FIGURES RECALLED

"But the pertinent point of the matter is," his letter said, "that while those states have one senator for each 28,622 voters, or a total of 12 senators in all, Pennsylvania, with a present population of about 10,000,000, has but one member and a single voice in the United States Senate.

"More pertinent still are the same facts when expressed another way, namely, that if Pennsylvania had representation in the Senate in the same ratio as these states, it would have 52½ senatorial votes instead of only one."

Grundy referred the committee back to other tables he had submitted, showing how the industrial states pay most of the taxes, income and corporation, to support the government, and then offered a comparison of times that fairly stunned the committee.

He declared that the Democratic-Insurgent coalition which is daily wrecking the tariff bill as it was written by the House to be adopting the same attitude that England adopted against the American colonies, and which led to the Revolutionary War.

LIKENED TO ENGLAND

"England was determined," he said, "just as the Democratic-Insurgent coalition in Congress today seems to be determined—that in respect of its own industrial independence, this country ought to take second place to all the rest of the world desiring to compete in the American market."

American success throughout its 150 years, he said, had been built upon the foundation of tariff protection. He traced the ebb and flow of prosperity for more than a century, contending that when the Republicans were in power and tariff rates were high the country was prosperous, and when the Democrats were in and rates were low the country was correspondingly depressed.

Army Testing New Khaki Uniform Cloth

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Promise of a smarter looking army in the summer time was held out today in an order issued by the War Department for tests of a new khaki colored cotton cloth.

The cotton uniforms now used in warm weather and in the tropics have proved unsatisfactory because of the variety of shades the cloth takes on after a little wear. The new cloth, developed to retain its shape, together with a new dye which is considered permanent, have demonstrated in laboratory tests that they overcome the old objections.

brought him information that Miss Parks had a small child in Atlantic City two years ago. She used the child for purposes of blackmail, Shaw said.

NEW YORK BOY LINKED

Prosecutor Clifford Baldwin planned to question Miss Parks as to whether 4-year-old Billy Gaffney, who disappeared in 1927 from his Brooklyn home, had ever been used in her blackmail schemes. Two New York detectives were on their way to assist in running down the Gaffney report. A playmate at the time said "the bogey man" had taken Billy, who also was reported seen on a New Jersey ferry with a woman.

Detective Shaw said he believed the Parks woman had obtained more than $50,000 in her "shakedown racket." He said her method was to make friends with men of means and then many months later bring them a child and accuse them of being its parent.

"The men usually paid when she threatened to introduce the child to their families," he said. "She had been working this racket for the past 10 or 12 years."

However, both Shaw and Prosecutor Baldwin admit they have been unable to get the "iron woman" to admit these activities.

2 GEM ROBBERY SUSPECTS FREE

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnson and their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. J. Frederick Byers, of Pittsburgh, told police they would be able to identify the four highwaymen who stole $71,000 worth of jewelry and $1,000 in cash from them early Sunday as they were driving home from a dinner dance at the Bridle Spur Hunt Club.

Consequently, two men arrested on suspicion and viewed by the Johnsons and their guests were released when efforts to identify them as the robbers failed.

Mrs. Byers was robbed of uninsured jewelry which she valued at $59,000. Mrs. Johnson lost insured jewelry valued at $12,500.

Canadian Liquor Shipments Slump

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Declared liquor exports last month from Canada to the United States, in the Detroit area, were the smallest since this government established a border patrol there, according to Treasury announcement.

Only 43,400 cases were cleared for export, Treasury officials said, against 162,773 cases in October, 1928. The figures were compiled from Canadian official reports.

Long-Lost Meteors Due To Appear Tomorrow

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—All over the world this week on the nights of November 13 and 14 astronomers will be watching for the most important meeors in more than 30 years, the long missing leonids.

No spectacular display is expected this year, only a few leonids, but if there are enough of them it will mean that in about three years the earth is due for another of the most brilliant meteor showers, veritable rains of fire. The leonids have shown up quite regularly three times a century for more than a thousand years, but failed to appear when last due at the first of the present century.

Astronomers suspect that failure was due to the huge planet Jupiter being too close to their orbit and pulling them off schedule. The question is whether this vast stream of meteors, which takes 33 years to make one trip around the sun, is again back on its course. If the answer is yes, tomorrow and Thursday the earth should be in the beginnings of the stream, which is so rich that it takes several years to pass a fixed point. If the old schedule is restored, the earth center of the stream should come along about three years hence.

Very few leonids appeared last November. If more are sighted this week, predictions may be made about the coming great show. After midnight is the best time to look for them.

POWERS SPLIT ON HOOVER'S PEACE PLEA

cerity of the Hoover address. The Daily News declared there was a "quality in the speech altogether lacking in the somewhat platitudinous orations of his immediate predecessor."

PARIS SKEPTICAL

In Paris the reception of the address was in nowise so cordial. An official high in the councils of the naval ministry told an International News Service correspondent that the position of the United States on armament limitation was inexplicable.

"It is difficult to understand America's attitude on naval disarmament," this official stated. "Of course, we do not know what transpired between President Hoover and Premier MacDonald when they held their naval talks.

"Nevertheless, it is strange to hear President Hoover's words on the radio, appealing for universal peace, when he know that both American and British shipyards are working at top speed to turn out thousands of tons of warships."

Many of the Parisian newspapers took the same attitude today, although there were some who lauded the speech as an honest effort toward freedom of the seas and universal amity.

ITALY DISSATISFIED

In Rome, too, the press took the attitude that Hoover had not gone to the bottom in his examination of the causes disturbing peace. Tevere, Rome daily, in a typical utterance quoted by the Associated Press, suggested that if the desire for parity were recognized as the determining motive of wars, the Americans, British and French had only to adopt the Mussolini formula of the minimum of armaments common to all great powers.

As to freedom of the seas, Tevere professed to find the President's ideas entirely contrary to British traditions, but admirably serving American expansionist interests.

The editorial concluded:

"The reality proves that the most formidable antagonism between the two powerful imperialisms, English and American, is ever alive and perhaps insuperable."

In Berlin, the press gave Hoover high praise. His speech was lauded by all the papers, but especially by the Democratic organs, which hailed it as evidence of America's will to promote world peace. The plan to exempt food ships from the terrors of a blockade was called humane.

In commenting on this part of the President's speech, it was pointed out that Germany would have been spared much horror if an embargo on food ships had been lifted.

"Who knows the terrors of a food blockade better than Germany," was the general tenor of the comment.

Mr. Hoover's challenge to the great naval powers of the world was put in these words: "We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that, it only remains for the others to say how long they will go. It cannot be too low for us."

It constitutes the foundation stone of American naval policy to be followed at the London conference, when the powers assemble at the conference table in January to discuss not only limitation of navies but actual reduction as well.

"How much will you cut?" is to be the query propounded by the American delegation to the representatives of Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

France already has indicated she will propose the abolition of the great capital ship, so costly to construct and to maintain. Great Britain wants to abolish the submarine, so snake-like and deadly in its wartime usage.

Probably neither of these proposals can be accepted in its entirety by the London conference, for Britain places a certain reliance on the capital ship in the protection of its far-flung trade routes and dominions, and France places an enormous reliance on the submarine as "the poor man's defense" against the superior surface strength of other powers.

But President Hoover made it clear in his Armistice Day address last night that, so far as the United States is concerned, his administration is willing to consider favorably any and all propositions that point to proportionate naval reduction.

"And," he said, simply, "it cannot be too low for us."

U. S. TO GO ALONG

The plain inference left by Hoover was that if the naval rivalries of Europe can be reconciled to the point of sacrificing submarines and capital ships, this government would willingly go along.

By proportionate naval reduction, Hoover obviously meant the maintenance of the general ratio laid down by the Washington conference eight years ago, which was parity as between Great Britain and the United States in all classes of ships, and lesser ratios for Japan, France and Italy, according to their needs. The figures were 5 each for Great Britain and the United States, 3 for Japan, and 1.6 for the rival Mediterranean powers of France and Italy.

Collaterally with this pronouncement of American naval policy, the President made his proposal which he said he wanted the world to ponder and consider.

It was simply that in the event of another war, food ships be put in the same class as hospital ships, and immunized from attack.

"The time has come," he said, "when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare."

Mr. Hoover spoke with deep conviction on this point, a conviction born of his war-time experiences in trying to feed the helpless civilian populations of Europe, with German submarines sinking food ships destined for the Allied countries, and British cruisers seizing food ships ticketed for the neutral Scandinavian countries, but really destined for Germany.

ELMIRA SWEPT BY COSTLY FIRE

ELMIRA, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Fire which for more than six hours swept two three-story business structures near the heart of the commercial district here last night, was brought under control early today. The damage was unofficially estimated at $450,000. The flames first swept through the upper stories of the John C. Edgcomb furniture store and the J. W. Huston Company clothing store, then spread to Schornstaheimer's store for women and Smith's, Inc., automobile accessories.

The first floor of the Edgcomb store collapsed and walls of the others were weakened. Firemen and equipment from Elmira Heights moved into central fire headquarters here as a precaution against fire elsewhere in the city.

TWO INJURED IN WINE FIGHT

Youths Beat His Wife When Refused Drink, Aged Man Says, Explaining Shooting

An insistent demand for wine today ended in the shooting of one youth and the injury of his companion in an auto wreck while en route to a hospital, county detectives reported.

Bernard Naucher, 19, of Washington avenue extension, Glendale, was shot, and Joseph Senter, 20, of 501 Hulton street, Carnegie, suffered a fracture of the skull in the wreck.

County Detective Robert McMillen arrested Amatto Kaiser, 60, of Sygan Hill, South Fayette Township, on a charge of felonious shooting. Kaiser said he shot Naucher after he and his companion attacked the aged man and his wife, Elizabeth, 58, when they were refused wine at the Kaiser home.

"They came to my home drunk, after midnight, and wanted wine," Kaiser told Detective McMillen. "I told them I didn't have any and they knocked me down and broke my glasses.

"I ran for my gun, and when I came back they were beating my wife. Then I fired a shot."

Traylor, the other chief American delegate, intends to make a short pleasure tour before returning to the United States.

Success in Big City, Robs Hometown Bank

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—William S. Ragan was a Fisher (Ill.) boy who came to Chicago and made good—then went back to Fisher, by his own story to police, and "made bad."

"I did it. I must have been drunk," he told officers when arrested yesterday for the attempted robbery last Friday of the Fisher State Bank. "I'll plead guilty, but I won't say any more now."

The man who held up the Fisher Bank was shot in both legs in escaping. His automobile was trailed 200 miles by a school teacher, and Ragan's arrest followed identification of his motor car as the one used in the holdup.

Ragan is superintendent of the Linde Air Products Company, a subsidiary of the Union Carbide and Carbon Company. Officials said he was well paid and was soon to have been promoted to a position of even greater responsibility.

8 LOSE LIVES IN BRITISH STORM

Many Others Injured, Loss Tremendous; Three Rivers Flooded in Rain Deluge

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Eight persons were killed through accidents and drowning, many were injured, and enormous property damage inflicted in a gale which lashed the British Isles and surrounding seas last night and today.

The wind blew at speeds varying from 50 to 70 miles an hour, with occasional gusts reaching a velocity of 90 miles. Cross-Channel steamers reported terrific buffeting by the waves, which often smothered them and sometimes over-topped their funnels. Passengers suffered severely from anxiety and sickness.

STEAMER BATTLES GALE

The Belgian steamer Jan Breydel, which left Ostend yesterday afternoon with 72 passngrs for Dover, battled vainly against the fury of the storm and finally was obliged to put in near Dunkirk, where its passengers spent many terrifying hours in the darkness.

While some airplanes were forced to make safety landings, others made perilous trips between England and the continent, astonishingly defying the gale.

The giant dirigible R-101 endured its greatest test at Cardington, where it rode safely throughout the storm at its mast. The crew aboard successfully corrected its movements as it yawed and dipped under the enormous wind pressure. One gust of 83 miles an hour was experienced.

RIVERS FLOODED

The Severn, Dee and Wye rivers were flooded in the deluge of rain which accompanied the wind, the water rushing over banks and submerging thousands of acres of agricultural land. South Wales suffered badly, the Rhondda valley in the heart of the Welsh coal district, having one of the worst floods in its history.

Armistice Day crowds stood around the cenoteaph in London until after midnight when a brief cessation sent them home. The tempest culminated an hour or so later in a tremendous deluge which the wind drove along the streets at a furious pace, swamping sidewalks and converting thoroughfares into lakes.

30 SAILORS RESCUED

Deal boatmen had a strenuous time getting vessels into the harbor. Thirty of the crew of the Italian steamer Nimbo were dramatically rescued by a lifeline from the cliff top at New Haven.

Passengers on the steamer Jan Breydel from Ostend arrived at Dover this morning delighted to be on dry land again. They described uncomfortable experiences during a terrific blow which sprang up suddenly, forcing the steamer to put in temporarily near Dunkirk, spending many hours in the darkness.

Robert S. Farley and Mrs. Farley, Americans, said that no one had prepared to spend all night in the channel. "It was a nasty, hazardous experience," said Mr. Farley. There were no sleeping accommodations aboard. All of the passengers paid tribute to the captain's skill in handling his ship.

CARDINAL VISITS MIRACLE GRAVE

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 12—(AP.)—William Cardinal O'Connell, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, today visited Holy Cross Cemetery where, at the grave of Rev. Patrick Power, thousands have sought relief from bodily ills. Hundreds were there.

The Cardinal's visit to the cemetery was a surprise. No reason for his visit was made known. It has been predicted that steps might be taken to create a permanent shrine at Father Powers' grave.

It was estimated that more than 200,000 persons, most of them suffering from ailments, prayed at the shrine. Many of these claimed to have experienced miraculous cures.

RIORDAN BANK SUMS GROW

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—The County Trust Company reported an increase in net deposits of $700,000 at the close of the first business day since the suicide of its president, James J. Riordan, was made public.

Riordan shot himself Friday afternoon, but news of his death was withheld until after the bank had closed Saturday afternoon.

John J. Raskob, who had been selected acting chairman by the board of directors at a meeting Saturday morning, arrived at the bank at 8:30 and former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, a director and close friend of Mr. Riordan; William H. English, acting president; William F. Kenny, and Vincent Astor, directors, were there during the forenoon.

Nothing out of the ordinary happened, however, except that several business men in the district showed their confidence in the bank's condition by depositing more money than usual. And some of them opened new accounts.

PANTAGES FREE TO VISIT WIFE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Alexander Pantages, sentenced to serve one to 50 years in prison for an offense against 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, dancer, was released from the county jail under guard for five hours yesterday to visit the bedside of his wife, Lois. Mrs. Pantages recently was convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of a Japanese gardener after a motor accident in which she herself was injured. She was granted a 10-year prbation. Pantages is being held in the county jail pending an appeal from his conviction and sentence.

Mrs. Pantages was reported by her son, Lloyd, to be seriously ill. She has made her various appearances in court in a wheeled chair. The order for Pantages' release to visit his wife was signed by Superior Court Judge Charles Fricke, who presided at the theater man's trial.

WOMAN SCORES LEGION, D. A. R.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Accusations that Miss Eleanor Brannan, Washington, associate secretary of the National Council for the Prevention of War, was a member of an organization which sought defeat of the 1928 Navy bill was given by patriotic group leaders as one reason they objected to her speaking at Armistice services in St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

When some legionnaires and D. A. R. members refused to attend services because she was to speak, Miss Brannon withdrew to the Unitarian Church, where she scored Milwaukee as an intolerant city and "obviously run by the American Legion and D. A. R."

TARIFF WAR IN SENATE UNABATED

President Soon to Make Move For Peace Due to Concern Over Third-Party Threat

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The economic war fever, now splitting the Republican party into opposing factions of western agriculturalists and eastern industrialists, remained unabated today but with administration leaders seeking desperately to heal the breach.

Talk of the westerners bolting the party in 1932 to form a third party move against President Hoover's re-election provoked administration concern. With the tariff bill conceded to be the cause of war, there were very definite hints that the President himself would move before long to stem the war talk and mollify the opposing factions.

TARIFF STATEMENT

The President, it was vaguely intimated, could act as soon as the tariff bill is passed by the Senate and sent to conference. Then, it was said, it would be deemed proper for him to speak his mind about the extent of tariff revision, and particularly on the question of whether he will accept a bill, containing the debenture plan of farm relief—urged by the westerners—and devoid of the flexible tariff clause—which easterners demand. It was gently hinted that when the proper time comes the President will say he can sign such a bill, providing needy industries are given adequate relief.

Such a statement, even if the East greets it with poor grace, would tend to solve the tariff problem. It certainly would smooth the way to a reunion of all factions of the Republican party.

It likewise would bring such bold insurgents as Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, and Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), of Nebraska, back into the party fold.

ECONOMIC WARFARE

The warfare meanwhile was based solely on economic grounds. The opposing viewpoints were given to International News Service by spokesmen for the two factions. They follow:

Old Guard View: The western insurgents are seeking to destroy protection for eastern industries while increasing protection for Western agriculture—so the East, while getting less for its products, will have to pay more for its food. This movement is a recurrence of the periodic upheavals that convulse the Middle West from time to time with such unsound economic views as were professed by the Greenbackers, the Populists and the Bryanists. Because of a necessary concentration of wealth in the industrial east, the western insurgents are swayed by prejudice and blinded to the country's welfare. To successfully solve the problem, the West must realize that the population of eastern industrial cities provides the best cash market for farm products and any injury to industry is an injury to agriculture.

INSURGENT VIEW

Insurgent view—The farmer has been selling his products in a world market while buying in a highly protected market. The prices on three-fourths of America's farm productions are fixed in Europe. The West must maintain its home markets, not only in the East, but it must protect its markets abroad, since the prices of most farm products are fixed by the world market in Europe.

If a high tarib wall places an embargo against foreign imports, the buying power of Europe will be reduced with disastrous effects on world market prices and a consequent reduction of income to American farms. The West must be given adequate tariff protection, but the East must not place an embargo against European products. The West is ready to accept tariff rates equalling the difference in cost of production at home and abroad, where American manufacturers can supply the American market. It must refuse to support tariff rates which inflate prices, bar out European products and destroy competition merely so American manufacturers may be handed home markets on a silver platter. The West is ready to arbitrate the issue—a peace move that has been rejected by the East up to date.

The "middle-of-the-road" Republicans, who hope for peace, meanwhile discouraged talk of war. Their viewpoint was best demonstrated by Senator Jones (Rep.), of Washington, acting Republican leader, who said:

"I don't believe there is any party split. This controversy is merely a division of opinion over tariff rates and terms. When we get through with this bill, there will be differences of opinion on other measures, but there will not be any special or permanent division of the party."

EVIDENCE TAKEN IN TUNNEY SUIT

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Depositions of six witnesses were taken here yesterday by Dudley Kent, Forty-eighth District Court reporter, in the $500,000 alienation of affections suit brought by John S. Fogarty, former Fort Worth plumber, against Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion. The witnesses, all of whom were offered by attorneys for Tunney, are:

Chief Deputy District Clerk Ogilvie, C. K. Fletcher, secretary of the Fort Worth Gas Company; Don Hunsaker, employe of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Riddle, Brownwood, and Mrs. Thula Brown.

Fogarty filed his alienation suit in Bridgeport, Conn., in September. The depositions taken here will be used in the trial of the suit in Bridgeport. More than 50 witnesses are to be called here to testify. Testimony is being offered first by Tunney's witnesses, it was announced.

The hearing is being conducted privately in the office of Kent, newspapers reporters being barred by agreement of counsel.

STORM SWEEPS OVER WEST

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—The storm gods rode over the West again today, blanketing the Rocky Mountains in wet snow and invading the prairies of Kansas and the hills of Missouri.

Subfreezing temperatures followed a blizzard which swept Colorado yesterday, reaching the lowest points of the year during the night. Apprehension was felt in sugar beet sections because the harvest is not completed. Frozen ground will hamper operations and sugar factories have but a two weeks' supply.

Balmy temperatures which have prevailed in the lower Missouri River valley gave way this morning to an increasing wind which Weather Bureau forecasts said would bring the first general snow of the year to Western Missouri, Eastern Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska.

REPENTS FALL VERDICT, CLAIM

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 12.—(INS.)—Mrs. Albert B. Fall was on record here today as having declared that a remorseful member of the jury which convicted her husband, former secretary of Interior, admitted that his vote in the matter was a "bad mistake."

She announced that Daniel Weisbach, one of the jurors who found the former cabinet member guilty of accepting a bribe, came to their apartment in Washington after the verdict. Begging forgiveness, according to Mrs. Fall, Weisbach declared that the arguments of Thomas E. Norris, foreman, influenced the jury's decision.

After the second ballot, which stood nine for acquittal and three for conviction, Norris launched his arguments, finally winning the support of the other jurymen, Mrs. Fall said Weisbach told her.

The infuriated animals dashed through streets and school yards, damaging houses and office buildings.

Sheriff's officers and police battled with the mad herd for five hours and succeeded in corralling nearly 1,500. More than 200 cattle escaped and are still at large.

Cattle rustlers are believed to have started the stampede.

FILM BOMBING PLOT PROBED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Discovery by a night watchman of a steel-encased bomb, equipped with an electric detonator, under the floor of an abandoned stage set at the Metropolitan motion picture studios led police today to investigate a theory that bombers had planned to blast the place, but had been thwarted.

Further search of the studio buildings, which are being torn down for construction of sound stages, revealed 15 electric detonations, 50 pounds of black powder and 50 feet of fuse.

Girl Ends 'Life Discord' In Leap From Plane

VALLEY STREAM, N. Y., Nov. 12.—(INS.)—Only one of the many questions asked by Ruth Rockwell, 18-year-old Philadelphia girl, in a note left in the cabin of an airplane from which she leaped to her death near here, was answered today. That one was: "I am wondering if the newspapers will decide to devote any space to me."

All of the other problems which beset the pretty, dark-haired girl and drove her to sensational suicide remained, for the rest of the world at least, unanswered. She wondered what she would think of as she whirled to death through space; whether she would find anything in death, and if so, whether it would be the "sweet music" she sought when all her life was discord.

Inquiries among relatives of the girl, daughter of D. W. Rockwell, Philadelphia businessman, failed to elicit any reason for her act, save that she had always had a morbid curiosity regarding suicide.

E. F. Booth, commercial pilot, from whose plane the girl dropped to her death, has told his story to the authorities. She came to Valley Stream yesterday afternoon, paid $5 for a ticket and asked to be taken as high as possible.

Booth thought she was looking for a thrill, and perhaps she was, for in the notes she left behind she said that life was "futile" and that it was wrong to go on existing.

"She seemed to be in perfectly good spirits, and I didn't suspect anything when she asked for altitude," said Booth, after describing how the girl had rouged her lips and adjusted her hat before entering the plane.

"She asked me whether the doors locked from the inside, but I thought this was merely a novice's cautious question," he continued.

"When we reached 1,500 feet she tapped on my window and asked me to go higher. At 2,000 feet I felt a sudden rush of air and, looking around, saw one of the doors swinging open. I could see the girl's body hurtling to the earth below."

Miss Rockwell, distantly related to Norman Rockwell, the artist, had been staying with her brother, Donald Rockwell, at his home in Yonkers. He said his sister had been born in Springfield, Ill., and was a granddaughter of the late Senator H. P. Shumway of that state.

The girl's suicide occurred on her mother's birthday. A gift from the daughter, accompanied by a message of love, arrived at the Rockwell home just a few hours before word came to the parents that Ruth was dead.

175-Pound Buck Killed By Auto

The animal, attracted by the headlights, darted right into the machine, one section of its seven-point antlers being pushed right into the skull.

Game Protector W. E. Clark was notified, the carcass claimed by him and in turn taken to the Polk State Training School.

BUS WORKERS END WALKOUT

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Union officials late last night ordered more than 2,000 striking bus operatives to resume work on 15 metropolitan routes pending further action by the union executive. It was expected that after some dislocation in the early hours service would be fully restored during the day.

The strike developed after a dispute growing out of the employment of non-union labor. The bus companies claimed the operatives had ignored an agreement between themselves and the Transport General Workers Union.

Armistice Day crowds in the city as well as workers felt the effects of the strike doubly because of a gale of rain and wind. The strike did not affect tram services and underground trains.

Owl Pursued By Flashlights Escapes

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—Following a chase in which a half dozen residents of Main street employed flashlights, a large snowy owl, the first seen here in many years, escaped.

The bird perched on the roof of a banking house and when it was seen, efforts were made to capture it by using flashlights to blind it. As capture seemed imminent, the bird flew away in the darkness.

The ambassador, who was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Junia Culberson, will join his wife and their other children in Washington. He will return to Chile in January, he said.

ROBINSON FIRM FOR U. S. TRADE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Senator Joe T. Robinson, of Arkansas, recently chosen as a delegate to the naval arms limitation conference in London in January, said in an address here last night that security of American commerce will not be endangered by United States delegates at the conference, and declared "those anticipating such a course will be disappointed."

He also predicted if the conference is successful in further reducing naval armaments, the limiting of military establishments will be easier and will be hastened.

Senator Robinson spoke at a dinner given in his honor by Arkansas friends. He declared partisan politics had no place in the determination of international problems.

HOOVER SAYS U. S. MUST BE READY FOR DEFENSIVE WAR

DRY FUND DATA COMPILED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Work of preparing for the Senate a statement showing how $2,700,000 appropriated last spring for additional prohibition enforcement has been spent, was started at the Treasury.

A Senate resolution, calling for information as to the use of that part of the money which had been given the prohibition bureau and what results were accomplished, was delivered to Secretary Mellon. He ordered the data be prepared at once, but it will not be made public unless the Senate decides to do so.

The total additional appropriation was divided among the Coast Guard, Customs and Prohibition forces and that given the prohibition bureau was used chiefly in increasing the number of prohibition agents. No report on the exact number of new men employed has ever been made public, but it was said at the time that the money was expected to provide for about 400 additional agents.

36 Children Vanish, Police Hold Woman

VIENNA, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—The arrest of a midwife named Rosie Novy disclosed the fact that 36 children admitted to her baby farm had disappeared. PEACE TREATIES HELD STILL UNTESTED

America to Reduce Navy Only in Proportion With Others, Legion Is Told

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—President Hoover declared in an address before the American Legion last night that in every move for peace the United States would remain prepared for defensive war.

He pledged absolute parity of the American and British navies in the forthcoming London conference and promised there would be no sacrifice of American independence to attain this end.

"I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier shall ever step on the soil of our country," he declared. "We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other," he added. "Having said that it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It can not be too low for us."

It was the President's Armistice Day address. In the auditorium here and over the radio he talked to the veterans of the World War in some 12,000 posts. He reviewed the efforts of this country to bring about peace among the nations of the world.

He discarded the League of Nations as an instrumentality to end wars so far as this country is concerned, but advocated American support of the world court, under "proper reservations."

Skeptical of Peace

The President spoke hopefully of the peaceful aims of the world at this time, but pointed out with skepticism that there is nothing to warrant assumption that war will not occur again.

He was particularly emphatic in declaring that the United States would make no sacrifice of independence in seeking a warless world.

"Such a sacrifice of freedom and justice is the one calamity greater than war," he continued. "The task of statesmen is to build a road to peace which avoids both of these calamities. This road requires preparedness for defense; it equally requires preparedness for peace."

President Hoover reviewed briefly his negotiations here with Premier Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, and expressed a hope that the London conference next January would be marked with success and that there would be serious reductions in navies "as a relief to the economic burdens of all peoples."

However, he added:

"We must reduce and limit warships by agreement only. I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone."

The President made it plain, though, that even with the reduction of naval armaments, the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war, the League of Nations and other agreements and covenants the millenium is still far afield. All of them, he declared, must stand the acid test of many years before nations may safely abandon defense against war.

"Until such time as nations can build the agencies of pacific settlement on stronger foundations; until fear, the most dangerous of all national emotions has proved groundless by long proof of international honesty, until the power of world opinion as a restraint of aggression has had many years of test, there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so may invite war."

The President startled his audience by putting forward a daring suggestion which, he said, would result in material reduction of armaments.

Food Ship Immunity

This is that all food ships should enjoy the same immunity as hospital ships in time of war. He asserted that such immunity would relieve navies of a large part of their duty, the protection of such ships, and at the same time prevent starvation among innocent women and children. He made it plain, however, that this, which is a matter concerning the freedom of the seas, would not be brought up at the London conference.

"For many years, and born of poignant personal experience, I have held that food ships should be made free of any interference in times of war," the President declared. "I would place all vessels laden solely with food supplies on the same footing as hospital ships.

"The time has come when we should remove starvation of women and children from the weapons of warfare."

The rapid growth of industrial civilization during the last half century, the President continued, has created in many countries populations in excess of their domestic food supplies. Other countries have produced an excess of foods. The fear of the interruption of this sea-borne food has been a large contributing factor to the development of navies and efforts to cut it off have formed a large element in the strategy of war, he pointed out.

Throughout his address the President tempered his altruistic ambitions with the practical world situation.

"The world today is comparatively at peace," he said. "The outlook for a peaceable future is more bright than for half a century past. Yet after all it is an armed peace. The men under arms, including reserves, in the world are almost 30,000,000 in number, or nearly 10,000,000 more than before the great war.

"Due to the Washington conference and the destruction of the German navy the combatant ships in the world show some decrease since the war. But aircraft and other instruments of destruction are far more potent than they were even in the last war. There are fears, distrusts and smoldering injuries among nations which are the tinder of war.

"Nor does a single quarter of a century during all the ages of human experience warrant the assumption that war shall not occur again.

"Gloomy as this picture may be, yet we can say with truth that the world is becoming more genuinely inclined to peace," he said.

Peace Pacts Untested

The President pointed to the signing of the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war by the nations of the world as an indication of this. But even this, he added, is not an absolute guaranty of peace.

"We must frankly accept the fact, therefore, that we and all the nations of the world will be involved for all future time in small or great controversies and frictions arising out of all these multiple causes," he said. "In these controversies lurk the subtle danger that national temper at any moment may become a heat and that emotion may rise to the flaming point. Therefore, peace must be the result of unceasing endeavor."

President Hoover's reference to the League of Nations and the World Court was brief. He said the United States had renounced the league plan to make war to enforce peace, "confident that at least in the Western Hemisphere public opinion will" suffice to check violence."

On the World Court he said:

"We have need under proper reservations to support the World Court in order that we may secure judicial determination of certain types of controversies and build up precedents which add to the body of international law."

The President concluded his address with expressing the hope that the foreign relations of the United States might be established on a high foundation and the colossal power of the country be used for the promotion of peace and good will.

Robbers Get Watches, Cash in Parsonage

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 12.—Robbers celebrated Armistice Day by breaking into the First Baptist parsonage, taking $55 in cash and two women's watches.

No World War Veteran Came Out of Conflict A Militarist, Hoover Says

Here are salient bits from President Hoover's Armistice Day address:

No man came from that (World War) furnace a swashbuckling militarist.

Those who saw its realities and its backwash in the sacrifice of women and children are not the men who glorify war.

Peace is not a static thing.

We must frankly accept the fact that we and all the nations of the world will be involved for all future time in small or great controversies and frictions.

I have full confidence in the success of the conference (naval limitation) which will assemble next January.

We must reduce and limit warships by agreement only. I have no faith in the reduction of armaments by example alone.

I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country.

No American will arise today and say that we wish one gun or one armed man beyond that necessary for the defense of our people.

Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations. We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other.

The time has come when we should remove starvation of women and children from weapons of warfare.

I have no fear that we are not able to impress every country with the single-minded good will which lies in the American heart.

FESS DISCUSSES NAVAL PARITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Declaring that the United States is in a position to lead other nations in the move for world peace, Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, discussed the proposed parity in naval armament in addressing the New Jersey Teachers' Association here last night.

Assuring his 6,000 listeners that there is an honest effort on the part of both England and the United States to reach an agreement, Senator Fess said, "The difficulty is in deciding what the parity is."

"Britain's life," he said, "is on the sea; yet the United States surpasses her in commerce. We have five widely separated stations, necessitating large cruisers of 10,000 tons with eight-inch guns to travel between the sources of coal supply.

"Britain has 50 closely connected stations, and therefore needs only cruisers of 6,000 tons with six-inch guns. The question is, how many 10,000-ton cruisers do we need to be on a parity with British 6,000-ton ships."

C. W. Katchman, Mattoon, Ill., arrested with Smith, died yesterday from wounds inflicted by Patrolman Brown, who arrested him. Patrolman Davis, who answered the call for police with Brown, suffered a flesh wound in an exchange of shots with the robbers. Three members of the gang escaped.

3 HURT IN NEW N. Y. SUBWAY

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Water from a main broken by a boulder released in a dynamite blast yesterday undermined shoring supporting plank covering of an excavation for the new West Fourteenth street subway line, and in the collapse of the structure three persons were injured.

Two men and a woman, who had fallen 20 feet into the hole, were removed from the debris soon after the accident. At New York Hospital Catherine Donohue, 77, was found to be suffering from a possible fracture of the skull. H. J. Thomas, 56, suffered a sprained knee. The identity and the injuries of the second man were not immediately determined.

The excavation covering fell in two parts, the first tumbling into the excavation on the south side of the street soon after the blast, but carrying no one with it. The men and the woman were caught as the covering on the north side gave way.

A gas main burst and the air in the vicinity became laden with fumes. Meanwhile thousands of spectators had gathered at the scene, and police reserves of all nearby stations were summoned to maintain danger lines. Rescue crews were also on hand from the fire and police departments and the gas company.

FARM VALUES DUE TO RISE

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Belief that the bottom prices for farm lands had been reached was expressed by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde as he stopped off en route to St. Paul, where he will address a meeting of milk producers.

"There is certainly no boom in sight," he said, "but indications are that bottom prices for farm lands have been reached. Some authorities believe the turn of recent security markets will have the effect of making more money available for farm investments."

Secretary Hyde will return to Chicago Wednesday to address the Association of Land Grant Colleges.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

DRIVER FACES TWO CHARGES

Waldo Conrad, of 330 Elysian avenue, was facing two police court hearings today, one in the North Side police court on a charge of disorderly conduct and the other in Traffic Court for violating the automobile laws. Patrolman Ward Seanor, of the North Side station, was to be the prosecutor.

Conrad was arrested by the policeman in North avenue for reckless driving but this charge was changed to violating the automobile laws when Conrad was examined and said to be under the influence of liquor. According to the officer, Conrad resisted arrest. Patrolman Seanor was forced to use his mace in making the arrest, he said, and Conrad suffered a scalp wound.

CAPPER DRAFTS BILL TO GUARD REPORTERS

Jailing of Three Washington Newspaper Men Arouses Fear for Press Freedom

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Stirred by the jailing of three Washington Times reporters for alleged contempt of court, Senator Arthur Capper, chairman of the Senate District Committee, has started work on the drafting of an act for the protection of newspaper confidences.

The reporters, sentenced to 45 days in the district jail, were adjudged in contempt by Justice Peyton Gordon when they refused to betray confidences in connection with an expose of bootleggers and speakeasies in the National Capital.

SENATOR-EDITOR

Senator Capper, himself a distinguished editor, told Universal Service that the bill will be drafted along the lines of a similar act on the Maryland statutes, which makes a news reporter immune to duress testimony concerning the sources of any information gathered by him for publication.

Tentatively, the law reads:

"No person engaged in, connected with, or employed by a newspaper or journal shall be compelled to disclose in any legal proceedings or trial, or before any committee of the Legislature or elsewhere, the source of any information produced or obtained by him for and published in the newspaper on and in which he is engaged, connected, or employed."

BLOW AT PRESS

It was pointed out by Senator Capper that the practice of forcing reporters to betray confidences and violate the ethical traditions of the newspaper profession paralyzes the power of the press as an agency of public good, and renders the press useless to a large extent in the exposure of political and public evils.

The law will be presented to Congress for consideration at the earliest possible date, he added.

Celebrate Victory At Waynesburg

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—For the first time in four years, students at Waynesburg College will receive an athletic holiday today. The respite was granted by President Paul R. Stewart, following the Yellow Jacket football victory over Geneva College at Beaver Falls yesterday. Community and school celebration of the victory is planned here tonight.

RED CIRCLE COFFEE....is not only freshly roasted ...it's freshly ground

Red Circle Coffee has every known advantage in mellowness and flavor. It is blended from fine Coffees, selected, dried, and shipped from South America under A&P supervision; then roasted in a large centrally located plant near your home.

After roasting, Red Circle is rushed by "Time-Controlled Handling" to your local store before the rich flavor has a chance to escape. Red Circle is ground after you buy it; for, like mint, coffee when crushed yields its flavor quickly—and coffee ground far in advance cannot contain its full strength.

Red Circle is always priced far below its relative value. Have your A&P store manager grind a pound for you to suit your method of coffee making, whether "percolator," "tricolator" or just the plain old-fashioned coffee pot.

Red Circle should be your Coffee—freshly roasted, freshly ground.

The "Time-Control Plan" under which Red Circle Coffee is handled from the Roasting Plant to your local store, hurries this delicious blend to you before the flavor of fresh roasting has a chance to escape.

CHEVROLET SIX sets New Record!

Over a Million Two Hundred Thousand Since January 1st

October Sales Far in Excess of Last Year

The car buying public has made its appraisal of the Chevrolet Six—and decided that it offers a dollar-for-dollar value which stands alone.

Month after month since the first of the year, Chevrolet sales have forged ahead of the 1928 records. October, for instance, shows a remarkable increase over October a year ago.

This great success was to be expected. For, always, the public has been quick to appreciate Chevrolet's efforts to serve its owners better.

When Chevrolet brought to the low-price field those modern features so necessary to motoring satisfaction, the public's response was enthusiastic and immediate.

When Chevrolet demonstrated that a car can be both beautiful and economical—Chevrolet sales again showed a marked increase.

And now, when Chevrolet has broken every tradition of the industry and is building a fine Six in the price range of the four, it is only natural that Chevrolet sales should again climb to new heights.

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary.

Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Grid-Wild Pupils Call Firemen, Quit School

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Three fire companies responded to an alarm sounded from a box in the Altoona High School building, arriving to find, not fire and smoke, but 1,500 wildly cheering students streaming from the building. The "origin of the fire" was Altoona's football victory over Johnstown Saturday and the alarm, sounded during chapel service, was the pre-arranged signal for the break for liberty.

Only 300 students remained for the study program while their rebellious schoolmates paraded the business district and built a victory bonfire on Prospect Hill.

POWER PROFITS FOR FLATHEAD ENORMOUS

Government's Estimate Shows 20 Per Cent Likely If Montana Lease Wins

By M. L. RAMSAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Evidence tending to show the Montana Power Company would make about 20 per cent profit annually on the proposed Flathead River power development, was placed before the Federal Power Commission as it began final consideration of the project.

The company estimated its annual net earnings from the plant at $635,800, or 8 per cent on the estimated cost of $7,947,500.

Using the company's own production cost estimates, Assistant Commissioner of Indian Affairs Scattergood and Chief Accountant King of the Power Commission demonstrated that sale of the power at the same prices charged by the rest of the company's system would yield net earnings of $1,375,120.

SHARE PROFITS

An additional $200,000 a year earnings would accrue to the power company from increased production at its Thompson Falls plant, below the Flathead project, Scattergood declared. Accordingly, he put the company's real return at approximately 20 per cent, and argued that the profits should be shared with Indians, settlers and Montana ratepayers.

H. H. Cochran, company chief engineer, asserted it "would not be allowed" to earn any such return on the investment in Montana. Under sharp questioning, however, he admitted that the Montana power system earned a 12.7 per cent return in 1926 on an actual valuation of its tangible property, and more than 11 per cent on its tax valuation.

"On the face of it you are certainly not being starved under the regulation that is allowed in Montana," Scattergood commented.

TRANSMISSION HIGHER

Cochran declared transmission costs would be greater from Flathead than from other plants and earnings would vary from year to year.

Revenues for the whole system, from production of current alone, amounted to $28.75 per horsepower year, King showed from the company's figures, instead of the $18 estimated by the company for Flathead. Walter H. Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer and the rival applicant for the site, has proposed to sell current from Flathead at $15 per horsepower year.

A statement of plant values submitted by the company showed that to the $45,000,000 appraised value of its tangible property it had added $51,000,000 for "water rights, contracts, franchises, etc."

Tavern Proprietor Jailed 30 Days

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—Jack Balbersky, 25, of Canonsburg, proprietor of the Henry Clay Tavern on the National pike east of West Alexander, has been sentenced to 30 days in jail following a plea of guilty to charges of violating the liquor laws in the road house. The place has been padlocked.

Your Eyesight

and Your Family Physician

Your earning power, your usefulness in life, your capacity to enjoy living—all depend in large measure upon your eyesight. Yet it is surprising how little care people give to their eyes, how unthinkingly they abuse them.

Your family physician's advice about your eyes is just as valuable as it is for your general health—for prevention is better than cure. Many eye troubles are symptoms of maladies—about which only a physician can safely advise you.

If your eyes need medical treatment or corrective glasses, or both, the family physician will refer you to an Eye Physician. Medical science has proven this to be "The Safe Way"—and safety first is surely the best rules where your eyesight is concerned.

"THE SAFE WAY"

A PITTSBURGH INSTITUTION

Thanks You—Fellow Pittsburghers

For your loyalty in patronizing your own Mayflower Drug Stores. The week of October twenty-eighth was the largest volume week in Mayflower history. This is indeed remarkable, as the weather during the week-end was rainy and very disagreeable, and again—the past week, we broke all records, and are happy to announce that the week of November fourth surpassed all previous weeks in the volume of business transacted in your Mayflower stores.

The Mayflower Pledge

To All Metropolitan Pittsburgh

To rent an institution as well as serve the Pittsburgh public; to do both so well that no one can doubt the integrity of either.

To sell merchandise of such quality that the simple truth about it will always be an adequate recommendation, to price it so fairly that its value can never be questioned.

To co-operate with the medical profession in furthering better health among the people of Pittsburgh.

To remember that customers are more important than sales, that while a sale may be a temporary advantage, a customer is a permanent asset; that profits are legitimate only as a by-product of service.

To regard the interests of our customers and ours as one and indivisible, to place permanent satisfaction of our customers above any temporary advantage to ourselves, to win public confidence by deserving it and then regard it as a sacred trust.

To realize these purposes by adding to each piece of merchandise we sell something more than money, labor and materials, something invisible but not intangible, the super values that lie in those ultimate realities that men call love, faith, inspiratin and aspiration.

These are the values that transcend all skill of hand, that transmit the making of things, the selling and buying of them into joy of work and pride of achievement. These are the values that endure and that are the sure foundation of mutual good will.

To these purposes we dedicate ourselves and our resources and to them we pledge our honor and the honest effort of every person in our organization every day we serve you.

'Sacred Songs' to Mark Fourth Year Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor

FOUR years ago this month a lovely Pittsburgh woman saw in radio a wonderful opportunity for service.

Out of her vision grew "Sacred Songs," a 45-minute program that when introduced to the radio audience, struck an "A" chord almost immediately and brought to the pioneer station an unprecedented avalanche of fan mail.

Simplicity has been the keynote of the program's success, according to the sponsor, and in furtherance of this fundamental she has scheduled tonight a celebration devoid of sky-rockets, brass bands and rousing cheers.

The common old gospel songs led by Homer Rodeheaver, Billy Sunday's choir master, a short snappy talk by Dr. Carl Wallace Petty, a humorous poem with a moral by A. K. Rowswell—these will be the highlights.

In the program we find the sponsor's favorite song, "I Know Whom I Have Believed."

Always mindful of the children, the sponsor has included the kiddies' favorite gospel song, "Jesus Loves Me."

KDKA will carry the celebration from 7 until 8:30 and from 11 until 11:30 p. m.

Tenors—Will Rhodes, Eugene Baldrige.
Baritones—Max Kroen, Fred Newman.
Pianist—W. A. Reger.

"Messer Marco Polo."

Dramatization of Donn Byrne's fascinating story, "Messer Marco Polo." It is the love tale of Marco Polo, the great Venetian explorer, and the beautiful daughter of Kubla Khan.

In Donn Byrne's classic narrative of the travels of the adventurous Venetian the story is told by old Malachi Campbell, an Ulster Scotch Irishman, and a great weaver of tales. The vivid imagination of the gaunt and fiery old Malachi interprets richly the time when Venice was the queen of the Mediterranean while in China Kubla Khan was founding the great Mongol dynasty.

Malachi launches into his own version of the story of the proud young Venetian and of "Golden Bells," daughter of Kubla Khan, whose beauty was known throughout Asia.

Rosaline Green, "radio's first leading lady," will portray Golden Bells, and Allan Joslyn will be Marco Polo.

Trips to new WMAQ and other studios were included in the itinerary of H. J. Brennan and Robert Thompson when they attended the National Broadcasters' Association convention in West Baden, Ind., last week.

Both gentlemen returned yesterday, hale and hearty, prepared to keep WJAS at the peak of production. They brought some new ideas and a box of big black cigars which will be distributed to first callers.

DEEP WAVES: Duty aboard a submarine at sea is not as tedious as it might be, since radio came along, to brighten things up for the tars who do duty on the ocean's bottom. The crew of the U. S. S. O-9, a submarine in the Atlantic, listen regularly to WBBM, KDKA, WGY, WRVA, WJZ.

Virginia Harmon, singing on the WTAM celebration the other night, was introduced by Ace Brigode, the noted orchestra leader, as "that popular and beautiful Pittsburgh soprano."

Virginia sang selections from "Irene," posed for photos with Frank Crumit, Arthur Pryor and others, then made an early morning train back to Pittsburgh in time to meet Phillips M. Lord, author of "The Song Story," who was in town for a short visit.

Richard Burgess, operator at the WJAS transmitter out on the Steubenville Pike, is in winter training preparing to defeat "Howdy" Clark at golf next summer. Burgess tears up the turf with healthy swings while Clark, confident of his honors, remarks nonchalantly that he can still do the Sewickley course in 86.

Another piece of WJAS news is Wilbur Alexander's longing for the sunny clime of California.

The COLONIAL TELLER

Published by THE COLONIAL TRUST COMPANY in the belief that the news of a great banking institution is of wide public interest.

VOL. 1 414-416 WOOD STREET • 317 FOURTH AVENUE • 314-318 DIAMOND STREET NO. 6

HOW $35,000 ESTATE COMES FROM $10,000

Trust Executive Explains Plan Growing Very Popular.

PRINCIPAL SAFEGUARDED

A method by which a person can deposit certain securities or a sum to invest in securities with The Colonial Trust Company and immediately create an estate three or four times as large for the protection of his family is described by John W. Chalfant, Vice President in Charge of Trusts. This method is becoming increasingly popular as its possibilities become more generally understood.

Block of Securities Deposited.

Under this plan, securities are deposited in a Living Trust at The Colonial. The income from the securities is collected by The Colonial. The individual using the plan also takes out as much life insurance as can be carried by the income from the securities deposited in the trust. The Colonial uses the income to pay the insurance premiums. The income from $10,000 of securities will carry the premiums on approximately $20,000 to $25,000 of insurance on a person 35 years of age. Therefore, the $10,000 Living Trust creates an estate of from $30,000 to $35,000 as soon as the securities are deposited and the insurance has become effective.

The plan may be adjusted, of course, to persons of practically any age, whose lives can be insured and the sum of securities deposited in the Trust may vary from a comparatively small to very large amounts. The amount of insurance which may be purchased with the income varies, of course, with the age of the creator of the trust. A man of 40 years can purchase approximately $22,000 of insurance with the income from $10,000 of securities. A man of 50 can purchase $15,000 or more with the income from $10,000.

Another Plan.

A somewhat similar plan is used by those who do not have a sufficient amount of securities to set aside for such a purpose. Under this modified plan, a man takes out a policy of insurance, places it with The Colonial and then deposits with The Colonial weekly or monthly installments in excess of the amount needed to pay the premiums on the insurance. The Colonial uses these deposits to pay the premiums, invests the extra sums in securities and eventually builds up a block of approved stocks or bonds sufficient to carry the insurance premiums without additional payments by the man who created the trust.

Mr. Chalfant or any other officer of the Trust Department will be glad to discuss either of these plans with anyone who is interested, either at the bank or at any other place.

Director at Colonial

WILLIAM M. DUFF.

Among the directors at The Colonial Trust Company is William M. Duff, who is president and manager of the Edward A. Woods Company, general agents of The Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Mr. Duff is one of the outstanding figures in the insurance world. He started as a messenger boy on December 22, 1895, in the company which he now heads. He is president of the General Agents Association of The Equitable Life Assurance Society, secretary of the American College of Life Underwriters, and a director of the Pittsburgh Life Underwriters' Association and the Pittsburgh Housing committee.

Mr. Duff takes an active part in the work of The Colonial.

BIG MONEY MAY DISAPPEAR JAN. 1

Treasury Hopes to Standardize on Small Bills By First of Year.

The large-size paper money may soon be a curiosity. The United States Treasury is planning now to issue nothing but the small bills after the first of the year.

The original plan was to have the big bills practically out of circulation by mid-October, but the program fell behind and for some time the Treasury Department has been re-issuing some of the large-size money which was still in good condition.

An idea of the enormity of the task of changing over the money can be gathered from the fact that in the few months since the first small bills were issued, more than two billion dollars in the new currency has been placed in circulation.

CASH CHECKS FOR MILLION IN DAY

Single Checks For Million Dollars No Oddity.

An idea of the volume of the commercial paper which flows through modern financial institutions can be gained from the fact that it is not unusual for The Colonial Trust Company to cash more than a million dollars' worth of checks in a single day.

Indeed, individual checks for a million dollars are not a rarity.

If there are things about banks and banking which are a puzzle to you, the editors of The Teller will be glad to explain them, to the best of their ability.

Write to The Editor of The Colonial Teller, tell what you want to know and we will try to publish the answers.

SPEED MARKS PROGRESS OF BANK CHECKS

MILLIONS ARE HANDLED

There is at least one place in Pittsburgh where time is really money. That is the Pittsburgh Clearing House. The Clearing House is the general meeting place where representatives of all the leading banks in the city assemble each day to exchange the checks of other local banks which they have cashed. So much money is involved in the daily transactions of the Clearing House and it is all so vital a part of the business and financial routine of the city that if any bank's representative is late at the Clearing House that bank must pay $1 for every minute he is late.

How It Operates.

The Clearing House is of tremendous importance, and yet its functions are relatively simple. For the purposes of illustration, take the manner in which the Colonial participates in the Clearing House. The Colonial, like any financial institutions, cashes for its customers many checks drawn on other banks. It must present those checks to the other banks in order to get its money again. Instead of sending its representatives around to all other banking institutions (which would be an endless and long-drawn-out procedure) the Colonial sends two of its men to the Clearing House each morning at 10 o'clock.

The Colonial has a cage at the clearing house; so do all the other banks which are members. One of The Colonial's representatives takes his position at the window of that cage. The other moves around to the cages of all the other banks and deposits there the checks of each of those banks which have been cashed at the Colonial. Meanwhile representatives of all the other member-banks deposit at The Colonial's cage all the Colonial checks which they have cashed.

Lightning Rapidity.

As each bank's clerk drops a bundle of Colonial checks at The Colonial's cage our representative writes down the total of those checks on a large sheet. As soon as he has all of them he adds the totals and writes down the grand total.

All this is done with great rapidity, and at exactly 12 minutes past 10 o'clock a bell rings. If the accounts do not balance all the bank representatives switch places and begin to add up each other's totals. If any man has made a mistake in his column of figures his bank must pay another dollar.

Millions of dollars in checks are exchanged in 15 or, at most, 20 minutes, and are on their way back to their own banks. The work is done with lightning speed. The importance of speed can best be appreciated if you will remember that $40,000,000 or $50,000,000 or more in money may be going through there, that the interest on a total like this for even one day is a huge sum and that, if there is delay, someone has to pay that interest.

Uncanny Accuracy.

Although the totals that have to be added up are large and are always in odd sums, and although all this addition is done without the aid of adding machines, the men at the Clearing House are almost infallible. A little practice at this work, day-by-day, develops an almost uncanny accuracy and speed. Men cease to add figures two by two; they add whole blocks of figures mentally. Too much is involved to permit many mistakes; too many other men have to be held back if there is even one mistake.

If a bank takes to the clearing house a total of say $1,000,000 of checks which it has cashed for other banks, and receives $1,250,000 of checks which other banks have cashed for it, that bank turns over to the Clearing House its own check on the Federal Reserve for the extra $250,000. If, on the other hand, it receives a lesser amount of its own checks than it turned in to the clearing house, it receives a check for the balance.

James C. Chaplin, president of The Colonial Trust Company, is vice president of the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association.

Market's Condition Shows Value of Savings Accounts

Believe It Or Not—

A recent issue of The Colonial Teller told the story of a customer whose balance was $108.88 on May 29, who later made eight different deposits, who drew 15 checks for odd amounts and whose balance, by some freak of chance, was exactly $108.88 when balanced again two months later.

Another customer of The Colonial, reading of this, related to Kenneth Buffington, Trust Officer of The Colonial a coincidence that happened to him. This customer has a small coin bank which he keeps at home. Each night he places in it all the odd change in his pockets up to and including the dimes. Whenever he thinks of it, he takes the coin bank to town with him and deposits the savings. Twice in succession, the amount in the dime bank came to exactly $15.77.

Bank Book Always Worth 100 Per Cent Plus Interest.

VALUE DOES NOT DECLINE

The losses which have been suffered recently in the securities market bring home more vividly than ever the value of a saving account as a "back-log," according to James C. Chaplin, President of The Colonial Trust Company.

Those people who have steadfastly adhered to programs of regular systematic savings in their bank accounts have looked on with mingled emotions at the apparently easy and ceaseless profits that were made in securities operations. But [illegible] last few weeks the situation has been changed and the savers have been in the most secure prosition.

There is a very definite and very valuable place in our economic life for securities investments, but there is an equally definite place for savings. Many authorities agree that every man and woman should first make a determined effort to save a specified sum of money as an emergency fund, and then to keep it intact, no matter what opportunities for investment offer themselves. When that fund has been set aside, it is time enough to think of other investments.

A savings account is always ready to help you, if you need it. It is always at par plus interest. Its value is not dependent upon what the market is willing to offer for it today as against yesterday. You can always tell exactly what it is worth.

FINANCE CHIEF OF CANADA DIES

TORONTO, Ont., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—James Alexander Robb, Canadian Minister of Finance, died of a stroke he suffered late yesterday a short time after his physicians had announced he was making satisfactory progress in a fight against pneumonia. He was 70 years old.

Mr. Robb became ill three weeks ago while on a train en route from Ottawa to Toronto. Lobar pneumonia developed, but he appeared to make good progress toward recovery.

Robb was born near Huntingdon, Que., August 10, 1859. He was educated at the district school and later at Huntingdon Academy, but while still in his 'teens learned the milling trade at an uncle's mill in Valleyfield. Robb was barely 20 when the uncle died and the young man went into partnership with his aunt, forming the firm of McDonald & Robb. Under his presidency the business flourished and it still is regarded as the best equipped of the smaller mills in Canada.

Robb became mayor of Alleyfield in 1906 and two years later Sir Wilfrid Laurier selected him as the Liberal candidate to contest the constituency of Huntingdon. He won by 80 votes. He was returned to the House of Commons at all of the following six general elections, as well as by-elections in 1921 and 1926.

After the war-time election in 1917, Robb was elected chief opposition whip for the Liberal party. W. L. McKenzie King took him into the newly formed Liberal government of 1921 as Minister of Trade and Commerce.

"VERY THANKFUL FOR RESULTS FROM KONJOLA"

"Gained 20 Pounds Within Short Time After I Began With This New Medicine," Says Pittsburgh Man.

Konjola is a different medicine in many ways. It is chiefly different in that it seems at the very peak of its powers when pitted against those obstinate cases of stomach, kidney, liver and bowel ailments, which have resisted every other medicine tried.

MR. OLLIE E. SMITH

It differs, too, in that it is a medicine of 32 ingredients, 22 of them the juices of roots and herbs—work together with the sufferer's food. The organs of digestion and elimination are cleansed and stimulated, and the system is purified by the release of poisons and fermentations. Konjola is not a "cure all," there is no such medicine, but Konjola does work along with nature in the building up and stimulation of the ailing organs. Read the experience of Mr. Ollie E. Smith, 1615 Brighton Road, Pittsburgh, it is but one of hundreds which come to the attention of the two Konjola Men in your city. One of them is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and there is another at Dow's Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, Pittsburgh. They are there to explain the merits of this new and different medicine, and to show you the records of hundreds of other sufferers who have found new health through Konjola. Here is Mr. Smith's tribute to Konjola:

"For more than three years I had suffered from severe pains in the back. Nothing I could do would relieve me of the most stubborn case of catarrh, and I had come to the point where I had no appetite at all. The slightest cold would hang on for months at a time. I would become feverish and my muscles would ache and become stiff. I often found it impossible to report for my duties as taxi driver, and I finally gave up in despair.

"Three months ago I began taking Konjola and felt a change for the better after taking three bottles. I continued with this medicine and have now taken ten bottles in all. I gradually improved with each day until now I feel better than I have felt in years. I have gained twenty pounds during this time, eat what I want, sleep soundly every night and have not missed a day at my work in weeks. My long hours are no longer something to look forward to with dread. I am indeed thankful for the relief this wonderful medicine brought me, and urge any one suffering as I did, to use Konjola."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such dangerous ingredients. It is every drop pure, and every drop works.

There are two Konjola Men in Pittsburgh. One is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and the other at Dow's Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets, where they are meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new and different medicine. Konjola is also sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

BANKERS' LOOT 3 MILLIONS

FLINT, Mich., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—More than $3,000,000, said to be the largest embezzlement from a single bank in American banking history, was the sum taken by 10 or more employes and junior executives of the Union Industrial Bank of Flint for their speculations in the stock market, it was revealed here in an official statement on the progress of the audit of the shortage which has been under way for some time.

The gross theft is set at $3,592,000, but the net loss is estimated in the neighborhood of $2,000,000, which in turn is expected to be cut down by payments on certain insurance policies held by the bank.

To forestall any possibility of loss to the bank as a result of the thefts, Charles S. Mott, president of the bank and vice president of General Motors Corporation, has turned over more than $1,500,000 of his personal funds. He had previously put up approximately $1,000,000 in cash.

Prosecution of the employes involved, who are said to have used the bank's funds to speculate in the stock market, was indicated in the statement. Officials of the Flint bank and of Detroit banking houses with which it is affiliated, conferred with Rudolph E. Reichert, state banking commissioner; Prosecuting Attorney Charles D. Beagle, of Genesee County, and a representative of the attorney general's office. It was announced that "all were satisfied that everything possibla was being done to expedite matters so that prosecution may be instituted at the earliest moment."

Mr. Mott resumed the active presidency of the bank soon after the shortages were revealed.

State banking officials and local authorities as well as officers of the bank have expressed themselves as satisfied that the interests of the public have been thoroughly safeguarded.

New York 'Phone Rate Boost O. K.'d

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(INS).—An increased telephone rate for New York was ordered by the Federal Statutory Court in considering the report of Special Master Isaac P. Oeland.

While the court, in general, upheld the master's report, it ruled that the telephone company, being "a practical monopoly," was entitled to only a 7 per cent return on its property, rather than the 1 per cent recommended by Oeland.

MAN OVERCOME SAVED IN FIRE

Firemen answering an alarm for a blaze in the home of Eugene Johnston, 32, a Negro, of 7071 Wilkinsburg avenue, early today, found Johnston unconscious from smoke. They sent him to Pittsburgh Hospital, where it was said his condition was not serious.

Johnston, whose wife is ill in another hospital, was alone in the house last night.

An explosion of gas in the basement was believed by firemen to have been the cause of the fire. Difficulty was experienced in combatting the blaze, which ate its way up between the walls of the house.

Damage was estimated at $1,500.

We can do it—if you help! It's a job for us all. The relief of suffering (so much of it without any fault on the part of the sufferers) is a community obligation. Every able-bodied man and woman should help to bear it. It should be a pleasure as well as a duty. If we'll look at it this way—and everyone do his bit—we'll go over the top with ease.

The needy deserve it! The Honor of Pittsburgh demands it! CAN WE COUNT ON YOU?

The NEW CINEMA bob accentuates the north-country type of dainty Elaine Melchoir of Columbia Talking Pictures fame. Her lovely hair is a striking example to show the importance of proper care.

No trouble, now, to have soft, easy-to-manage, lustrous hair!...

MODERN hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair. Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy-to-manage. And it holds the hair in place for hours.

The consistent use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year is proof of its merit.

WILHELM SUES BERLIN PAPER

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—The former Kaiser, from his exile at Doorn, has instituted a libel suit against the editor of a Berlin newspaper. The newspaper had said that the army was supplied exclusively with Krupp guns greatly inferior to those of other firms because the Kaiser was financially interested in the former Krupp works.

"For that reason the German artillery entered the war inadequately equipped, to the enormous benefit of the private purse of the former Kaiser and at the expense of the lives of the best sons of Germany," the article said.

Circles in close touch with the former Emperor denied these allegations and said that they not only did not conform to the facts, but were a gross insult to the former military administration.

Marx Brothers Supply Fun in 'Animal Crackers' And the People Just Laugh

By GEORGE SEIBEL

HERE is the greatest mystery play of all at the Alvin Theater—"Animal Crackers," and the first mystery is why the name? There are no animals in it—not even a Polly to ask for a Cracker. But it's a good title—and the Marx Brothers do the rest.

George Seibel

The second mystery is what the plot's about. There's an explorer who's returning from Africa, where he has shot polar bears, and there's a reception in a swell Long Island home, and there's a picture that is stolen—but the Marx Brothers are quite sufficient.

Other mysteries there are galore—like Groucho's question: "Who's living in the other half of Coolidge's two-family house?" The Marx Brothers have the answer, and the curious must learn it from them.

It is even a mystery why these four Marx boys should be so funny—but they are. Harpo was evidently intended to be a little cherub, sitting on a cloud and twanging an angelic zither. Chico was apparently destined to inherit the mantle of Chopin from De Pachman. As for Groucho, he might have been a scientist expounding the Einstein theory. And Zeppo might have impersonated the Prince of Wales.

Instead, they are the four funny Marxes—a quartet of laugh-makers extraordinary—nobody cares why their show is called "Animal Crackers."

Strange Interlude

Perhaps the funniest of their funny antics is the travesty of Gene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" interjected by Groucho.

And almost as funny is the scene at the court of Louis the Fifty-seventh, when Benjamin Franklin appears and is asked by the King why his Saturday Evening Post did not reach him until Friday.

And just as funny is the skit upon detective methods, when they are attempting to trace the missing picture and end by planning a bungalow.

It is to be feared that serious-minded people, such as mathematicians and missionaries, won't find this entertainment easy to understand. They won't be able to see how Zeppo can steal another man's birthmark, and they'll conclude that Groucho dictates a letter with considerable divagation from approved business methods.

Even the very logical and eloquent demand for a seven-cent nickel will stump the Adam Smiths of Columbia and Cornell.

But they may perceive that there are dozens of shapely girls attired in festive array, and that these girls dance with dash and abandon, and that they sing also in the way that choruses of musical comedies have—and that it all moves very fast and furiously.

Isn't that enough?

Others in the Fray

Of course the Marx Brothers, while they are "the whole show," are not all of the show. Louis Sorin does some right rich comedy work as Roscoe W. Chandler, and Julian Winter is a pompous butler with suave finish. The women in the cast have good looks, fair voices, dance gracefully, and exhibit gorgeous gowns.

Bert Kalmar and Harry Ruby have furnished music, which is good as such music goes, and it need not go very far. George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind have written the book, traces of which remain behind the comicalities of the Freres Marx.

Who supplied the shoes, and the luggage, and the electrical effects, and the straw hats, and the hosiery, and the piano, is all set forth in the program—but why go into botany and zoology? The Marx Brothers supply nearly everything that is really needed—and the rest is done by the audience, which laughs, and laughs, and laughs.

And that is the last and greatest mystery of all.

College

Robert Armstrong is prominent in the cast of "So This Is College," screen attraction in the Penn.

LAURA LA PLANTE, GRAFF IN HARRIS

Capacity Armistice Day audiences applauded their approval of Victor Graff, new master of ceremonies in the Harris. Graff came to the Diamond street playhouse from an extended engagement as M. C. in the Sheridan Square. Assisting entertainers in the current stage show include Gracie Barrie, blues singer, who is on her third week; Harry Faber and Leta Wales, in a comedy bit; Cherry Blossom and June, in a novel presentation, and a dance act by Gretta Ardine and John Tyrell. The Harrisonians, new stage band aggregation, also is prominent.

"Hold Your Man," a comedy drama starring Laura La Plante, is the film feature. It chiefly concerns a wife who wanted a career, a husband who wanted to teach her a lesson, a romantic nobleman and the "other woman." Most of the action takes place in Paris.

INA TALKS, MILLS STEPS IN ENRIGHT

Ina Claire has brought a sparkling and sophisticated touch to the Enright screen this week in a picture, "The Awful Truth." It marks the talking screen debut of this wife of John Gilbert and proves to movie fans why the name Ina Claire won prominence in legitimate stage drama.

The film story concerns a married couple who decide to get a divorce. They do and then they discover they've made a mistake. Follows then efforts on the part of both to become reunited again. It is very amusing, even to the fancy pajamas on display near the fadeout.

Jay Mills and the Enright Rockets step out with a lot of dance steps in "Step This Way," the stage show. Mills and the girls put on a production number that discloses a lot of high hats and some high kicking. It's right clever. Mills also goes in for a couple of vocal displays. Two dark and slim fellows, who tap and whirl through some fast dance routine, are the best of the six or so featured entertainers who appear.

Milton Slosser hands out another organlogue and there's a short Pathe Armistice film that attracts interest.

'Porgy,' Play of Negro Life in Nixon, Reveals Many Dramatic Points

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Porgy" came back last night to the Nixon, where it was presented by the same New York Theater Guild acting company, mostly Negroes, that appeared in the latter part of last season. As on the previous occasion, the audience was much impressed with the drama exposed in the nine episodic scenes into which the three acts of the play are divided. Although the scenes are episodic, as stated, they form a kind of jumpy continuity, which, viewed backward from the final curtain, assemble themselves into a coherent whole that seems to have been fashioned out of a jumble of visions of Negro activities from crap-shooting to spiritual chants.

Uppermost in the vision will be the background of irresponsibility of the Negro into which drama comes popping so rapidly that climaxes appear to average the speed of machine gun discharges.

And it all is handled with infinite art, the art of the individual performers and the art of the director in the grouping of a numerous company which appears en masse on several occasions, making stage pictures that are impressive themselves in addition to putting peaks to situations reaching dramatic heights.

Parts Well Acted

This is especially noticeable in the final scene of the second act, when Crown, the villain of the piece, a murderer, appears in the midst of a roomful of praying Negroes, in panic as a result of storm. He has come to claim his woman, and his intrusion, regarded as blasphemy by the suppliant group, takes the form of mockery and derision that adds to the terror of those cowering before the evident power of enraged elements.

Individual honors go to Rouben Mamoulian for his directing, to Frank Wilson for his fine portrayal of the title role—that of a cripple who metes to Crown the justice in which the law has failed—to Jack Carter for his cruel depiction of Crown; to Evelyn Ellis for her vivid characterization of Crown's woman, later Porgy's, and still later the possession of a dope-peddling Negro of the city slicker type, played well by Percy Verwayne; also to Rose McLendon, wife and widow of the victim of Crown, a portrayal marked by repression and pathos, and to Georgette Harvey, keeper of a cookshop, with a personality that acts as a balance wheel.

There also are numerous atmospheric bits. Among them is Leigh Whipper's crabman. He appears on the scene for not more than two minutes. Yet when he leaves there is hearty applause as a reward for his brief exhibition in a finely drawn character part.

All in all, "Porgy" is a novel dramatic treat.

'ROSE OF PICARDY' HAS GUEST STAR AND WAR IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

The George Sharp Players have donned the olive drab and this week are snapping into a happy salute to the memory of A. E. F. days. Their presentation is titled "The Rose of Picardy" and it is a romance of war days in France. It opens with a prologue and ends with an epilogue—both laid in New York seven years "after." In between are three acts of soldier life behind the lines.

Dog dirty come a squad of men to the house of Marie Rôse and her grande pere "at the end of the road," somewhere in France. They are just out of the trenches and appear weary to death. But they brighten up a lot when they glimpse the alluring mademoiselle, known as Rose. And so, incidentally, does the audience, for Suzanne Caubaye, guest star, blooms behind the footlights as a very fascinating Rose. She has charm, talent and is, ah, shall we say, chic?

The Fighting Begins

Well, its not long until Mr. Sharp's "army" begins fighting—and yes, swearing at each other—about Rose. There's the bad boy in the squad (and, as usual, Robert Fiske gets the unsympathetic job) who means to have her by fair means or foul. Then enters the captain, heroic and goodlooking in the person of Harland Tucker, and he steals the heart of the madamoiselle. Which is a signal for the lesser soldiers to do a "retreat." And they do, all but the bad boy. It takes more than a captain's bars to frighten him. This, though, is as it should be, for if he quit the pursuing when the others did, there would be no melodramatic climax in the third act. Lost, too, would be the opportunity afforded Miss Caubaye to display emotional depths and histrionic heights that lie within her beckoning.

Many little episodes of soldier life creep in while the plot unfolds. There are the comedy touches, such as were part of the war—a comedy that contrasted strangely with the death that lurked a few kilometers away. And the soldier songs are there—championed well by a quartet from the Observatory Post of the American Legion.

Drama in Silence

Though "The Rose of Picardy" isn't a great play, it is an entertaining romance. Though the realism of the French war days at times eludes the players, the cast makes a brave effort. So we give a salute of commendation to Mr. Tucker, Mr. Fiske, Hugh Banks, Billy Link, Gus Forbes, Arthur Hayes and the rest of Mr. Sharp's "soldiers." As for those others—Miss Cuabaye, Alice Ann Baker, Norman Porter, Arthur Sprenkle and Mabel Kroman, who play civilian parts—we make a bow.

Here just one more thought. If you don't think there's drama in silence, we recommend Rose's grande pere, as essayed by Mr. Porter. He moves about the scenes, a mute reminder of another war that was. Lurking behind his make up is a drama of memories—a drama that is hopeless, yet terrific to those who have the eyes to see and the heart to feel.

GUNS BARK IN PEACE AND WAR IN FILM IN STANLEY

"The Mighty," latest George Bancroft starring picture and an all-talkie, is current in the Stanley. Mr. Bancroft plays a hard-boiled gunman, who does a loop-to-loop into a lot of war heroics and ends up by somersaulting into a law-abiding citizen.

Drafted and dragged into the service, he does all kinds of heroic things in France, rising from a private to a major and winning all the war medals on the market. Cheering crowds meet him on his return, his name is in the headlines and, coming to a city to see the family of a dead comrade, he is given the job of chief of police.

Old Gang Surprised

What happens when he runs into members of his old gang of thug days and when he begins to clean up the city make for some bullet-whizzing thrills.

The cast includes Raymond Hackett, who puts in some laughs, and Esther Ralston, who does her best to be a charming heroine.

Dick Powell, the Rockets, the stage band and numerous featured entertainers offer a peppy show on the stage. It is titled "On Parade" and sounds a note appropriate of Armistice. The Rockets do quite well in several patriotic dance routines.

Monkey Is Star

Mr. Powell and his megaphone manage a couple crooning episodes that get the applause. One of the star entertainers is a monkey, which dances the Charleston. Which, incidentally, would be more entertaining if the trainer could omit the continual pulling and jerking at the animal's leash.

Bernie Armstrong combines organlogues and questionaires in an amusing style and David Broudy has his orchestra playing tunes from "The Student Prince" as the overture.

G. A. R. Commander Discusses Reunion

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 12.—Phil Engelskirter, of Franklin, Pa., department commander of the G. A. R., conferred here with members of the executive committee relative to the state encampment to be held in June, 1930. Commander Engelskirter was pleased with the work already done by those in charge here.

COLLEGE LIFE PICTURE GETS MANY LAUGHS IN PENN BILL

Thousands of people who have never been to college went to college yesterday in the Penn, by way of the talking film in which Elliott Nugent, Robert Montgomery, Cliff Edwards and Sally Starr represent the spirit of flaming youth. "So This Is College," the picture is called, and it will satisfy all the thousands who have never been there.

Incidentally, it affords them an opportunity to be present at a football game without getting their feet tramped on or catching cold in the head.

Woes of Freshies

The most amusing scene in the production is that where two freshmen are carrying a trunk up-stairs. And there are very thrilling moments in the football game. Mostly, however, the picture derives its inspiration from "College Humor," and seems to be built upon the theory that college is a place where young idiots go to become more so. They have no profs at this California Alma Mater, nor anything else to interfere with the pursuit of petticoats and the cultivation of wisecracks.

But it's so amusing to go to college and have it all over with in two short hours.

Spelling "Bob"

Harry Savoy is the mirthful ingredient of the stage show as he tells how his name is "Bob," spelled with two o's. The two Kings do some desperate and dextrous dancing, while Irene Taylor sings blues pleasingly. A really wonderful acrobat and contortionist, whose limbs appear to be rubber and her joints ball-bearing, is another feature of the stage show.

Nat Nazarro, Jr., Dick Leibert, and Elias Breeskin contribute their share to the program—to which the news reel, with a picture of the attempted assassination of Prince Humbert and the anniversary celebration of Mussolini, lends thrilling timeliness.

'STREET GIRL' FIRST SHERIDAN FILM OF R-K-O POLICY

By CHARLES A. EARLEY

Despite the fanfare of publicity that preceded the event, R-K-O Production's initial presentation yesterday of Betty Compson in "Street Girl," in the Sheridan Square, recently acquired from the Harris Amusement Company, proved dull.

"Street Girl" has the hackneyed plot of a mythical prince and poor Cinderella done in jazz time. His kiss to her in a cabaret starts the newspaper boys phoning the city desk and the alleged Cinderella and her jazz band boys on the road to fame. The story has been used a thousand times before. Had it not been for the wise-cracking of the inimitable Jack Oakie and Miss Compson's violin numbers, plus the hot music, "Lovable," by her jazz boys, the picture would have been just mediocre. The story is negligible.

The star is cast as a former French subject and "street girl." Just as an arch-villain attempts to accost her in the doorway of a Roaring Forties boarding house she is rescued by Ned Sparks, who plays the jealous piano player of her ultimate jazz band combination. Like a knight of old he gives her food and shows her in. It develops she hasn't eaten for two days and is a violinist to boot. Among her exploits is having played the violin before the mythical Duke of Aragon.

Good Business Girl

Miss Compson becomes chief cook and bottle washer to the musical outfit and an asset in their act. She gets the boys, known as "The Four Seasons" fired and rehired at a much higher salary. The Duke appears on the scene, remembers his former violinist and she plays for him. Sparks, the piano player, is jealous of the Duke but the noble doesn't mean a thing to Betty. The Duke turns out to be a "real friend of the family" and assists in a reconciliation of the pair when the pianist walks out on the act on the opening night in a new cabaret. All ends well. In the fadeout the "Four Seasons" do their act with the girl and boy friend crooning to one another.

You'll like Gus Arnheim and his band in the big cabaret scene when they assist the lovers to fame and a big notice in Variety. Wesley Ruggles, who directed, should hold honors for making a woman's sobs with movie sound, seem natural.

Parts Well Played

Miss Compson does well with a poor story. Just due should be given Ivan Lebedeff, Joseph Cawthorne and John Harron, whose carefully-coached wise cracks get a big laugh from the audience. The production is well filmed. Most of the settings are modernistic in tone.

Completing the bill is an all-talking "Our Gang" comedy that proves the kids real actors. They do a lot of tricks with magic during a kid house party while mother's away. All get a big hand for their screen efforts. The Pennsylvania Railroad comes in for a slice of screen publicity with the showing of a trip on the "Broadway Limited" with sound effects. The photography is bad but the synchronization is good. An Aesop sound Fable is cleverly done.

Villian

Jack Carter plays the "heavy" role in "Porgy," New York Theater Guild drama of Negro life playing its second engagement in the Nixon.

LANKY GARY COOPER EFFECTIVE AS 'VIRGINIAN'

"The Virginian," in the past much in evidence as a hero of a novel, a stage play and a silent movie, now is making his bow as a screen talker in the Grand. And the newest delineator of this Owen Wister character is none other than the long and slim Gary Cooper.

Young Mr. Cooper is pretty effective. He looks and acts the role of a cowpuncher with a neat display of histrionics. And when he comes out with that famous "Smile when you say that" you want to cheer.

Great Open Spaces

The story, of course, is so well known that it needs little attention here. It concerns—in a general way—men of the great open spaces, good and bad, and their liquor and their women. Chiefly involved are the Virginian; his pal, who strays from the straight and narrow to a hangman's noose; a school marm, whom they both admire, and one Trampas, a bad, bad cattle rustler.

Richard Arlen does well enough as the straying cowpuncher. Walter Huston doesn't impress as being very keen as Trampas. And Mary Brian doesn't register more than lukewarm as the school marm heroine.

Some good atmospheric scenes, lots of two-gun action and splurges of humor, especially that when the cowboys mix up the babies at a christening, are the entertainment features.

THRILLING FEATURES IN METROTONE NEWS

Among the most amazing pictures ever produced in sound are those showing the recent attempt made upon the life of Crown Prince Humbert, of Italy, on the occasion of his visit to Brussels when the announcement of his betrothal to Princess Marie Jose, of Belgium, was made. These pictures are shown in the current issues of Hearst Metrotone News and Fox Movietone News.

Among the other outstanding subjects in Hearst Metrotone News is a pictorial interview with Julius Rosenwald, of Chicago, famous leader of industry and philanthropist, who states that despite the fact that he lost heavily in the recent depreciation of values in the stock market, he has not lost faith, but has full confidence, in the future welfare of American business; the celebration of the seventh anniversary of Fascism in Italy with Mussolini addressing a throng of more than 60,000 assembled in the historical ruins of ancient Rome; an amusing expose of "ghosts" and spirit frauds by Dunninger, the expert; Mrs. Coolidge delivering a message of cheer to wounded war veterans, and a thrilling race at the United Hunts.

'HOLLYWOOD REVUE' OPENS FINAL WEEK

"The Hollywood Revue" opened the third and last week of its engagement on the Aldine screen Monday. This photoplay, as the name implies, is distinctively of the revue type from beginning to end, and not a presentation of revue scenes as incidents to a general story. It is a singing, talking, dancing picture with many stars, including Marion Davies, John Gilbert, Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Bessie Love, Marie Dressler, Jack Benny, Ukulele Ike and others They appear in varied specialties and production numbers.

'DOPED BANDITS' SOUGHT IN HOLDUP

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

GROUCHO MARX, of the Four Marx Brothers at the Alvin this week, intended to write his impressions of Pittsburgh for Sidewalks, and while he missed the theme ever so slightly, he is such a keen wit that we believe you'd like to hear from the famous comic. He writes for Sidewalks:

Havey J. Boyle.

"Outside of a minstrel show I have never been in a theatrical troupe where the ingenue didn't carry her mother.

"Outside of an alley in Constantinople there is no frowzier, or more depressing sight than the stage door of the legitimate theater.

"I have never seen a company manager who didn't have a stomach and a black string on his pince-nez.

"It has gotten so that even an audience understands cracks about the stock market.

"Every local stagehand is proud and eager to tell you that this is the toughest audience to make laugh on the entire circuit.

"For every society person in the show business there are three show persons in society.

"You can always judge the class of a musical show by the breed of dogs the ladies carry.

"I have never seen a Greek restaurant that didn't display grapefruit in the window.

"Nothing gets as big a laugh as a cat walking across the stage.

"Nearly all character actors sell insurance as a side-line.

"Despite the press agent, chorus girls who read Barnard Shaw are as rare as chorus girls who read.

"Ninety per cent of all stagehands have moles on their left cheek.

"I have never eaten in a tearoom where the lettuce was not wilted.

"The best looking girls in the show usually fall for the property man.

"Any trunk will wear out playing night stands.

"The same orchestra will sound twice as bad in a cafeteria.

"I think the 13-month calendar is just propaganda for the Book of the Month Club.

"Abraham Lincoln freed the colored people, but Carl Van Vechten discovered them."

Our own observations about Mr. Marx's realm, the theater:

We never see a 'cello but that we get prepared to hear "Silver Threads Among the Gold."

We have never seen a toe dancer who was strikingly pretty.

Ticket takers always seem to be sore because you want to see the show.

With the average audience the male member of a mixed dancing team could sprain an ankle or take a fit without getting any notice.

The average audience would trade three hours out in front for 20 minutes behind the scenes, preferring, it would seem, the hairy arms of scene shifters, a commonplace remark by the comedian on his way to the dressing room, or a sight of a chorus girl climbing the steps to the dressing room, to the well-ordered routine of the production; the dancing of the girls, and the witticisms of the comedian. A fortune awaits the man who can provide for and sell seats back tage.

31 CHARITIES TO OPEN DRIVE

700 Workers Will Rally Tonight in Effort to Raise $1,168,000 Fund

Seven hundred men and women, workers in the annual Welfare Fund drive for $1,168,000, will attend a dinner in the William Penn Hotel tonight, marking the opening of the drive which closes November 22.

Money collected in the drive will be distributed among 31 philanthropic bodies in Allegheny County.

WORKERS INSTRUCTED

Instructions to the workers will be given by Wilbur F. Maxwell, executive secretary of the fund, and A. K. Oliver, president, and Joseph Dilworth, campaign chairman, will sum up the aims of the drive.

Other speakers will be Mrs. John M. Phillips, G. C. Coolidge, Mrs. John C. Dilworth and F. J. Chesterman. E. W. Smith will be toastmaster and Dean Percival G. Kammerer, of Trinity Episcopal Cathedral, will offer the invocation.

BOYS PLACING FLAGS

Three hundred boys from the Boys' Club in Lawrenceville were engaged today in erecting 4,000 flags in Pittsburgh and surrounding towns, calling attention to the launching of the annual Welfare Fund campaign.

The flags are suspended from the poles used on the sidewalks on patriotic holidays. Some of the boys said merchants on whom they depended to furnish the poles were slow to produce them. The poles were in the basements of their stores, but they showed no alacrity when asked to get them. An appeal was made by Welfare Fund officers for the co-operation of those having poles.

Escape With $450 in Bold Squirrel Hill Theft; Both 'Under Influence of Dope'

Police and detectives today were combing the city for two armed bandits, believed to be dope addicts, who shortly after midnight stood 26 persons at bay in a holdup at Fishel's Tea Room, in the Morrowfield Apartments, 2701 Murray avenue.

The pair, with caps drawn to their eyes, walked to the cash register in the front part of the room and began rifling it when the manager, Samuel St. Phillips, asked them what they were doing.

GET CASH FROM SAFE

Believing them jokesters, St. Phillips attempted to eject them from the place when they drew revolvers and commanded the manager, four employes, and 22 customers to remain quiet.

After scooping up the cash from the register the pair went to a safe several feet away and finding the door unlocked, looted it of approximately $450.

ESCAPE IN AUTO

After obtaining the loot the men backed out of the tea room, warning the occupants against an outcry. They ran down Murray avenue, and were believed to have made their escape in an automobile.

"I thought they were joking when they first walked into the place and opened the cash drawer," St. Phillips told police. "When I attempted to put them out they shoved revolvers against my side and ordered me back, and then shouted at the patrons to remain quiet. They undoubtedly were under the influence of narcotics," St. Phillips continued.

Woven Objects Offered To Aid Foster Fund

By PENELOPE REDD

Pioneer necessities are modernized urban luxuries at the exhibition of handwoven articles presented by Mrs. Edward B. Lee through November 18 in her home at 4630 Fifth avenue.

Mrs. Lee, whose husband, Edward B. Lee, is a distinguished architect, has long followed weaving as an avocation. Mrs. Lee, a prominent member of the Women's Alliance, the New England Colony of Women and the Tuesday Musical Club, is disposing of her woven objects as her contribution to the Stephen Collins Foster Memorial Fund. To this end she has worked for the past six months in Pittsburgh and at her summer home in Kingston, Cape Cod, where she wove many textiles on the 200-year-old loom at Bradford House.

Penelope Redd.

The several hundred objects now assembled for exhibition show colonial overshot weaving with the pattern in relief on the background. The colors are not limited to the original sumac and indigo dyes but combine every imaginable variation. The textiles are made up into a great variety of objects for modern use.

Thus we find the monk's belt pattern, in bronze and also in the familiar colors of the famous universities, adapted to the cover of a

The Camera Question Box

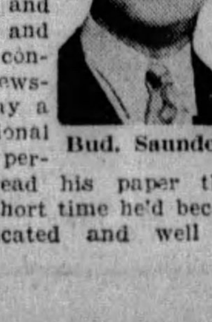
The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's question: What section of your daily newspaper do you read first?

JANE FICHT, 3610 Evergreen road, singer: "Women's features and department store advertising are first, I read the advertisements to see the latest in women's features because I get a lot of new ideas for things that really interest me. General news, the daily serial story installment and the comics I read afterwards."

Jane Ficht.

BUD SAUNDERS, 232 Fifth avenue, florist: "Right now I read the financial news first. Ordinarily I read page one news and features. In rotation, as regards their importance to me, come sports, columnists, display and classified ads and the comics. I consider the newspaper of today a real educational force. If a person would read his paper thoroughly, in a short time he'd become liberally educated and well informed."

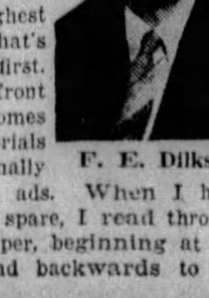


Bud. Saunders.

J. R. PURVIS, 110 Jackson street, Bellevue, supply man: "Being a sports fan, naturally I turn to the sports section first. After I read the comments on all the subjects I'm interested in, I turn to the general news section. If, after reading the news, I still have any time left, I read the editorials and the columnists' stuff. After that come the ads and comic section."

J. R. Purvis.

F. E. DILKS, Oneida street, Duquesne Heights, organ and piano tuner: "I have dabbled somewhat in stocks and bonds, so my first interest is to see how they are faring out on the 'big board.' I hold the financial section in highest regard and that's what I read first. General front page news comes second, editorials next and finally the classified ads. When I have some time to spare, I read through the whole paper, beginning at the first page and backwards to the end."



F. E. Dilks.

JOSEPH L. FISHER, 4034 Cloverlea street, Brentwood, power company executive: "I read the financial page first. Ordinarily I read the news sections, but right now the stock market trend is real news to me. In their relative importance come financial news, general news, display and department store advertising, editorials, Broadway columnists and the cartoons."

J. L. Fisher.

C. WACHTER, 928 Mellon street, carpenter: "Quin Hall's timely cartoons on local subjects interest me most. General news comes second. I always read display advertisements, as they give me a chance to buy things I want without going to stores that don't advertise to make inquiries on how much the articles cost. I read the comics last. I'm a football and boxing fan. When there's a big fight or game I read all about it in the sports section."

Governorship Aim Scoffed By Gen. Butler

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler characterized as "propaganda" a report that he would become a candidate for governor of Pennsylvania.

In an address dedicating a new club house of the John F. Dehaven Post of the American Legion, the head of the Marine Corps said the politicians do not want a soldier "because we try to do what we agree to do."

"I do not believe in war," he said, "but as long as the world is as it has been we will be always open to war."

Will Rogers Says

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 12.

Yesterday, the day that I was writing this, is no doubt the greatest day in all the world history, Armistice Day, when you think that a half dozen men could sit down and casually sign a pact to stop millions of men from killing each other.

But if they don't stop these guys making these speeches over the radio on Armistice Day, why we are liable to have the same war over again, only worse.

If Armistice Day had stopped speeches it would have done more good than to have stopped war, for speeches is what starts the next war. It's not armament, its oratory that's wrong with this country.

Yours,

WILL.

FIRE ON DARLINGTON ESTATE BLAMED ON HUNTERS

NIMRODS SEEK SHELTER FROM STORM

Three Frame Buildings Destroyed by Blaze, With Loss Put at $25,000

Hunters seeking shelter from a light rain last night were believed to have been responsible for a fire which burned three frame buildings on the Darlington estate, a mile from the Glenfield station, used during the summer by the Woods Run Settlement.

Loss was estimated at $25,000 by William Bruce, caretaker, who lives a short distance from the burned buildings.

The flames were discovered about midnight. Firemen from Glenfield and Emsworth were called, but, due to a grade leading to the buildings, they were unable to reach the fire.

One of the buildings was a two-story structure, used as a dining hall and for sleeping quarters. The others, one-story buildings, were used as kitchens and recreation rooms.

E. A. Costello, state forest warden, said that the fire would have spread to a thick woods near by had it not been that the rain had wet the grass.

zipper tobacco pouch for the menfolk. The dogwood pattern is woven in cotton for country club bags to accompany women's sportswear. Sturdy woolen town bags in the spider design are appropiate for shopping.

Mrs. Lee originated a form of weaving, similar to old Italian cut velvet, in her chenille work adapting the chariot design for matron's afternoon bags. The windflower pattern in gold and silver is appealing to debutantes for evening. The white, silk-woven bride's bag, in the honeysuckle design is mounted, Chinese-fashio.. with silver bars.

The quaint pincushions and scarfs for grandmother's bureau are in the sun, moon and stars pattern; while the homespun crib coverlets for the baby are embroidered with the traditional Cape Cod "rose corners."

"All of these modern adaptations of colonial patterns," said Mrs. Lee, "are made in the same manner, as were those of my great-great-grandmothers.

"Weaving was their household music. For to me the craft resembles music from the time one threads the needle eyes, by reading the written design which looks like Georgian music with its block-like notes; through the throwing of the woof wound shuttle through the warp, and the final threading of the pedals as the shuttle moves.

"The whole has a silent rhythm that eventually reveals itself in the design."

ELECTRIC SHOP BURNS IN R. R. YARDS

Adjoining Thirtieth Street Buildings Threatened As Firemen Battle Blaze

Fire originating in the electrical shop in the South Thirtieth street yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad, threatened adjacent shops before it was extinguished by firemen who responded when two alarms were sounded late last night.

The blaze spread rapidly to another section of the building, one-story frame and corrugated sheet iron, facing Carson street, in which the store of the Mutual Beneficial Association is housed.

Employes who discovered the flames summoned firemen and fought the blaze with company equipment until the arrival of the engines. In less than 30 minutes the fire was extinguished.

The NEW 50c Colgate Toothbrush

GIVEN AWAY

Two 25c Tubes of Colgate Ribbon Dental Cream

$1.00 value for 50c

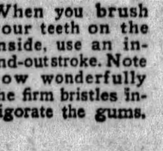
FREE OFFER: To induce still more people to try Ribbon Dental Cream ... the scientific dentifrice with the foaming, penetrating action ... we make this remarkable offer. Only Colgate ... world's largest maker of tooth paste ... could finance such a proposition. The resources and guarantee of this hundred-million-dollar firm are behind this deal. There is no "catch" to this offer. Colgate simply wants you to try Ribbon Dental Cream. To repay you for doing this, we offer you a genuine new Colgate Toothbrush ... as described ... actual value 50 cents ... ABSOLUTELY FREE!

SAVE 50 CENTS

The Colgate brush has amazing penetrating, cleansing power ... because the bristles are scientifically serrated ... tufted ... to get into the tiny fissures, crevices and hard-to-reach places where ordinary toothbrushes fail to penetrate.

Brush teeth with this up and down motion, advise dentists. The new Colgate Toothbrush was specially designed to make this action doubly effective. Do not brush across the teeth.



When you brush your teeth on the inside, use an in-and-out stroke. Note how wonderfully the firm bristles invigorate the gums.

The brush

This tooth brush — the newest, most advanced type known to dental science — was designed by the Colgate Department of Dental Education ... a group of dentists who have studied the needs of hundreds of thousands of men, women and children.

Examine this brush. Study its shape, its size, its bristles. It is made by skilled American workers ... under the most sanitary conditions ... from selected, imported snow-white bristles of finest quality. Every brush is carefully inspected. Handles are of lovely transparent material, in 5 exquisite shades of green, purple, amber. Bristles are held in a firm vise-like grip that never loosens.

This brush is identical in quality, in size, in durability to nationally advertised brushes that sell regularly in the better stores at 50c. Now yours free with this unique offer.

The dentifrice

Colgate's Ribbon Dental Cream is the world's largest-selling tooth paste. More people use it ... and more dentists recommend it ... than any other dentifrice.

The reason for this is simply that Colgate's cleans teeth better. Colgate's contains the world's best cleansing agent — a penetrating foam that cleanses where the toothbrush cannot reach.

Your dentist will tell you that decay doesn't start on the smooth outer surfaces of the teeth ... but in the tiny crevices where food particles and mucin collect.

No tooth brush can reach these hard-to-clean places. They must be cleansed by the dentifrice. Hence the real test of a tooth paste is its ability to get down into these crevices and cleanse them thoroughly. A scientific test recently proved that Colgate's has greater penetrating power than any of the leading tooth pastes on the market today — the secret of Colgate's superior cleansing power.

The foam of Colgate's carries a fine chalk powder ... a polishing material prescribed by dentists ... which polishes the enamel safely, brilliantly.

The Colgate method of scientific tooth brushing

After years of study and thousands of experiments, the Colgate Method of scientifically cleansing the teeth has been developed by the Colgate Dept. of Dental Education.

This Method is most effective when Ribbon Dental Cream is brushed on with the Colgate Brush. For the springy, serrated bristles, set at exactly the right distance, act in a way that applies the full, concentrated cleansing power of the famous Colgate foam ... deep down into the "hard-to-clean" places. Only thus can you be sure of cleaning these difficult spots where decay lurks.

Start today to use the Colgate Method of Scientific Tooth Brushing ... and note the difference in your teeth ten days hence.

NOTE!

This offer is strictly limited. The supply of brushes has been rigidly allotted to the stores which are co-operating in this great offer. They will not last long ... once people read this announcement. So, act NOW! It may be months or even years before we can repeat this amazing proposition.

According to the Fulton's alleged confession, he was cleaning a gun in the cellar of his home Sunday night when the weapon was accidentally discharged. The bullet passed through the window and struck McKinney in the neck.

The first report from the victim's playmates advanced the theory that the boy had caused the bullet to explode by holding a lighted match to it. Later it developed that McKinney had been shot while walking near the Fulton boy's home, which resulted in his arrest, according to police.

450,000 AUTOS AWAIT TESTS IN 4 DAYS

Arrest and Fine Facing Motorist Who Drives Car That Is Not Inspected

Approximately 450,000 motorists must have their cars inspected within the four-day period remaining until midnight Friday, according to Benjamin Eynon, head of the automobile division of the State Highway Department. If the present rate of inspection is kept up, it is hardly likely that more than 50,000 motorists will have their machines inspected.

The remainder will not be permitted to use their machines until December 16.

Each motorist who drives his uninspected machine after Friday will be subject to arrest and a $10 fine. The Pittsburgh Motor Club has figured that should the 400,000 motorists turn in $10 each, it would be better to save lives rather than have $4,000,000 for road building.

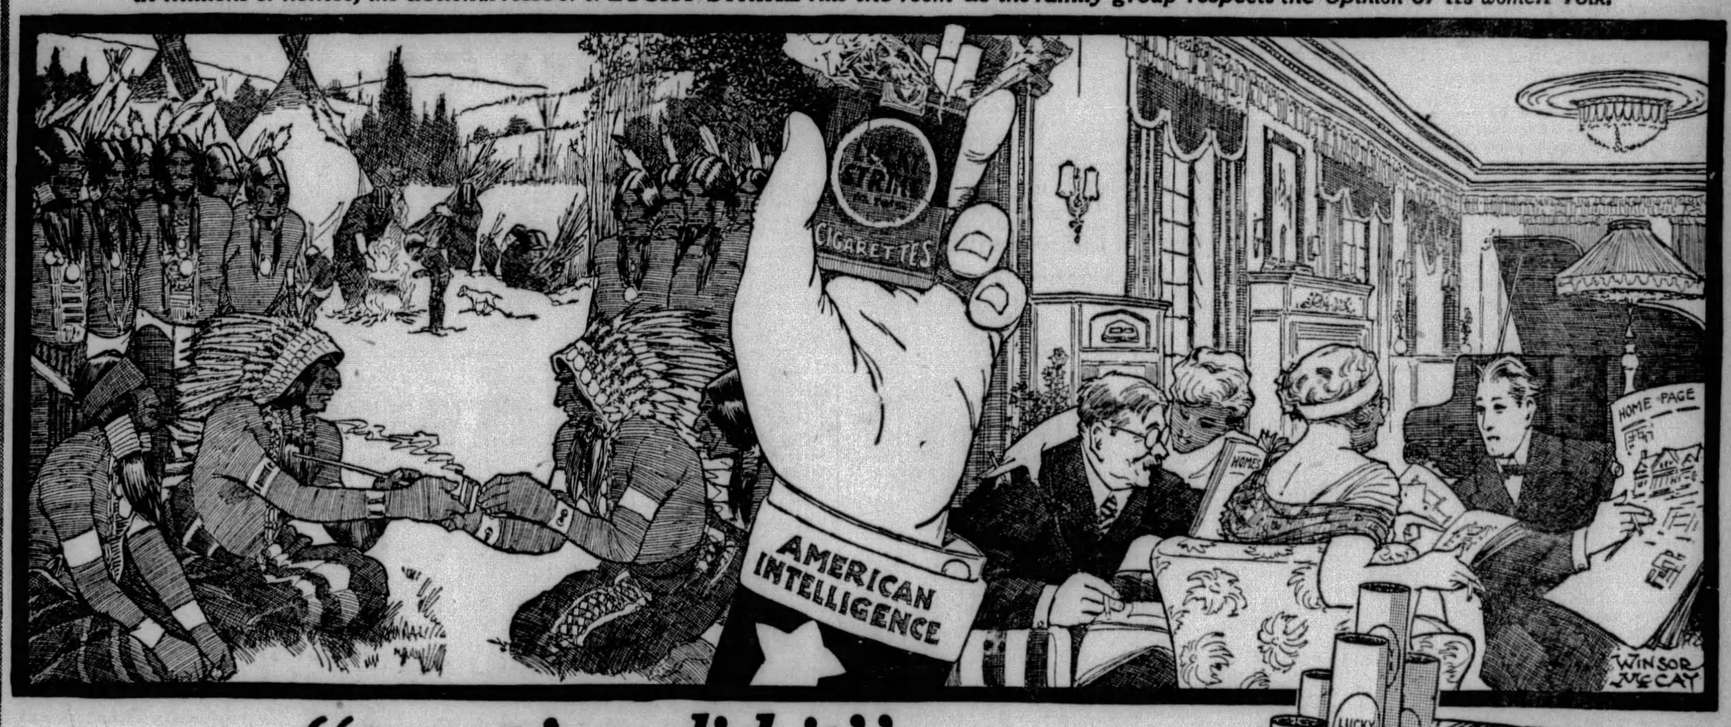
Women Have Something to Say!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE has ridiculed into oblivion that ancient prejudice which excluded women from a voice in council. To-day, in millions of homes, the delicious flavor of LUCKY STRIKE fills the room as the family group respects the opinion of its women folk.



"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

Pat Wonders If Elliott Is Moved by Beauty of Barbara Bryce

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, pert, young, demi-brunette, sees her little brother, Dickie, fall to rise after a dive in the lake. Pat brings up the apparently lifeless body. All hope seems gone when suddenly an airplane sweeps down out of the sky. Pat's father arrives with Guy Elliott, a tall, handsome youth as pilot. Quick action follows and Dickie recovers. Later Elliott kisses and takes Pat for an air ride. Happy days follow, with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce with the seductive lure of shadowy eyes. She is the widow of young William Bryce, whose father owns the airplane factory where Guy works. While trying out her new plane, Barbara has an accident but is saved. In the excitement, Guy forgets an appointment with Pat. Later, while airplaining with Guy, Pat has a glimpse of Barbara in another plane.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VI.

THEY landed and sat a moment in the cockpit. The silver plane circled above them. It looked so free, so triumphant and joyous.

"Oh, isn't she game!" said Pat, filled with admiration.

"Very. Too much so at times. It will be dark in a very few moments now. She should come down."

"Ah," thought the girl. "A winged creature, brave and beautiful!"

"Look—pretty, isn't it? An absolutely perfect landing! Come, we have to go over and congratulate her on her new plane and her recovery." He gave Pat no chance to demur, but rushed her across the field to Barbara's plane.

She was just climbing out. It seemed to Pat that she drew up ever so slightly in astonishment when she perceived the two of them.

Carelessly, as though Pat were his little sister, Guy introduced them, and he kept Pat's hand tucked for a moment in his arm—as he had caught it to rush her across the field. She felt glad for that.

"So you got your new plane, Mrs. Bryce, and it's a beauty. You're a very brave lady, indeed."

"They tested this out pretty thoroughly. Besides, I was so overjoyed to get it." Barbara pulled off her gloves and rested a slim, delicate hand on the wings. "I wish you'd hurry with your plane. Father tells me the new design soon will be out. You're rushing the work. That's fine news. I've put in my order for the first one finished." She glanced with a winning smile, and for the first time directly at Pat: "Better hurry, Miss Dawn, and call for the second. You're a pilot in your own right?"

"No, I'm not; but how I'd love to be! What a thrilling sense of power to guide a ship through the skies. I doubt, though, that I'd ever have nerve enough to jump as you did. That was wonderful."

"When it's a case of jump or die, most of us jump. It's not courage, but instinct. Just the will to live. We've all got that—even the blackest pessimists," said Barbara as they walked to her machine, "this will to live—this hunger for happiness."

She swung along, a little taller than Pat. Now and then she turned those dark eyes on her and gave a little soft laugh. She went on talking in this strain—easily, pleasantly. Pat liked it when the pale face looked to hers for confirmation. She thought she had never seen anyone so pearly white or any hair so gold. And the eyes were deep and beautiful and most mysteriously sad.

They seemed to follow as Barbara waved them good-by. She sat musing at the wheel of her automobile. And her eyes followed Pat and Guy.

"He must love her! A woman like that—" thought Pat as she settled quietly in Guy's small car. She felt warm with a strange, tremulous disturbance.

They drove without talking. And the silence between them seemed full of a rich, dark music—Barbara's voice.

"Why doesn't he talk?" whispered Pat's overcharged heart. Oh, why aren't all manner of important things being said?

Already she could see the hill—and now they were rounding the curve—coming right up to the garden hedge.

He yawned—stretched out his arms, looked down at her and laughed.

"You're pleased, aren't you? And it's very gorgeous—now your plane will be produced. Aren't you very thrilled?"

"I am, indeed."

"What shall you do when all your dreams come true?"

"Live happy ever after, my darling Pat, unless you go down there to Stanford and forget me. Pat, shall you play at love with all the handsome college chaps?"

"I suppose so."

"Oh! Carelessly like that!"

"Well—they say one learns of these and those from this and that."

"Is it necessary to learn such things?"

In the dark she could feel his challenging, almost angry eyes. But she answered sharply: "Men think so! You'd be ashamed to admit it if you'd never kissed a girl."

"Oh, well, kisses—sweet meat."

"But when you start with kisses—" she flashed. "Oh," she went on, suddenly afire with unhappiness, "I wished I lived a hundred years ago when it was all decided for a girl. And a man came with an old-fashioned bouquet and a stovepipe hit. He made a grand bow and hardly dared kiss the tips of her fingers until it was all settled and the fiddlers were tuning up for Lohengrin."

"Really wish that, Miss Pat? How would I look making the grand bow and presenting the cabbages?"

She rested her elbows on the hedge and answered moodily: "I guess we have to live in our own epoch. One has to meet issues. And a girl can't be a wet smack. Morals are all a matter of geography, anyway! So when it's the fashion to kiss we should kiss. When it's the vogue to neck—let us neck?"

They stood in the shadow there by the old pepper tree. Above them the moon swam on a river of glowing jade. Pat looked up to it hungrily. There escaped from her a swift, troubled sigh. She found, at that moment, the young man's eyes, dark and intent, searching hers.

He laughed softly and caught her to him: "Pat, you little liar! You little darling. You think nothing of the kind!"

She reached up and closed her hands tightly about his neck. "Oh," she whispered against her brown, tingling ear, "You're glorious! You're just—just beautiful—" She thought she would die of the rapture when his lips closed on hers.

Pat stood in her room. The green silk evening dress lay on the bed. Laura had worked all day to finish it.

Pat touched it. The dress stood in her mind now for the four years that would stretch between her and life. She must go to college—fit herself for independence. Richard Dawn had no fortune. Only the money he earned month by month. Sometimes the struggle had been hard enough. He was determined that his Pat should never be helpless or stranded if a dark day came and he not here to guard her.

Yes—she must be ready to make her own way. They were doing their part—beautifully—they always had.

Why, when they bought this house here, putting most of the ready cash down for the first payment, there hadn't been a great deal left over for the furnishing. Both Richard and Laura had been much more piercingly concerned that Pat should have her room as she wanted it than that their own should suit.

Pat wanted dark furniture in Spanish renaissance. She wanted a rich old chest with carvings. She read the home and garden magazines and had many pictures in her mind.

One day she and her mother went to Monterey. They'd heard of an old Spanish family who had just the things and would sell them.

Pat felt guilty because the price was quite a bit more than they'd counted on. But oh, how she wanted that quaint bed with the low posts all turned by hand . . . and the lovely old coverlet in bizarre stripes of green and peach-gold.

It was in her room now, and it looked as though it grew there, so nicely it went with the rough plastered walls, toned to a mellow apricot, and with the dark oak floor. She had the chest, too, and drapes that hung like sunlight on the windows.

Richard and Laura deserved a worthy return.

Ah, yes—she would certainly want to be a fine, successful person. They expected this of her.

But she went now to the miniature balcony just outside her window. She leaned on the iron railing and looked down to the shadowy trees. Old, old trees, but so ever young, so touched with deep, eternal tranquility.

Pat looked to the trees and felt Guy's lips, young, sweet, ardent laughing and closing on hers.

She fancied herself walking down a lane with him. The world and its beckonings . . . its lure and promise all brushed aside. Only a girl and a man. In the glowing and lovely distance a little home, a little child.

Pat saw herself so and thought with a pang: "That's what I want. That's all that I want! Dear God, let me have him!"

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Dickey Interrupts Madge's Last Romp With Junior.

AT Junior's hesitancy, his patent inclination to stay in his grandfather's room instead of coming with me to the orchard for a last romp before my departure to the city, I turned toward the door with a quiet, "Very well, dear, come out later," which masked one of the unhappiest moments of my life. The bitterness of it was not lessened by my full realization of the absurdity and pettiness of my emotion.

My father made no comment whatever while I remained in the room. But he must have said something most effective to Junior as soon as the door was closed behind me, for I barely had reached my own room before I heard my small son pelting down the hall, calling me frantically, and the next instant he had flung himself upon me with a tempestuous hug.

"I didn't really want to stay and play pirate," he said. "I just want you, Mums, darling."

His tone rang with sincerity, and I put from me the unworthy suspicion that some admonition of his grandfather's had aroused contrition and that he was trying to "make up" to me for his reluctance to leave his play. With his dear young arms hugging me tightly, I crushed down my secret resentment and returned his hug enthusiastically.

"And I just want you, Sweetheart," I told him. "We're going to have a splendid romp in the orchard."

He ran for his cap and coat, and coming back, escorted me proudly out-of-doors and through the yard into the orchard at the rear of which he had built a fearsome and wondrous camp of old boards and barrels. It is a structure all his own, for Dicky and I decided that to help him with it, even to provide new lumber for it, would spoil his initiative and his resourcefulness. As a result his pride in it is unbounded, and he plays the host with an air of possession which is adorable or ludicrous, depending upon whether the guest is an admiring relative or just an acquaintance.

We have had many wonderfully enjoyable hours—my small son and I—in front of this camp, for its proportions do not admit adults unless folded up like jack knives. I looked around the lovely orchard with a return of my sadness. When I should next see it with Junior, I feared the last trace of the Summer-like Autumn would be gone, and the trees bare. My original plan had been to spend almost every week-end at the farm, but the bizarre complications which had come into our lives with the plot against Prince Georges would make it necessary, I knew, for me to stay at the hotel until the danger was over, no matter how long an absence it entailed from the farmhouse—and my small son.

I had not meant my boy to see my mood, but his eyes were too quick for me. The smile with which I turned to him and asked: "Well, dear what shall we play first?" did not deceive him. His eyes grew wide and the grin faded from his face.

"Mums, tell me something," he said. "When are you coming back? Next week?"

I anathematized the thoughtlessness which had let my mask slip. I could not lie to him, but I did not wish to alarm him by telling him the truth.

"It's the middle of week, now, dear," I told him hurriedly. "We'll hardly get in there and comfortably settled before next week. And you'll be so busy with your lessons that you'll hardly know we're gone."

"Not know you're gone?" he repeated with a mournful emphasis that brought a lump to my throat. "What kind of a boy do you think you've got? You're my mother, and you think I wouldn't know you were gone! Won't you know that I'm gone?"

His voice was choky by this time, and I held out my arms to him.

"What do you think?" I asked softly, and he rushed into my arms with a sob which he quickly conquered, for he is trying hard to live up to the standard of "being a big boy."

"I'm going to miss you every minute," I told him earnestly, realizing intuitively that this was the assurance his heart demanded. "And I know you are going to miss me. But there are reasons, which I will explain to you—"

"When I'm older, I suppose," Junior interrupted rebelliously. "I hate that."

"I wasn't going to say 'older' but 'later,'" I explained, refraining from reproof. Not with any discipline would I mar this last visit with my child. "They are reasons which I could not tell you now if you were much older than you are. And they will make me stay away from you this winter, though I would much rather be right here. But we cannot always do as we wish to do, my darling. I have taught you that."

A shadow fell behind me, and I looked up to see Dicky smiling down at me sardonically.

"Wonderful thing to be able to fool yourself into believing that inclination is duty," he said.

Sponge Cake

Sponge cakes must be baked in an oven in which the heat can be regulated—hot at first, then kept at a moderate uniform heat. Eggs whose whites are to be beaten to a dry froth must be more than twenty-four hours old, and should be kept as cold as possible. Never leave the whites of eggs to stand after they have been beaten to the required point of frothiness; mix them into the cake at once.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Careless Letter

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to know the correct way for a boy of 17 to make a date of any kind with a girl of about that age.

Excuse mistakes and the mess.

N. T.

A BOY of 17 is, or should be, a gentleman, and should ask the girl if he may come to see her in the same way as his older brother would ask a girl of similar age. That is, it would be natural for him to say simply, "May I come to see you on Tuesday afternoon?" or, "Will you take a walk with me next Sunday afternoon?" or, "Will you go to the Senior dance with me on the fifteenth of December?" I do hope that you can go."

And now, young man, I'm going to scold you. To begin with, I don't think your signature was in good taste—and so I changed it. I have tried conscientiously to answer your question, and I did not enjoy the levity and unattractive slang of your signature.

Then, too, it is wretched form to ask to be "excused" for making mistakes in letters. Why make mistakes? Why write a letter that is a "mess?" Is it because you are writing to a person whom you do not know? Where is the politeness in that? Aren't you asking for a favor in having your question answered, and doesn't that imply that you should, in turn, grant the one asked the favor of a letter that is not a "mess?" Why should I excuse it? Are you illiterate? Since you wish, apparently, to make an impression on the girls you are inviting to parties, why not brush up on your self-respect and write a careful letter to a person of whom you are asking questions on good form and politeness?

I don't mind having questioners use their names—there is no reason why they should not, unless they wish to, and they are not asked to. Indeed I never print a name in the signatures, even when it is given. But that doesn't mean that most friends of my column do not make an effort to write me a respectable looking letter, written with a pride in letter-writing. I should feel sorry, very sorry, and a bit disappointed if they did not try to write a letter that was worthy of them. I am making a real point of this, because it involves one of the fundamental questions of good manners, etiquette, politeness. It isn't being quite loyal to your best feelings, I think.

Do make a resolution not to write letters that are "messes," not to write letters on fa[illegible]lish letter-paper, not to write in pencil, and above all, not to tack on a postscript asking the reader's pardon for being rude and careless.

Bon Voyage Suggestions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Please advise what statement to use in a telegram which three intimate friends are sending a priest who is leaving for Europe?

2—What would be an appropriate gift to give him?

3—When and where should we send it? THREE OF US.

BON voyage. We three hope that every mile of your way will be happy," or, "Friendly greetings from three of your friends, and the hope of a most happy and delightful trip"—something of this kind to evidence your friendship and wishes.

2—A book would be perfect, I think, if possible, a book on some subject in which he is particularly enthusiastic. Best of all, a book on travel, perhaps something on one of the countries he is to visit. Or a detail for his traveling case if you wish to be a bit more "personal." And I have observed, on shipboard, that men eat more sweets than women do. Boxes filled with many different varities of peppermints are always welcome.

3—Send your gift to the ship—people sailing always have as much as they wish to take care of without having bon voyage presents sent to their homes.

Extending Hospitality

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

Is it correct for a young lady to invite a gentleman to spend the evening with her? Or should she wait until he expresses his desire to come?

WONDERING.

IT is quite correct for the young lady to invite the gentleman to come to see her in her home. This in an interpretation of the fine old expression, "extending the hospitality of your home." And it is just as correct for him to ask if he may come to see her. Both the invitation from the young lady and the request from the young man are natural procedure in this friendly world!

Tickets for Class Functions

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I would like to ask a boy, not in my class to go with me to our Junior Hop.

1. Should I pay for both tickets, for just my own, or should the boy I ask pay for both tickets?

2. Is it good manners for a boy to refuse such an invitation?

CO-ED.

SINCE you are one of the hostesses of the dance, you should pay for both tickets.

2. There is no social reason why the boy should accept the invitation unless he wishes to do so.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The Sweet and Low-Down

FREEDOM for husbands may be all right theoretically, but there's no use giving a man plenty of rope and then handing him a pocketknife.

HELEN ROWLAND

One sweet solemn thought: Nowadays divorces, like marriages, don't always "take."

A doctor claims to have invented a method of curing stupidity—and many a fond married pair hope that it's something you can drop into his—or her—coffee after dinner.

Sometimes a man actually enjoys doing the things that are good for him—but they don't give him half the thrill that they would if they were labeled "Dangerous" or "Forbidden" or "Against the doctor's orders.'

Winning a woman's heart used to be a sporting proposition, but these days a girl carries her heart around with "Directions for Opening" written on the lid—and hands the boy friend the key.

Permanent love, like a permanent wave, is not something that can just be acquired and then forgotten; it requires a fresh "setting" every now and then and a lot of skilful handling to keep it shining and beautiful.

Many a man will forgive a woman for wasting his money, wrecking his illusions and ruining his digestion, and then fly into a rage because she hides his golf clubs or folds his newspaper the wrong way.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, November 13.

ACCORDING to the leading lunar transits, this may prove to be a day of turmoil, upheaval and confusion. It would be well to keep a firm grasp on affairs, making all moves with deliberation and composure. Employment has its perils and there may be unexpected developments in all lines.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a year of sudden visitations, with turmoil, confusion and unexpected change. They should preserve their equanimity and meet situations with calmness.

A child born on this day may be disposed to precipitate actions, jeopardizing its best interests by rashness, restlessness and impetuosity, unless early disciplined.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"Hand-Made" Weather Means Good Health

OUR present high standard of living, so different from that of our grandmothers, is always an interesting study. For our food we are no longer limited to the neighborhood; the sources from which we draw our raw materials are increasing every year.

In our grandmother's time the supply of foodstuffs depended entirely on the weather and season. It is not so today. We are able to eat peaches, pears, plums, melons, broilers and all the other delicacies at any time during the entire twelve months of the year.

In olden times even manufacturers of certain foodstuffs were able to operate their plants only when atmospheric conditions were suitable. They were helpless so far as orchard and garden were concerned. Hothouses, refrigerators and air-cooled containers now insure almost uniform growth and delivery of food.

Through the marvelous inventions of the engineers of the country, it has been found possible to create any type of atmosphere necessary for successful production. For those enterprises needing moisture or those requiring extreme dryness science has the solution. They "manufacture" the air to order.

I am interested in these inventions, not only because of the improved food supply they give, but also because of their effect upon those who work in these great centers of industry. Those who work under conditions made ideal by invention are bound to be healthier, happier persons than those working under less favorable surroundings. Most large industrial establishments now have what are known as 'air conditioning" machines. In summer these machines cool the air and take out the moisture. In winter they properly warm it.

This is true of the theaters, too. The modern theater has its cooling system, which adds much to the pleasure of its patrons on a hot day. There are still many industries in which the worker is subject to industrial hazards. With the advance of science these are gradually being overcome. Let us hope for continued work in manufacturing the right kind of weather to meet the highest needs of the human race.

MAN ACCUSED OF BLACKMAIL

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 12.—Elee Combes, of Wilkinsburg, charged by Mayor George Bob Wick with criminal libel and attempted blackmail probably will be given a hearing before Alderman Carl C. Phillips. Combes was placed in the Butler jail yesterday, shortly after information had been made against him by Mayor Wick, the arrest being made by state police.

The charges grew out of a telegram received by Mayor Wick, signed "A Friend," in which $1,500 was demanded under penalty of circulation of copies of the Butler County Farmer, in which charges against the administration of Mayor Wick were made. Several hundred papers were brought to Butler the day before election and were offered to Joseph A. Heineman, Democratic opponent of Wick. Heineman ordered the young woman who brought them in an automobile to take them back to Pittsburgh.

An investigation by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, of Allegheny County, aided by state police, is said to have developed evidence to connect Combes with the case. About 18 months ago Combes aided in promoting a motion picture benefit for the pension fund of the Butler Firemen's Association and claims that the amount demanded was due him as unpaid balance under his contract.

Lie Detector Shows Crying Helps Child

BERKELEY, Cal.—(INS.)—By means of the lie detector used by the police department here the discovery has been made that crying relieves the nervous tension in the body of a child.

It was noted by Dr. Herbert Stolz, director of the Univeristy of California Institute of Child Welfare, in his address recently to the regional conference of the American Red Cross, that when a child cried the galvanometer suddenly dropped to zero, thus indicating emotional relief.

The machine also indicated, he said, that children sleep less soundly than adults.

Pauses in Store Holdup to Sell Woman Shoes

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—A robber took time off during a robbery last night to sell a woman a pair of shoes.

The Grossman shoe store was held up when Mrs. Samuel Brodie entered to buy a pair of slippers. Lots of robbers would have shoved her to one side and ran away with the $125 already taken from the manager and a clerk. This robber was different.

He patiently listened to Mrs. Brodie's shoe requirements and then rummaged through the stock until he found what she wanted. He gave her, Mrs. Brodie says, an excellent fit and she paid him and walked out.

Not long afterward so did the robber.

INTERNATIONAL ROAD INDORSED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Proposed plans for an international Pacific highway from Alaska, through Nogales, Ariz., to Buenos Aires, Argentina, were indorsed by the Western Association of Highway Officials meeting here in advance of the fifteenth annual convention of the American Association of Statae Highway officials, opeaning here today.

The Western association—composed of the officials of California, Washington, Oregon, Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado—adopted resolutions urging the Federal and various state governments to complete all sections of the International Pacifici Highway.

It went on record also favorable to legislation authorizing the Federal Forests Bureau to transfer strips of national forest lands to private individuals in exchange for strips of privately owned forests along state and national highways in order to preserve the beauty of the roads.

Beniamino Gigli, best-beloved tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, sang once again to a large audience in Syria Mosque last night. It seemed natural to applaud everything Gigli sang, and with a little clowning and many encores he kept his public in a very good humor.

But why should Gigli sing the same songs every time he comes to Pittsburgh? His program was almost identical with last year's. Then we imagined him becoming more musical than ever before. The liberties he allowed himself last night in prolonging notes beyond good taste, and adding extra high tones to a divinely simple pastoral are certainly no prophecy that he intends to become a really fine recital singer. The songs which he most distorts are the finest of his native land, songs he should and can sing in excellent style.

There is no gainsaying the fine qualities of the voice. In all his operatic airs, Gigli displays the Italian's natural talent for dramatic as well as lyric singing. His song from "Bohemian Girl" was a worthwhile revival, but "E lucevan le stelle" from "Tosca," given as encore, was the finest singing of the evening. The popular "La donna e mobile" from "Rigoletto" was not wanting, and it was as gay as could be imagined. "O sole mio" was the evening's benediction.

Miguel Sandoval played excellent accompaniments for the operatic music, but in the songs he was weak-kneed.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Long Skirts Worn to Theater

THE poet who sang about "the trailing garments of the night" were surely prophetic, for though in the daytime society folks, always the leaders in fashion, refuse stubbornly to add more than an inch or two to street clothes, in the evening they wear fluttery feminine gowns that reach often to the instep.

At afternoon teas the "downward movement" of skirts is exemplified, of course, but it's in the evening that the longer skirt dictators hold sway.

Last evening wherever society folks were, at the theater, at small gatherings in homes, or at Rolling Rock, the new silhouette, and a most charming one at that, was accepted.

At the theaters, and later at the dance in the urban room of the William Penn Hotel, sponsored by the Pittsburgh Free Dispensary Aid Society, I saw a number of distinctive gowns.

Particularly charming was Evelyn Evans, whom I saw walking up and down the foyer of the Nixon last night with friends. She chose dahlia chiffon for her gown, fashioned with many godets in the skirt, reaching nearly to the ground. And her coat was of rich black velvet, ending at the knee, with white fox fur framing her face and edging the opening of the wrap.

Sitting very near the front of the house I saw that dignified matron, Mrs. Albert Horne Burchfield with Mr. Burchfield. She was in black lace with her coat of black, collared in ermine.

The Walter F. Schleiters I saw when they were leaving the theater. Mrs. Schleiter was wrapped in a coat of chinchilla.

And did you notice how many members of the younger married set where there? Just in front of me I saw the Frank Daves Browns. Mrs. Brown was formerly Dorothy Wolf, don't you remember? She looked lovely last night in a simple gown of scarlet velvet over which she wore a grey squirrel coat.

And a very young matron whom I saw with her husband smoking in the foyer between acts was Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., formerly Anne Louise Marshall, who came out a season or so ago. Her gown was cut very low in the back, and was of white chiffon, embroidered with diamente, and fashioned along princess lines. Over it she wore a wrap of vivid orange velvet, banded in cloth of gold.

And the vogue for white for evening wear is being accepted. I noticed charming young Mrs. J. Wilson there last night in an interesting gown of white satin, fashioned with a deep V in the back, a fitted waistline, and with fullness given below the knees by long, pointed godets of the same material.

A particularly distinctive gown of black fish net moulded to the figure, and ending around slender ankles in a soft swirl, was worn by Margaret Forester. Her coat was of black, too, done in velvet.

And Marjorie Kimball was there, too, in a feminine gown of black tulle over which she wore a striking coat of orange velvet with a chinchilla collar.

And as I was leaving the theater I caught sight of the Ralph W. Harbisons. And I almost forgot to mention that I saw Mrs. George A. Kelly III there.

Peace Group Hears Talk By Indian

THE story of a life spent in the service of others was simply and impressively told by Dean D. K. Karve, of the Women's University, Peona, India, yesterday in his address before the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom. Indeed, so simple was Dean Karve's manner of speaking that one interpreted through his personality and manner, more than through his words, the sacrifice and struggle which have been his in founding the university.

Only 9 per cent of the women in India are literate, he told his hearers, adding that the system of education in India is unnatural in that it is through the means of a foreign language. Seclusion in Northern India, early marriages and no facilities for the education of women have been the three factors which have made "the woman problem" such a difficult one, the speaker went on to say. The mother tongue of the students is used in the Women's University and in time it is hoped to have separate universities in each linguistic province, he said.

Mrs. Joseph Schutzman presided at the meeting, which was a luncheon in the Congress of Clubs, and called on women "to join the army that shall end war for all time." Mrs. John S. Sloan introduced Dean Karve.

"THE ROMAN QUESTION," the struggle between church and state, which he called "the greatest spiritual conflict of all time," which began in 1860 and had its ending last February with the signing of the Vatican-Italian pact, was gone into in detail yesterday by Dr. Franco Bruno Averardi, of the Royal University of Florence, when he addressed the Twentieth Century Club. "The Roman Question" has had a prominent part in the three great periods of history, ancient, medieval and modern. Dr. Averardi told his audience, and in this generation the two conditions necessary for its solution were fulfilled—the generation that had seen the pope a king had passed away and Italy had been awakened through the war. Dr. Averardi holds that the new official importance of the religious element in Italian life has given a new national health and that the pact has given the Pope a new status and an added dignity.

On the stroke of 11 o'clock the audience rose with impressive quiet and great dignity and stood for two minutes honoring the memory of the soldier dead.

STAGE STYLES INDICATIVE OF THE LATEST MODE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—It isn't only the lines that count on the stage—it's line. Theatrical openings follow each other in brisk succession and the stage wardrobes chosen are always an important indication of what is acceptable in the new modes. The line of the molded silhouette seems to have found favor with many of the leading actresses, for it lends symmetrical grace to their movements, and so is eminently adaptable to stage wear. Many of the leading performers are actresses famous not only for their exquisite taste, but for their genuis in selecting clothes that are a fascinating interpretation not only of their own personality, but of the character of the type that they are portraying. And yet, they contrive to prevent their clothes from acquiring the taint of theatricalism.

MLLE. ALICE COCEA, who in private life is the Comtesse de Rochefoucauld, one of the oldest titles in France, is appearing at the Theatre Michel in a role especially suitable to her talents. She is noted too, for her style sense, and so we are glad to send sketches of two costumes worn by her in her new production. The first is a deshabille made for her by Cheruit. The gown is made of pale rose georgette combined with gray-blue georgette, which makes the big bow and the skirt flounce. Over this is worn a sleeveless coat of white and gold striped with blue matching the tone of the gown.

BEIGE is very popular for stage wear here, and nearly every artiste contrives to have one or more of her clothes in this becoming shade. The second model from Mlle. Cocea's wardrobe is in a deep beige that brings out this star's lovely coloring. It, too, is by Cheruit, who has been very successful in creating a simple little frock that is strikingly effective. It is of crepe with a tight fitting bodice and a full skirt laid in unpressed pleats or folds at intervals all around. Three large bows of dark brown crepe satin are placed at strategic points to decorate the front of the dress.

TARTANS TO TEST PITT

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Going After Cavanaugh. | Known Among Ancients.

EFFORT TO GET COACH HERE FAILS

LAST week a rumor reached Pittsburgh from the Pacific Coast to the effect that the University of Washington had its eye on a prominent football coach of this district and was seeking him for next season to succeed Enoch W. Bagshaw, whose "resignation" was recently accepted, to take effect at the close of the present campaign. No confirmation of the report could be obtained at this end, but the rumor persisted that Washington would make a determined effort to get the men in question, if negotiations had not already been opened.

Frank Cavanaugh

Whether the post was offered and rejected, or something else turned up to cause a change of plans is not known, but it is evident that the Seattle people have taken a different course, for it is understood that they are now after Frank Cavanaugh, coach at Fordham University. Graduate Manager Campbell, of Washington, is in New York, supposedly for a conference with Cavanaugh, and Eastern football men are expecting an early announcement that Cavanaugh has decided to change jobs.

THERE is nothing to bar the carrying out of such an arrangement. Cavanaugh's three-year contract at Fordham expires this fall, and he has intimated on more than one occasion, it is said, that he is dissatisfied with his present surroundings and is serving his last year as mentor of the Maroons.

Another shift would be nothing new in the life of the present Fordham gridiron chief. He has made many more changes than the average coach in his long career, which has covered a period of almost three decades. During that time he has coached at Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Boston College, Denver Athletic Club, University of Cincinnati, Worcester Tech and Fordham.

JOHN McGRAW evidently did not meet with much encouragement in his efforts to induce the Cincinnati Reds to part with Second Baseman Hughey Critz in a trade, as he is now trying to get Fresco Thompson, former Pirate and Giant second sacker, back from the Phillies.

The Giant boss, it is said, has offered Catcher Frank Hogan and Pitcher Larry Benton in exchange for Thompson, but thus far has been unable to tempt the Quaker management. Both Hogan and Benton were disappointments to McGraw last season, hence his willingness to part with them.

Fresco Thompson

THAT the custom of athletes working their way through college is of far more ancient origin than is generally supposed in the light of the Carnegie Foundation's "discoveries," is cited by a local observer, who goes back even beyond the scope of John Gruber to present a classic instance of the practice in the third century B. C. In view of the recent stir, this observer facetiously offers the facts to justify the furnace-stoking and table-waiting gridiron stars by the dim pages of remote history.

THE hero in the case is the stoic philosopher, Cleanthes, and the source of the history of his start in higher learning is the essay of the Cardinal Newman, English divine and educator (1801-1890) on "University Life in Athens." Of the student body in Athens, the Cardinal writes:

"He is of any condition or rank of life you please, and may be made to order, from a prince to a peasant. Perhaps he is some Cleanthes, who has been a boxer in the public games. How did it ever cross his brain to betake himself to Athens in search of wisdom? But so it was, to Athens he came, with three drachmas in his girdle, and he got his livelihood by drawing water, carrying loads and like servile occupation."

ATTACHING himself to the class of Zeno, the Stoic teacher, Cleanthes, the cardinal continues, became so learned in philosophy that upon the death of Zeno he was made his successor in the school, eventually writing a hymn that is described as one of the noblest effusions of its kind in classical poetry.

Whether Cleanthes came out for the boxing team, if there was one, history apparently does not record, but the blunt fact remains, from the nature of his labor, that it was his remarkable physique that enabled him to get an education.

Dr. Mark Baldwin

DURING his days as a Pirate, the late Dr. Mark Baldwin, former major league pitcher and a member of the first round-the-world baseball party 40 years ago, who died here on Sunday, was associated with some of the most famous players in the history of the Pittsburgh club. Connie Mack, manager of the world champion Philadelphia Athletics; and Pat Donovan, a pilot in the minors, are the only members of the Buccaneer crew of that time still in the game, though Joe Sngden was a big league coach until 1927, but among Dr. Baldwin's other teammates here were many others whose names will always be prominent in Pirate records.

PITTSBURGH'S catchers during the two and a half seasons of Dr. Baldwin's pitching service here, from 1891 until midseason in 1893, were Mack, Sugden, Doggy Miller, Jocko Fields, Billy Earle and Tun Berger.

The pitchers, besides Baldwin, were Jimmy Galvin, Harry Staley, Al Maul, Scott Stratton, Silver King, Red Ehret, Win Camp, Fred Woodcock, Adonis Bill Terry, Bill Thompson, Will Gumbert, Ad Gumbert, Charley Esper, Jock Menefee, Frank Killen, Harry Gastright and Tom Colcolough.

JAKE BECKLEY was the regular first baseman throughout that period and the other infielders from time to time were Louie Bierbauer, Sam La Roque, Frank Shugart, Charley Reilly, Piggy Ward, Ed Spurney, Duke Farrell, a former catcher developed into a third baseman; Harry Raymond, Tom Burns, Bobby Cargo, Denny Lyons, Jack Glasscock, Jimmy Gray and Sam Gillen.

The outfielders were Pete Browning, Ed Hanlon, Fred Carroll, John Corkhill, Dan Lally, Elmer Smith, Ed Swartwood, Pat Donovan, Joe Kelley, Jake Stenzel and George Van Haltren.

HAVE you observed the clip at which that Waynesburg College football team has been traveling in recent weeks? Since the 6-to-2 defeat suffered at the hands of Thiel, it has been bowling over highly-rated opponents in a manner that spells a lot of strength and spirit. In the last three games, Waynesburg has defeated Bethany 13 to 6, Grove City 12 to 7, and Geneva 7 to 0. The triumph over Grove City was particularly impressive, as Grove

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Johnny O'Keefe, 25, Columbus lightweight boxer, died in a hospital here last night. He became ill after finishing yesterday's training for a match Friday in Detroit with Tommy Celio, of Los Angeles. The cause of his death was not announced.

FARMER WINS TWO ROUNDS, DECISION

By HARRY KECK, Sports Editor.

For seven rounds in the main bout at Motor Square Garden last night, Farmer Joe Cooper, of Terre Haute, Ind., tincanned and acted the part of a perfect foil for the fast boxing and straight hitting of Buck McTiernan, Swissvale pride, who galloped off with each session at will. Then, in the eighth and ninth rounds, the Farmer cut loose and put some steam behind his punches and ripped and slashed at the tiring McTiernan and carried the two frames by good-sized margins, McTiernan holding on several times in the storm. The tenth round found McTiernan again the aggressor and winning the honors by a shade.

Thus a final tabulation of the rounds showed McTiernan winning eight and Cooper two. There were no knockdowns, the nearest approach being two occasions when the rough and ready Cooper wrestled McTiernan to the floor. And yet, both judges, Frank (Bull) Brown and Frank Ferris, cast their votes for Cooper, while the referee, Al Grayber, voted for a draw. The judges' verdict went, and, strange to say, was hailed with delight by the crowd, which has been yelling "setup" at each of McTiernan's recent opponents, but turning out in large numbers in the hope of seeing him whipped, now that he has advanced to the point where it looks as if he might get somewhere. 'Tis ever thus. The mob builds up an idol merely to destroy him, and in no other line more so than in boxing.

DECISION OUT OF LINE

Going into the eighth round last night, McTiernan was so far ahead on points, having won every round from the weaving, bobbing, ducking stalling Farmer, that it was hardly a contest. How then, in the fair name of common sense, the officials could decide on Cooper as the winner after his two-round splurge and squelching in the final round, is beyond the reasoning capacity of this writer.

It was the first time in many, many months that McTiernan had been called upon to travel the full route and he plainly tired under his own pace and constant forcing tactics, combined with the wrestling of Cooper in the clinches, so that, when the latter made his belated rally, the local man quickly wilted in the face of the sudden shifting tide. Cooper was carving both fists to the head and body in the eighth and ninth rounds and he scored damagingly several times. However, he never had Buck in danger of a knockout or even a knockdown and Buck came through to finish forcing matters.

Granted that Cooper did as much damage in his two winning rounds as Buck did in any four of his, that still left Buck a margin of four rounds, together with an edge for forcing the fight most of the way, and makes the decision look like so much cheese. The verdict places a premium on stalling, such as Cooper did until he made up his mind to try to dazzle the judges with a Garrison finish with seven of the 10 rounds already chalked up to the credit of his opponent. If the early rounds don't count for anything in judging a fight, it is time to start the battles at the half-way mark and eliminate the warming-up innings.

M'TIERNAN TAKES LEAD

McTiernan started out at his usual fast pace in the opening round and Cooper, in comparison, appeared as if he were tied to a hitching post. A right hand shot put a big mouse under the Farmer's left eye this early in the fight and threatened to close the optic, which, however, didn't get much worse as the battle progressed.

From this stage on until the eighth round, it was monotonous, with Buck moving about his opponent, jabbing and hooking and occasionally booming over a hard right to the head or body. Cooper seldom picked up speed and confined most of his efforts to wrestling in the clinches and bringing up his elbows and mugging and he was slowing down the action so much by his tactics that as the fourth round ended the crowd booed and the boxing commission warned Cooper through his manager that he must do more and cleaner fighting or lose his purse.

Starting the fifth round, McTiernan caught Cooper with a beautiful right on the jaw as the echo of the gong died away and continued to punch him around throughout the round, with the Farmer continuing to heel and mugg and elbow and wrestle until a slugging bee just before the end of the round gave the bout its first thrill.

In the sixth round, Cooper began to weave and bob and shoot counter punches as Buck took potshots at his chin. Late in the round, he spun Buck off balance to the floor coming out of a mix at close quarters. The seventh round was one of Cooper's poorest. He did nothing but tincan from bell to bell and McTiernan contented himself with boxing his way to the edge.

FARMER STAGES RALLY

Came then the eighth round and the Farmer for the first time moved

JIM DUNN LOST TO GROVERS

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 12.—Grove City High's 13-7 victory over the strong Vandergrift High eleven Saturday was a most costly one for Joe Hartman, as Jimmy Dunn, all-Mercer County back for two years, and outstanding player in Mercer County this fall, was lost for the remainder of the year.

Dunn, carrying the ball during the last four minutes of play, went through the line, where he collided with a Vandergrift defensive back. He suffered severe pain and was taken from the field. An examination showed that the star had suffered with a fractured shoulder.

TOMORROW—BAND JOE INVENTED THE BANJO

MICKEY SOLMEN AND BELMONT VICTORS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, won a 10-round decision here last night over Mickey Fedor, of Canton, in the main go of an Armistice Day show. Jackie Herman, of Wheeling, W. Va., defeated Freddie Edwards, of Chester, W. Va., in a six-round bout.

Harry Spencer, Washington, won by a technical knockout over Tom McCafferty, of New Castle, when the referee stopped the fight in the fourth round of a scheduled six-round bout. Joe Walcott, Washington, and Marty Simmons, Wilkinsburg, drew in six rounds.

Paul Balint, Pittsburgh, scored a technical knockout in the third round of his carded six-round bout with Jackie Coogan, of Canton.

BELMONT VICTOR

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 12.—Jimmy Belmont, Pittsburgh, outpointed Jackie Murray, in a slow, listless bout in the Armory last night, before a capacity crowd. Murray never extended himself, and Belmont clearly outpointed him.

Chuck Taggart, of Butler, put away Tim Garrison, of Middletown, in one minute and 30 seconds of the first round. Garrison never had a chance. Frank Monroe won a questionable decision over Hugh Fetzer in a six-rounder.

Ted Yarosz won a clean-cut decision over Johnny Brown in one of the best bouts of the evening, while Sammy Paris, defeated Frankie Lanz, in the four-round opener.

BASS BEATS REED

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Benny Bass, Philadelphia featherweight, who aspires to the junior lightweight crown, won the decision over Eddie Reed, New York Negro, in the 10-round windup at the Arena last night. Bass scaled 127 pounds, Reed 125½.

Charley Belanger, light heavyweight champion of Canada, won the decision over Matt Adgie, Philadelphia, in the 10-round semi-final bout. The Canadian had his opponent on the ropes and was landing heavily with both hands at the final bell.

SINGER STOPS SHEPPARD

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Al Singer, New York junior lightweight, won over Johnny Sheppard, of Boston, on a technical knockout in the seventh round at the St. Nicholas Arena last night. Singer weighed 132 pounds, Sheppard 135½.

In the semi final of 10 rounds, Ned Tarleton, sensational English featherweight, won the decision from Pinky Silverberg, of Harlem.

PITT YEARLINGS NOSED OUT BY TECH PLEBES

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 12.—The University of Pittsburgh Freshman football team lost to Carnegie Tech Plebes, 7-6, in a game which featured an Armistice Day program at Fayette Field yesterday afternoon.

The Panther yearlings scored after Walton had recovered Dueger's fumble on the Tech 13-yard line. Luch crashing the line for a touchdown in four plays. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Tech, outplayed during the first half, found itself in the latter periods. Six first downs were registered and when Croissant recovered Reider's fumble on the Pitt 10-yard line, the Tartans used a pass to score.

Graveno took the toss from Dueger and dashed to the line. The Sample's kick went true and Tech had a one-point lead which spelt defeat for the Panthers. The lineup:

Rockne to Be Back on Job Again Today

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Coach Knute Rockne, who has been confined to his home with an infected knee, will direct the practice of the Notre Dame football team today for the first time in three weeks.

WILKINSBURG TOPS BUTLER

Performing ably in every department, the Wilkinsburg High School eleven handed the touted Butler High outfit a 6-0 setback at Graham Field, Wilkinsburg, yesterday, in a holiday contest that drew 5,000 fans, many of them service men.

In the latter part of the first period, Wilkinsburg worked the ball down the field, aided by a 30-yard sprint by Tom Donaldson, and held the ball on the four-yard line when the period ended. On the second play of the next frame, Bill Albitz raced around the Butler end for the only score, Joe Troglione missing the extra point from placement.

Butler penetrated to within 25 yards of the Red and Blue goal later in the second period, but was stopped by the Wilkinsburg line. Just before the half another series of long passes took the ball to the Wilkinsburg 30, but Butler again was stopped. One of Wilkinsburg's punts was fumbled, and Spears recovered for the Holy City on the Butler 30, the half ending a moment later.

The third period turned into a punting duel, with honors about even. In the fourth stanza Wilkinsburg lost another chance to score on a fumble on the Butler 10-yard line. Albitz and Donaldson starred for Wilkinsburg, while Muxonti and Hinser were outstanding for Butler. The lineup:

Wilkinsburg—6.		Butler—0.
Rath	L.E.	Pawk
Snyder	L.T.	Snyder
Coyle	L.G.	Zymboli
McKillop	C.	Gallagher
Spears	R.G.	Krulatz
Bull	R.T.	Sykes
Baker	R.E.	R. Lobuono
Albitz	Q.	A. Lobuono
Raymaley	L.H.	Murphy
Troglione	R.H.	Staples
Donaldson	F.	Muxonti

Substitutes—Wilkinsburg: Kregar, Cleland, Sloane, McCue. Butler: Riley, Hinser, Marshall, Hogg, Downing, White. Touchdowns — Wilkinsburg, Donaldson. Missed point after touchdown—Troglione (from placement).

SHARON TOPS FARRELL

FARRELL, Pa., Nov. 12.—Pete Pryts carved himself additional fame yesterday, when almost single handed he gave Sharon High its seventh straight victory of the season, by scoring two touchdowns against Farrell and gaining ground consistency at almost every turn. The final score was 21-6.

ROCKNE RATES TECH TOUGH ELEVEN

By JESS CARVER

The blushing Mr. Knute Rockne (he actually does blush, you know) is of the opinion that Carnegie Tech has been lying back all fall, just to take one good solid shot at the royal whiskers of the Pitt Panthers. Mr. Knute even goes as far as to intimate that the Skibos took it easy against Notre Dame, all for the purpose of upsetting Pitt's apple cart this week.

Coach Rockne tacked on a paragraph to a letter to me last week regarding some tickets for another game, in which he said that he believed Tech was miles and miles tougher than it has appeared all season. I do not think I am violating a confidence in printing this, for Mr. Rockne didn't say anything about it being confidential. It makes good reading, for breathes there a football fan who doesn't incline an ear when Friend Rockne speaketh?

Whether they have been holding back or not, the fact is that Carnegie is going to give Pitt the toughest afternoon that the dear old Panthers have had, or will have, all year. To begin with, Bob Waddell's boys have had two weeks of rest. Besides, they were afforded an opportunity to watch the Panther eleven in action against the most stubborn foe it has met to date, Wash-Jeff, and Pitt uncovered a few things in Saturday's game that the Tartans doubtlessly took to heart and mind.

CRIPPLES MEND

Carnegie's cripples, Flanagan, Karcis, Yerina, Schnupp and Rosenzweig, have had an extra week to get themselves in o. k. condition again, and the chances are that the elevens will square off in the Stadium Saturday even-up in point of physical trim.

McCurdy seems to be close to right again, his bum leg apparently being well on the way to perfect condition. With Mac on hand for starting duty the backfield situation will be just about cleared up.

OL' CRAFTY CAM

Whether you think Davis-Elkins is on the up and up in its athletic system or not, you'll have to give Cam Henderson credit for turning out a pretty snappy ball team. All those boys on the first team didn't cut their football toofies at Haskell, and besides, all of 'em arn't as good individually as you are led to believe.

Cam is a shrewd chap, and takes great delight in fooling visiting scouts. In one game, in which he knew his ball club was being scouted by Fordham, he shifted his lineup all about, using ends as guards, tackles as ends, and employed a system entirely strange to the usual D-E style of play. He also won the game.

GET 'EM EARLY

The Dukes figure to pack 'em in like sardines here Friday night as they take on Westminster in a Conference game. If there were 20,000 at the first nocturnal contest with Geneva, there will be 25,000 out for the game this week.

Westminster's record is not overly impressive, but the Titans have one of those ball clubs capable of rising to the well known emergency. It did just that very thing against Allegheny, and is about ripe to rise on his collective haunches against the Dukes.

LOCAL BOY MAKES GOOD

We folks from the Beaver Valley (clap, clap, clap) are sticking out our chests a bit further now that Louis Graham has stepped up another notch. The appointment of the former Beaver County district attorney was a pat on the back both to Lou and Beaver.

Graham is as fine a fellow as you'd want to meet, and just as smart. He is the sort of a lawyer that Arthur Train and Charles Budington Kelland like to put into stories.

Next to being a Congressmen or Attorney General or even President, I think Louis Graham's pet ambition would have been to be an all-America fullback.

And he is a fellow who'd hand you a cigar whether he was running for office or a street car.

Red Davis, Geneva's hefty captain, deserves credit for his fine play on the Covenanters' kicked-around team this year. The big fella has been shifted about so much that he hasn't had a chance to become familiar with any one position. Davis has played end, tackle and fullback, three tough spots to be in.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Meadowbrook Club set a new mark to win the annual Armistice Day relay marathon run, conducted yesterday by the Penn Athletic Club. Ten Meadowbrook runners covered 48 miles to Valley Forge and return in five hours, 19 minutes and 55 seconds, eclipsing the old record of five hours, 41 minutes established by Melrose last year.

MADISON SQUARE BUYS SCHMELING CONTRACT

SCOTT, CAMPOLO RIGHTS ALSO IN DEAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Madison Square Garden has purchased from Humbert Fugazy, promoter, the contract rights to the services of Max Schmeling, of Germany; Phil Scott, of England, and Victorio Campolo, of the Argentine, it was announced last night.

The consideration was in the neighborhood of $75,000 it was understood in fistic circles.

This deal, fruit of weeks of negotiations, gives the Garden a virtual monopoly of the heavyweights who are serious contenders for the crown vacated by Gene Tunney. The Garden already has Jack Sharkey, considered the leading contender, under contract for a fight at Miami this winter.

More important, in one way, was the fact that the deal apparently removes the last obstacle in the way of a Sharkey-Schmeling match. The Garden was threatened with suspension by the New York State Athletic Commission if it insisted upon continuing its efforts to match these two heavyweights before Schmeling fulfilled a contract to meet Scott for Fugazy. With Fugazy no longer holding any claims on Schmeling's services, the boxing commission's objections should no longer exist.

Indications were that the Garden would endeavor to match Schmeling and Sharkey for the Miami fight probably in February.

Included in the deal was Gustave Leneve's managerial contract on Campolo. Campolo, now in South America, insisted that Leneve's contract must be relinquished before he would return to the United States. Fugazy holds Campolo's signature to contracts for four matches. The Italian promoter also holds a contract on Schmeling to fight Scott and a similar one on Scott.

COOPER GETS 'DECISION'

out of his corner with a business-like air. There was power in his punches and he hurt Buck as he weaved in close with left and right swings, forcing the latter to hold on from the barrage to the head and body.

The ninth round saw the Farmer continue the assault. He nailed Buck early with left and right to the head and then smashed the body hard, forcing Buck to flounder and lose his class and hang on at every opportunity. Buck obviously was both hurt and weak, but he gave the lie to those critics who in the past have questioned his gameness by pulling through and fighting back well at the finish and then coming out to take the play away from Cooper in the final round. In this session he cut Cooper's left ear badly and it bled profusely. Shortly before the final bell, Cooper again wrestled his man to the floor, but Buck was up at once fighting back and earned the round and the fight, the official decision notwithstanding.

For some unaccountable reason, Referee Grayber was "on" McTiernan throughout the fight, warning him repeatedly during the action and even going to his corner to talk sharply to him, while Cooper, whose rough and foul tactics were fragrant violations of the rules, was not warned once and literally got away with "murder."

McTiernan weighed 151 pounds and Cooper 150 at 3 p. m.

ANOTHER POOR VERDICT

On a par with the decision in the main bout was the split award in the eight-round semi-final, in which Ken Hargraves, Negro, of New Kensington, boxed a heady counter battle to right-hand Chet Smallwood, Akron southpaw, into defeat, only to see Judge Ferris and Referee Joe Keally vote for Smallwood, while Judge Brown ruled it a draw. Again the rightful winner did not get one of three votes. Smallwood was badly beaten in the first five rounds, bleeding copiously from his nose from the fourth round on, but rallied splendidly to carry the sixth and seventh rounds and then took another cuffing in the final session. He did most of the leading throughout the bout, only to run into a siege gun fire from Hargraves' cocked right fist every time he came in. He weighed 135 pounds against 130½ for Hargraves and lost his forfeit for being two pounds overweight.

The crowd got its biggest kick out of the second bout, in which George Panka, Homestead heavyweight, battered big Eddie O'Neill, hog-fat and happy-go-lucky Steubenville puncher, into a technical knockout defeat in three rounds, Referee Al Grayber displaying fine judgment in halting the battle with O'Neill out on his feet and taking a dangerous belting about the body. Panka, at 197½ pounds, showed vast improvement and was out in front all of the way, but his towering 206-pound opponent made a lusty swinging duel out of it as long as he was able to grab holds with his left and pummel away with his right. The battle royal pleased the customers.

THOMPSON INTRODUCED

Tarzan Joe Poole, of Lawrenceville, outpunched Walter Ketchel, of Detroit, in the six-round opener and scored a clean knockdown for no count to boot in the opening round, but the judges disagreed and the referee's decision went to the slapping Ketchel, who weighed 166½ pounds against 166 for his opponent.

Young Jack Thompson, California Negro welterweight, was introduced from the ring and it was announced that he would box Billy White, of Jersey City, in the main bout next Monday night. The turnout was the largest of the season to date, exceeding that of two weeks ago for the McTiernan-Fifield battle. Ray Eberle was on the job in full dress as announcer and A. C. Couch was the timer.

Long's Sport Comment

City previously had defeated Geneva 34 to 0 and last Saturday beat Allegheny College, 40 to 7. From all indications there will be a real battle at Forbes Field when Duquesne and Waynesbury clash in the game which was scheduled for Thanksgiving Day but which is likely to be moved up and played on the preceding night.

Frank Nighbor

WITH the opening of the hockey season in the National League only two days off, fans around the circuit are wondering whether the holdouts will come in at the eleventh hour or some of the teams will be forced to start with patched lineups. The outstanding players among those who have refused to sign up to date are Ching Johnson, of the New York Rangers; Frank Nighbor and Bill Touhey, of Ottawa, and Bill Brydges, of Detroit.

Nighbor appears to be the most determined of the four. He says he is not demanding an increase, but is objecting to the action of his employers in trying to lop a huge chunk off the $7,500 salary he is said to have received last season, when he was out of commission much of the time with an ailing knee. The veteran center and poke-check star declares he will quit the game rather than accept the cut.

UNDEFEATED ELEVENS FALL

By TOM BIRKS.

Two more clubs joined the ranks of the defeated aggregations on the independent gridiron yesterday, when the Iverson Olympics stopped the Burns A. A., 6 to 0, at Parnassus High School field, and the Hope-Harvey Majestics swamped Greenfield Community, 19 to 0, at Exposition Park, both games being played to capacity crowds.

Homewood won from the Pleasant Valley Smilers, 6 to 0, and Middletown nosed out the Canton Bulldogs, 7 to 6, at Butler.

Six thousand fans were at the Parnassus High field, where the Armistice Day parade there terminated, and, with a blue sky overhead, the flashing of the brilliant uniforms gave the game a setting rarely seen among the independents.

BURNS FIGHT VAIN

It was a real battle. The Burns club died hard, and fought every inch, though it must be stated that the Olympics were full value for the win. The large crowd got many thrills, even in the first quarter, when Kaletz started tearing the Burns line apart. However, the end of the quarter gave the boys brief respite and the beginning of the second period found the ball on the Burns' two-yard line, first and 10. But that is far as the Olympics went. For some reason, Kaletz was not given the ball, and Fleming tried to carry it over, but Burns held and kicked clear.

The only score came with only 22 seconds of the half to go. Fleming went back and threw a pass, good for 40 years, with Schackern on the receiving end. Schackern's try for the extra point was outside the posts.

The game, which finished in semi-darkness, owing to the parade and late start, finished in midfield, neither side being within scoring distance.

Levey, former Quantico Marine, was the outstanding star of the Hope-Harvey game. He dashed off 22 yards in the first quarter for the first touchdown. In the last quarter, Red Whitmore pulled a sensational long run after plucking a forward pass out of the air and eluding the Greenfielders for the touchdown.

The third and last touchdown was made by means of a forward pass, Whitmore to Woofty Wild, the former Wash-Jeff player taking the ball over the goal line. Scanlon kicked the extra point.

TWO UNDEFEATED TEAMS

The race has narrowed down to two undefeated clubs. The Iverson Olympics, and the Hope-Harvey Majestics. Sunday, the Olympics meet West View at West View Park and Hope-Harvey brings McChesneytown to Exposition Park. The third big game will find the Monessen Olympics clashing with the East Pittsburgh Firemen at the Quarry grounds. It might be stated that Monessen is one of the most popular clubs that annually visit the Turtle Creek valley. The following Sunday will find Hope-Harvey meeting West View at Exposition Park, while the Olympics will visit the Akron Awnings. The lineups:

RANDALL MAY BOX BELMONT AT MOOSE

Tiger Joe Randall, Negro star, of Elizabeth, Pa., may take the place of Rudy Ceder, of Tarentum, against Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple next Friday night. Promoter Francis Flynn is trying to close the match, following the defection of Ceder, who is suffering from boils on his arms and face and has been excused by the boxing commission.

Due to the illness of Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., who is to meet Chet Smallwood, of Akron, in the 10-round main bout of the opening show at the new indoor club at New Brighton, the entire card has been set back one week from next Monday night to the following Monday night, according to Matchmaker Ray Eberle.

Promoter Jim McGirr expects to close his preliminary card today for his double windup show at McKeesport next Thursday night. He has Young Corsey, of Canton, O., against Eddie Brannon, of the Hill, and George Panka, of Homestead, against Ray Fay, of Charleroi, in the two 10-round headliners, and Sammy Paris, of the Hill, and Bus Hardy, of Beaver Falls, in the second bout.

Johnny Risko and Tuffy Griffiths have been matched for a heavyweight elimination bout in Madison Square Garden, New York, December 27.

Tommy Crawley, local lightweight, is about to make a connection with Jimmy Bronson, of New York, manager of his keen local rival, Phil Goldstein. Goldstein, by the way, is in training for his bout with Maxie Strub at Erie next Friday night.

Johnny Dundee, veteran former featherweight champion, boxes Georgie Goldberg in Brooklyn tonight. Jose Diaz and Henri De Wancker box at Allentown, Pa.

Lew Massey and Harry Blitman have been matched for a "natural" bout as the headline attraction at the Arena in Philadelphia next Monday night. Massey has beaten Steve Smith and Davy Abad in his last two starts. Johny Jadich boxes Luis Vincentini and Baby Joe Gans meets Frankie Hayes in other 10-rounders at the Arena.

ICE PIRATES WIN, 2 TO 1, IN EXHIBITION

HAMILTON, Ont., Nov. 12.—The Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, scored a 2-1 victory over the Hamilton Tigers, of the International League, in an exhibition game here last night. Jerry Lowrey and Bud Jarvis, the latter a new member of the Pirates, were the outstanding stars in the Pittsburgh victory.

Harold Darragh, suffering from a slight attack of flu, was unable to play and Archie Briden, another new Pirate, replaced him at right wing.

The local club is regarded as the class of the International loop, and the Pittsburgh defense played great hockey in holding the Tigers to one goal.

It's just too bad if any smoker because of misinformation denies himself or herself the pleasure of CAMELS.

New smokers are not always in a position to have a real preference in cigarettes. But when they acquaint themselves with Camels they develop that sense of discrimination that leads to real smoking pleasure. Camels are made so carefully and of so good a blend of choicest cigarette tobaccos that even those with inexperienced smoking taste quickly recognize their superiority. They are for those who appreciate the taste of choice tobaccos, the fragrance of a perfect blend and the soothing mellowness of a really satisfying cigarette.

GENEVA BOWS TO JACKETS, 7 TO 0

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 12.—Frankie Demoise of Greensburg, and Johnny Knapik, of Youngstown, usurped the limelight here yesterday at Reeves Stadium, when Waynesburg eked out a 7-0 victory over Geneva in the feature event of the annual Beaver County Armistice Day celebration. The two field generals stood out head and shoulders over the rank and file of the two elevens, turning the important Tri-state Conference struggle into a rather two-man affair.

A crowd of 10,000 fans gathered to witness two of the most surprising teams of the year in local college ranks in their big engagement, but were rewarded only by the spectacular battle between the two backfield stars.

Demoise counted the lone touchdown of the long battle when he slipped over from the one-yard line late in the final period. His successful attempt was made on the fourth down, three previous assaults from within the seven-yard zone having failed to get the ball over the Geneva goal line. He redeemed himself by counting the six pointer as previously he had ruined the only other Jacket scoring opportunity when he fumbled while crashing over the goal line in the third period. Decker's try for the extra point was blocked but it was awarded to the victors as Geneva was offside on the play. The lineup:

St. Francis Victor Over St. Vincent's

By CHARLES J. DOYLE. Staff Correspondent.

LATROBE, Pa., Nov. 12.—Latrobe folks today were just as proud as ever of their St. Vincent's College gridiron heroes. In defeat, the eleven coached by Clem Crowe, former Notre Dame star, was great, yet the football followers of this entire neighborhood have nothing but praise for the St. Francis team, which yesterday triumphed, 6-0, over the home team in a thrilling Armistice Day spectacle.

The hustlers from Loretto, home of the famous Charley Schwab, deserved their victory, even if St. Vincent's boys did outgain them on straight football and in the forward pass game. St. Francis gained a 6-to-0 success in the greatest collegiate contest ever witnessed in Latrobe.

5,000 SEE GAME

The Latrobe athletic field was not nearly big enough to take care of the multitude that wanted to see the grid classic. Something like 5,000 supporters and followers of the two institutions jammed and pushed their way into the wooden seats, and the officers in charge had all they could do to keep the crowd under control.

The contest was a battle from the sound of the first whistle until the last shrill call stopped the fight. Time after time a guard or tackle would break through to throw a ball carrier for a loss, so that it was little wonder both elevens resorted to forward passing.

Bill Donohue, who won a big name with Carnegie Tech, showed Latrobe fans a backfield that for versatility could hardly be beaten. Crowe's ball carriers were smart, too, but the Loretto boys appeared to know what to do in the crises that developed the success.

PASS WINS GAME

Quarterback Kunzler and End Sullivan came through with the play that practically won the game. The invading host had worked the ball a few yards beyond the middle of the field, when Kunzler stepped back and deftly tossed a pass to Sullivan, which the end carried to the 12-yard line before being downd. Art White pierced the line for the touchdown. The attempt to score the point after touchdown was blocked.

KENTUCKY GETS COAST OFFER

LEXINGTON, Ky., Nov. 12.—(AP.)—S. A. Boles, athletic director, announced today that the University of Kentucky football team has been invited to play a Pacific Coast game on December 25. The invitation was received Saturday from St. Mary's College, Oakland, Cal., which held California to a scoreless tie this season.

The athletic authorities do not contemplate accepting the invitation, however, unless the Wildcats, put out of the Southern Conference race Saturday by Alabama, should defeat both Virginia Military Institute and Tennessee in their remaining games. Even in that event permission would have to be obtained from Southern Conference officials, and there was said to be doubt that it would be granted.

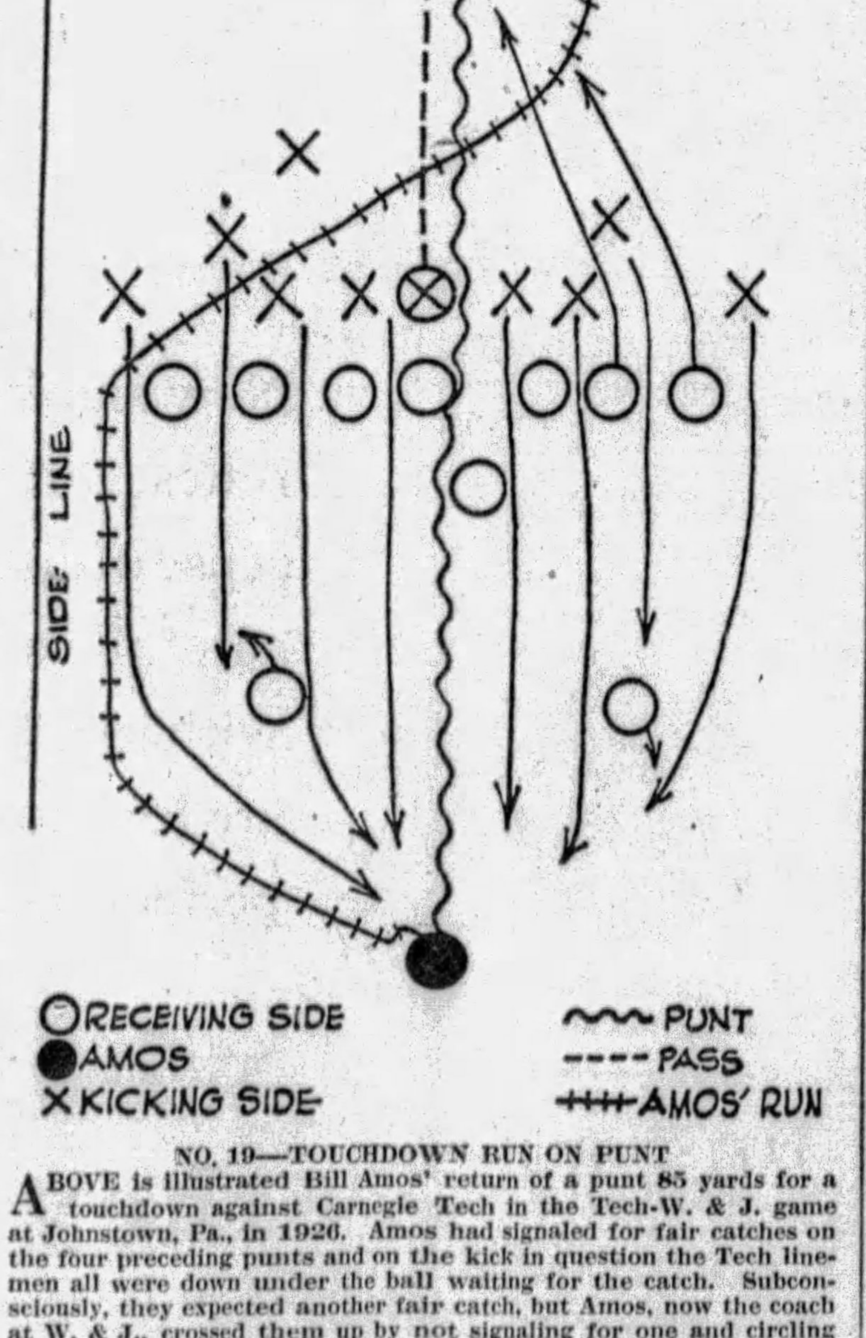
Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928
Now Coach at Shady Side Academy

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 19—TOUCHDOWN RUN ON PUNT

ABOVE is illustrated Bill Amos' return of a punt 85 yards for a touchdown against Carnegie Tech in the Tech-W. & J. game at Johnstown, Pa., in 1926. Amos had signaled for fair catches on the four preceding punts and on the kick in question the Tech linemen all were down under the ball waiting for the catch. Subconsciously, they expected another fair catch, but Amos, now the coach at W. & J., crossed them up by not signaling for one and circling out and around the Tech right end. Once past this player, Amos had all of his teammates ready to clip out the Tech backs and he zigzagged down the field for the score.

BOND VOLUME LARGER IN OCTOBER

New Offerings Last Month Largest for Any Similar Period in Current Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—New bond offerings in this market for October reached the highest total recorded for any month so far this year at $363,872,800, against $209,309,000 in September and $295,346,000 in October, 1928. The figure for October compares with $344,697,500 in June, the largest previous month of 1929.

Nearly 30 per cent of the October total comprised the Texas Corporation issue which appeared early in the month. Volume of offerings by weeks was extremely irregular, making a modest showing in the initial week, rising abruptly to nearly $200,000,000 in the second week including the Texas Corporation financing, dropping somewhat in the third week and finally tapering off to an insignificant total of $2,292,500 in the final week.

Latter period was one of the most unusual on record with respect to the stock market, an avalanche of liquidation and violent declines in share prices naturally deflecting all interest from new financing and causing the sharp drop in new issues.

TEN MONTHS' OFFERINGS

Following tabulation gives the offerings for the first 10 months this year compared with the preceding year:

	1929	1928
January	$ 336,906,000	$ 541,013,500
February	298,344,750	534,343,394
March	335,385,700	622,859,000
April	286,112,500	649,965,000
May	305,648,858	549,467,332
June	344,697,500	481,375,864
July	242,092,400	133,563,500
August	129,678,400	98,852,500
September	209,309,000	290,506,000
October	363,872,800	295,346,000

STOCK MARKET INFLUENCE

While the effects of high money rates and concentration of investor interest in equity securities on bond issuance throughout the year to date is visible from these comparative figures, during October bond market sentiment underwent decided revision only to be temporarily arrested by the liquidation which marked the closing days of the month, result of the action of the stock markets. From a long pull viewpoint, however, optimism prevails among dealers and the effect which the turn in attitude of the public towards bonds may have on new financing remains to be seen. It is hardly likely any pronounced increase in new issues will appear for the time being; at any rate, not enough materially to affect the aggregate for the year.

MUNICIPAL GROUP LEADS

The municipal group maintains its lead in point of volume, nearly 25 per cent of all financing having fallen within that category so far this year. The utility classification is next in percentage of total with 20 per cent while the industrial division is third. Although municipal financing has slumped considerably due to the restrictive costs to borrowers and generally unsatisfactory bond market conditions, the nature of this financing and the need for funds for municipal improvements have resulted in keeping this division in the lead. Corporate borrowers have in many cases resorted to stock financing to raise capital.

TEXAS OFFERING LARGEST

Headed by the $100,000,000 Texas Corporation convertible 5s, a number of major pieces of financing appeared in October. An issue of $50,000,000 New York City notes was marketed, $32,000,000 Southern Bell Telephone first mortgage 5s were placed on the market and financing to amount of $30,000,000 each was concluded for Port of New York Authority, and Canadian National Railway. Several smaller issues completed the total of nine issues of over $10,000,000 offered during the month, compared with six in September and eight in October last year.

October Failures Under Year Ago

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—R. G. Dun & Co. reports that insolvencies during October declined, both in number and in liabilities, from those of the like month a year ago. Numerically, however, they were greater than during September. There were 1,822 failures in October, with liabilities totaling $31,318,581, as compared to 2,023, and liabilities of $34,990,474, in October of last year. This compares with 1,568 failures in September, with liabilities of $34,124,731.

St. Joe Lead Plans Cut in Production

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—St. Joseph Lead Company, which handles about 20,000 tons of lead a month, of which its own production amounts to about 15,000 tons, will reduce its output 15 per cent.

The present low price of lead is given as the chief cause for curtailment.

Gain in Unfilled Orders To Check Steel Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

STEEL mill activity is expected to continue at its present rate until the latter part of December. That the gradual downward tendency shown during the past month will be checked is indicated by the gain of 183,981 tons shown in the unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation.

Steel ingots are being made at from 75 to 80 per cent of capacity. The Steel Corporation is operating at a higher pace than most of the independents. The gain in the bookings was attributable to orders for rails, material for car builders and structural business. These more than compensated for the loss of tonnage required by the automobile industry.

The final weeks of the year usually show a drop in production, since consumers request that shipments be held up while they are taking inventory in preparation for the making of annual reports.

Conditions Irregular

WHILE the United States Steel Corporation will have rails to bolster up its production, most of the independents do not participate in the rolling of this product. Many of them have a larger proportion of automobile business than the leader in the industry. For this reason they will lag somewhat behind in production for the balance of the year. Rail producing independents such as Bethlehem and Inland should do as well as the Steel Corporation.

The pipe mills, with the exception of companies supplying large amounts of seamless tubing to automobile makers, have a good outlook and expect to maintain the present production schedules for some time to come.

Deposits to Gain

The end of the bull market has put its mark on almost every phase of commercial activity from the making of automobiles to the sales of bootleggers. Banks are now anticipating a resumption of gains in savings deposits within the next year.

The lure of quick profits was responsible for the first decline in savings deposits in the 20 years during which the American Bankers' Association has been keeping records. The year ended June 29, 1929, showed a loss in savings accounts of over $195,000,000. This compared with a gain of over $2,300,000,000 in the preceding year.

Speculation Blamed

THE withdrawal of funds to be used for speculation is believed to have been responsible for the decline. No other factors can be found which might have explained the loss. The country was generally in a state of prosperity. There was no evidence of an exceptional increase in installment buying or of abnormal gains in other purchases which might have taken so large an amount of money from the banks.

Now that a large share of the public has been pushed out of the market, a resumption of the normal process of accumulating wealth may be expected. It is impossible to predict the trend of the figures for the present year, since further large withdrawals may have been made within the last few weeks to protect margin accounts. Bargain hunters may also have taken money out of savings accounts.

It would be difficult to prophesy whether or not the accumulation from now until the end of next June will balance the withdrawals of the last few months.

The trend of business activity will have much to do with the rate at which savings deposits will be accumulated. Naturally a low rate of employment would tend to restrict the building up of savings accounts, while a high rate would result in acceleration.

RESERVE BOARD MEETINGS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The belief prevails among some officials here that many sections of the financial community may be placing undue emphasis on daily meetings of the Federal Reserve Board and the publicity that these meetings have received during the recent market reaction.

Except during mid-summer when many members are on vacation, Federal Reserve Board meets on the average of five days a week. Often it meets more than once in a day. These meetings usually consider routine matters of little or no general interest and are somewhat informal in character. Except in times of unusual activity, such as the security markets have just passed through, the meetings usually pass unnoticed. The fact that they do receive widespread notice in unusual times tends to overemphasize them in the view of officials here.

Despite various reports from Washington, it can be stated on best authority that in the reaction of the past few weeks, the board at no time has considered measures which might be regarded as of an emergency character. Board officials have thought that they ought to hold themselves in readiness with advice or opinion which might be requested. Recent prolonged meetings have been to that end almost exclusively and for the additional purpose of keeping the board constantly informed. Board has also been occupied with some matters not touching upon the market situation.

The view here is that overemphasis of the board's movements may add to unsettlement and that the better course would be to treat daily meetings as routine affairs unless there is good reason to believe that extraordinary action is in prospect.

Expect Nickel Plate Offering This Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Offering is expected this week of $20,000,000 3-year 6 per cent notes of New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has authorized issuance of the notes, proceeds of which are to be used to purchase certificates of deposit for Wheeling and Lake Erie stock, formerly held by the Alleghany Corporation.

Price of Copper to Hold Present Level

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Copper metal buying is quiet here and abroad. Electric copper for domestic shipment is 18 cents a pound delivered to the end of January, and for export, at 18.30 cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre or London. So far as can be seen, prices will hold at these levels.

Seligman Paints Bright Future For Butte

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A. Seligman, president of Butte Copper and Zinc Company, stated: On January 1, 1930, there should be on hand in the treasury approximately $300,000 in addition to the dividend declared and no indebtedness of any kind. The mine never looked better. Developments at the lowest levels show large bodies of high-grade zinc, lead and silver, as well as manganese ores. Production for October of over 15,500 tons was the largest ever attained, consisting of 6,940 tons of manganese and 8,680 tons of zinc ores.

Union Pacific Will Redeem 4% Bonds

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Union Pacific Railroad will redeem through its cash resources the $45,000,000 of Oregon Short Line refunding 4 per cent bonds, it was learned today. This will be one of the largest railroad bond redemptions in years made without refunding or other financing. The Union Pacific is able to do this through its large surplus, which, on December 31, last, was approximately $235,000,000. The Oregon Short Line 4s were offered in 1905 at 97, and no sinking fund was provided for them. They are guaranteed as to principal and interest by endorsement of the Union Pacific.

Seaboard Plans New Stock Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Interstate Commerce Commission has given approval to the Seaboard Air Line Railway's recapitalization plan. Authorization permits the Seaboard to issue not exceeding 2,994,420 shares of no par common capital stock and warrants to purchase 250,000 of these shares.

Lower Auto Production Expected to Boost 1930 Prices.

FINANCIAL interests who have made a survey of the situation in Detroit, predict that automobile prices will be higher next year, as a result of probable lower output. It is now estimated that the leading companies will place their 1930 production schedules at 80 per cent of the 1929 output. It is believed in banking circles in that city that dividends of the chief motors companies will be maintained unless sales next spring fail to come up to the 80 per cent expectation level. Smaller production and higher prices should make for satisfactory profits in 1930.

Every share of stock now has an owner, just as it had when the market was at its peak. But there are many new owners because some of the old owners got panicky and sold out. People who own good stocks now will make a lot of money if they hold them long enough, just as people who bought stocks 10, 20 or 30 years ago have made money by holding what they have. Incidentally, some stocks look cheap today although they are up 500, 1,000, 2,000 and some 3,000 or more points compared with prices 10, 20 and 30 years ago, based on original stock outstanding. Prospects of many over the next 30 years are just as good as they were 30 years ago; better, in fact, as many lines of industry have been greatly enriched and thoroughly stabilized since then.

BROKERS' loans are now down to a level where they are no longer a disturbing factor. At $4,882,000,000 they are off nearly $2,000,000,000 from the peak reached October 2. This is a drastic shrinkage. Many say no further drastic reduction from this level can be expected, but of course all will depend on the course of the stock market. Back in January, 1926, brokers' loans stood at $3,513,000,000, just $1,370,000,000 less than they are now. That isn't much of an increase when one considers that new security issues offered to the public over the last four years total more than $25,000,000,000, with an even greater addition to new Stock Exchange listings.

Wall street is becoming reconciled to the theory that some recession in business must be influenced by what has happened in the stock market. There is, of course, no way of measuring its likely scope, yet it is widely assumed that the slackening will not be unduly severe in its proportions. Reason for the belief that any slackening will be within reasonable limits is found chiefly in the generally recognized fact that, broadly speaking, inventories are at a minimum, with principal corporations in exceptionally strong shape financially. The prospective let-down in business, it is pointed out, will be the direct result of shortening of buying power for those who have been caught in the market's unheaval and a consequent tendency to go slow in the matter of undertaking new projects.

FOR the reason that it just about measured what had been expected, the increase of 183,981 tons reported by the Steel Corporation in its unfilled orders as of the end of October, had little effect marketwise. The stock had rallied last week on the strength of unofficial forecasts to placing the probable increase at between 150,000 and 200,000 tons. The October increase compares at between 150,000 and 200,000 tons. The October increase compares with the gain of 244,370 tons reported for September, and with decreases ranging from 47,257 tons in June, to 422,966 tons in August in the four months previous to September. At present the total of business on the books, but unfilled, is 4,096,562 tons, compared with 3,751,030 tons at the end of October, 1928.

Interests sponsoring Commercial Solvents feel that it is attractively priced at current levels and have recently been picking up the stock on a basis of its long-pull possibilities. Under 30, Solvents is selling at the equivalent of less than 300 for the old stock, which was split-up on a 10-for-1 basis. Prior to this adjustment, the old stock reached a high of 780. The company reported earnings of $1.22 a share on the present stock for the first nine month this year and is expected to show $1.80 for the full year, compared with $1.30 in 1928, and 89 cents in 1927, on a similar share basis.

SPURT SEEN IN EQUIPMENT BUYING

Big Inquiries in Market Indicate 50,000 Cars May Be Ordered in Few Months

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Railroad equipment demand, after a lull towards the close of summer, has broadened materially during the past few weeks.

It is certain now that car and locomotive builders, as well as manufacturers of brakes, castings, signals and other railroad equipment, will close for the year with well-filled order books and enter 1930 with schedules that should assure larger earnings for the first quarter than reported in the like period of 1929.

OFFICIALS OPTIMISTIC

Officials of these companies now express greater optimism than they did a few months ago. At that time the companies were busy filling orders booked during the spring and early summer, but around August a noticeable lack of new business was evident.

Situation at present looks more encouraging than at any time previous this year, for the price basis is slightly better in most cases than earlier in the year. Several companies this spring took business at levels which did not return much profit, but this was done to help operating schedules after the years of lean demand.

BIG LOCOMOTIVE INQUIRY

There are now more than 200 locomotives under definite inquiry, involving an outlay of roughly, $20,000,000. Several additional orders appear to be in the offing, but have not reached the stage of definite inquiry as yet.

Freight car builders have actual inquiries in the market for about 11,000 cars. In addition, there is considerable business which may develop into actual inquiries before long. A survey of western roads indicates orders for about 15,000 cars probably will come out between now and the early part of 1930.

LOCAL ORDERS

In the Pittsburgh district orders for 10,000 additional cars are likely while eastern roads should inquire for 30,000 or more cars in the next four or five months, bringing the total additional demand likely to develop before the end of the first quarter of 1930 to 50,000 cars or more.

Improvement in the equipment market may take on tangible form for investors before long, for several companies will be in a position to resume dividends while others which have been paying dividends will be earning a sufficient surplus to make an extra dividend possible.

Market Decline Cuts Buying Of Silk

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Market for silk goods has been sharply affected by the decline in the stock market, and the trade as a whole is marking time in order to be able to gauge more clearly the probable effect upon their business. Future buying is considerably curtailed and there are few cancellations.

Raw silk was weak last week, selling down 10 cents a pound to a low of $4.50. Volume, however, was not heavy, and the drop was due mainly to the hesitant attitude on the part of buyers.

Bulk of silk consumption in the apparel industries cannot be regarded in the luxury class. Volume for spring is expected to be about as large as mills had anticipated, but production has been somewhat cut down.

Silk hosiery activity is normal, and sales and production in October showed healthy increases over September and August volume.

Improved Net for Canadian Foundry

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Canadian Car-Foundry Company, Ltd., including Canadian Steel Foundries, Ltd., and other associated companies reports for year ended September 30, 1929, consolidated net income of $3,065,902 after interest, depreciation and provision for income tax, etc., equal after preferred dividends to $6.78 a share, on 365,800 common shares against $538,329 before federal taxes or 27 cents a share on 49,750 common shares in preceding year.

Electrical Inquiries Hold Up for Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Electric World reports a well-sustained volume of inquiries for electrical apparatus and equipment during the past week. Business is holding up well in virtually all sections except the Pacific Coast, where many industrial orders are reported dormant, due to stock market conditions.

EUROPEAN LOAN PROSPECTS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—From 1924 until late in 1927, when American absorption with domestic securities pushed its way to the front, this country was furnishing capital to foreign nations at an unexampled rate. Flotations of foreign bonds, notes, and finally corporation stocks on markets here ran up totals quarterly that almost equaled war loan performance.

It remains an open question as to whether the outflow of domestic capital will set in again. In Washington, diplomatic circles rather look forward to the prospect, but as yet the investment banking houses which manage such enterprises seem not to have submitted new proposals of the kind to federal agencies for the tentative sort of approval that was customary two years ago in such matters.

"It seems to be a fact that there is a rather limited field at the moment in Europe for lending from the United States, as compared with the showing in 1927," Grosvenor B. Jones, Commerce Department specialist in finance, remarked. "Germany and German industries probably present the potential borrowers who will make the first call for new funds, even though the recent loan of $125,000,000 arranged for the German national government by the Swedish Match combination takes care of current needs. There will be some demand from Italy for industrial expansion, from Austria for electrification of railroads, and from Hungary for general purposes.

"France will not be a borrower abroad, and will probably supply all the main capital needs of French zones of influence. Great Britain has never borrowed heavily from private American funds. Much will depend upon interest rates, but I have some doubt that rush of American funds to foreign countries is going to set in again at any early date."

the DOCTOR . . .

HE, TOO, HAS HIS FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

The familiar picture of the country doctor, driving his one-horse buggy through rain and sleet and snow along almost impassable roads to make a midnight call high up in the hills, is hardly overdrawn, even in these days of better roads and motor cars. It merely illustrates the fact that the doctor is the hardest-working, most self-sacrificing of all professional men. His time is never his own—he is always subject to the call of the sick at any time of day or night. The Mellon National Bank numbers many members of the medical profession among its depositors. Their accounts are always welcome, large or small. There are many ways in which the bank can be helpful—investment advice, collection of interest, travel service and safe deposit. We are glad to have them make use of all the bank's facilities.

STOCKS SMASH TO NEW LOWS FOR YEAR

Mid-Session Rally Fails to Hold—Shares Drop 2 to 10—American Express 106

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Further distress selling developed in today's stock market, and prices of leading issues crashed to new low levels for the year after a mid-session rally which failed to hold. Extreme declines in the active shares ranged from 2 to 10 points, with Jersey Central breaking 20, Peoples Gas 29½ and American Express 106 on small transactions.

Trading showed an enormous increase in volume, with the ticker running more than an hour late in the last hour.

In the absence of any adverse business or financial news, Wall street was forced to the conclusion that numerous weak spots still existed, and that no general recovery could be hoped for until they had been cleaned out. Short selling also has increased measurably in volume.

The New York banking group, organized when the first bad break occurred on October 24, to assume an orderly market, apparently is making no effort to stem the decline at this stage. No meetings of the group have been held for 10 days, although its participants have kept in close touch with the market and with each other.

STEEL SLUMPS

U. S. Steel common, which sold as high as 261¾ in September, broke to 153½, off 6, in the heavy wave of selling which swept over the market in the last hour, but made partial recovery from the low level. American Can, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit, New York Central and Northern Pacific were among the many other issues to reach new low levels for the year.

Call money renewed unchanged at 6 per cent and time money rates held steady at the same figure.

D. L. Clark Sales Set High Record

The D. L. Clark Company net sales for October established a new high record of $575,216, exceeding the previous high monthly of September, 1927, by approximately $12,000.

Net profits after all charges, including bond interest, provision for income tax, etc., for the 10 months period ending October 31, 1929, were $707,391, the equivalent of $2.36 per share. The stock is on an annual dividend basis of $1.25 per share.

After payment of regular dividends it is expected company will have a profit and loss surplus for the year of slightly more than $400,000. Balance sheet, as of September 30, shows company has current assets to current liabilities ratio of approximately 14 to 1.

Reserve Committee Confers With Young

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Members of the open market investment committee of the federal reserve system conferred today with Gov. Roy A. Young, of the reserve board. It was announced the committeemen would discuss the present low state of the stock market and decide what course the committee should follow.

The committee represents all member reserve banks and supervises the open market operations of the banks—the buying and selling of government bonds. It was explained the committee can "ease" the money situation by having the banks buy government bonds and "tighten" the money market, by instructing the banks to sell.

Proposed Iron Rate Increase Suspended

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Schedules proposing to cancel existing commodity rates on iron and steel articles from points in southern states to points in trunk line and New England territories were suspended by the Interstate Commerce Commission from November 12 until June 12, 1930. The proposed rates contemplate increases over existing rates ranging from 6 to 8 cents per 100 pounds.

Richfield Deliveries.

Richfield has started delivery of fuel oil to Southern Pacific Railroad for the Western Division out of El Paso. Contract is considered by Richfield to be one of the most valuable. It will run for five years to gross at least 5,000,000 barrels, which is delivered at Los Angeles into railroad-owned equipment, necessitating no expense on the part of Richfield.

Largest Grain Elevator.

The Great Northern Railroad will build a 3,000,000-bushel addition to its grain elevator at Superior next year, making it the largest unit in the world.

LOCAL MARKET SAGS UNDER SELLING

Early Weakness Noted in New York Brings Further Declines in Stocks Here

Securities on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange sold off in the early dealings today, following the course of prices in the New York market.

Steady pressure of sales on the "big board" continued to weaken margin accounts which had weathered the decline so far, and the further liquidation of these holdings gave an appearance of weakness to all markets. However, the drastic slump of the past month cannot but have strengthened the technical positions of many stocks and it is now considered only a matter of time until a rally of sizeable proportions takes place. In the meantime, holders of stocks in the brokerage accounts, pressed hard for additional collateral, have been forced to liquidate one after another, and this process has gradually diminished the volume of distress stock which had presented a problem throughout the break.

Lone Star Gas fell back here and there was a corresponding drop in Western Public Service. Industrials felt the influence of yesterday's lower New York market when the local exchange was closed, and the additional weakness in the early trading today caused further nervousness and apprehension.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—A continuation of yesterday's selling movement appeared in the cotton market at the opening today. The initial tone was steady, but prices were 3 to 14 points lower and active months soon showed net losses of 13 to 18 points, with December breaking through the 17c level and into new low ground for the season. That delivery sold off to 16.91, while March declined to 17.33 under further liquidation of old long accounts combined with some local and southern selling. The trade was credited with buying on the decline, but otherwise the market seemed without much support and prices were within a point or two of the lows at the end of the first half hour.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimated domestic consumption for October at 63[illegible],000 bales, against 616,238 last year, but the bullish effect of these figures seemed to be offset by the standard cloth statistics showing an increase of 5.1 per cent in stocks on hand during October and a decrease of 9.9 per cent in unfilled orders.

The early decline to 17.03c for January brought in some fresh buying as well as covering and rallies of several points in the mid-afternoon were probably promoted by reports of a steadier turn in stock. The stock market eased again later, and cotton also weakened under continued selling which was supposed to include further old long liquidation. Some stop orders were uncovered on the decline, which carried January off to 16.97c, with the more active months showing net losses of about 20 to 25 points at midday.

MARKET SLUMP CHALLENGES MERGERS

Safer to Base Buying on Assets and Earnings Than Chances of Combinations

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The new arithmetic of corporation mergers has been challenged by the drastic setback in stock prices.

While the financial joyride lasted, the accepted arithmetic of mergers was that one plus one equaled about three. The dramatic symbol of the changed attitude toward mergers was the disinclination of the largest bank in the country to consummate a pending deal.

For the investor, it is safer always to buy stock with reference to its assets, earning power and authentic prospects, rather than on its chances of entering a merger. Of course, this is the era of mergers and financial weddings, but, as the studies of the national industrial conference board have revealed, only a minority of mergers, which are directed by consummately able management, fulfill the high hopes of their sponsors.

It is not my opinion that the constructive task of remaking the business institutions of the country through sensible combinations has been permanently checked. The process of making them big and efficient, though temporarily interrupted by abnormal financial conditions, will be resumed, but for a considerable period the public which has lived and learned will be reluctant to pay fantastic prices for the shares of companies merely because they seem destined to be merged with other companies.

BANK MERGERS SIGNIFICANT

From the standpoint of public policy, no mergers are more significant than the groupings of banks. With the law standing in the way of interstate branch banking, there has been an attempt to create alliances across state boundaries through holding companies. This new type of banking group is responsible to no public authority, though of course the component banks are supervised. Such groups under good management might function satisfactorily, but under weak management are capable of grave abuses. Legalized interstate branch banking will be a more responsible way of yielding to the growing economic demand for big business in banking. Some of the well informed financiers on the federal government payroll think that group banking should be regarded as an intermediate step, paving the way for branch banking, when and if bankers are trained for this new responsibility and the laws become modified accordingly.

That distinguished political scientist, Will Rogers, has observed: "To make things look prosperous every company is trying to declare a dividend, and they will do it, too, if they can sell enough stock to declare on it." It is perhaps ungracious to spoil nice satire by citing facts, but this column conceives it to be its duty to check up on the financial obiter dicta of such interlopers as George Bernard Shaw and Mr. Rogers. The truth is, Mr. Rogers, that corporations may declare dividends only out of past or current earnings. They may not declare dividends out of capital, raised through the sale of new stock, without committing statutory fraud.

A silver lining in the clouds of gloom resulting from the recent speculative cataclysm is that numerous deflated marginal operations will be driven by necessity to turn from ticker gazing to creative work. Moreover, possibly the stampede of young men to get jobs in Wall street will be arrested, and once more some will want to become lawyers, doctors, engineers and merchants. For a time, it was threatened that by the next generation America would be a nation of stock brokers.

SPURRED BY ADVERSITY

Edward S. Evans, of Detroit, for example, who has won a fortune through devising scientific blocks for loading automobiles for shipment in freight cars, was thrust into the competitive struggle a little earlier than expected because the family assets were wiped out in the panic of 1893. He got an early footing, but in 1907 a bank failure and the failure of a friend, whose note he had indorsed, brought his fortune to minus $16,000.

Stirred up over his loss, Mr. Evans became ill and moved to Florida to recuperate. With his health partly restored, he went to work for a lumber dealer who sold blocks used in shipping automobiles. Believing that Detroit was the logical center for the sale of such material, Mr. Evans set out for that city on a salary of $5 a week and expenses.

Mr. Evans soon became of the opinion that a better system than the one he was selling could be devised. Accordingly, he turned to experimental work, and devised his own blocks. This improvement has cut the cost of decking a freight car with two tiers of automobiles from $22 to less than $10. It reduced damage claims on autos shipped by rail from $5 a car to less than 40 cents. And, Mr. Evans, the amateur, who had started life as a librarian, made millions out of the Evans loading block.

Adversity spurred him, and it will stimulate others. There has been no decline in American inventive genius and mechanical ingenuity.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS OFF

LONDON, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Trading on the stock exchange in the early hours today was light with Anglo-American issues weak in sympathy with New York, but slightly above parity levels.

Operations here are not heavily committed in Wall street specialties having reduced their commitments in the early days of the slump. The result is the speculative account in trans-Atlantic issues is smaller than for some months past.

Wall street opening prices dominate the market here each afternoon as far as price movements are concerned, but local buying is not extensive.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Heavy foreign selling orders today depressed the market resulting in considerable losses although individual groups showed some resistance.

Government bonds lost some of their previous gains.

Larger Cottonseed Crushings Reported

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.(AP.)—Cottonseed crushed during the three month period, August 1 to October 31, was announced today by the census bureau as 1,507,619 tons, compared with 1,406,054 tons in the corresponding period a year ago, and cottonseed on hand at mills October 31, was 1,181,420 tons, compared with 1,192,935 a year ago.

The quantity of crude oil produced during the three months was 461,120,812 pounds, against 430,415,967 in the 1928 period. Supply on hand at the end of October aggregated 121,341,282 pounds against 124,624,528 a year ago. The amount of refined oil produced during the period was 313,830,813 pounds, against 284,130,999 in the previous year. Supply on hand at the end of October aggregated 232,699,429 pounds, against 223,045,871 a year ago.

Wabash Opposes B. & O.'s Program

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(INS.)—The case of Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad, long a bone of contention among several groups of eastern railroad magnates, was brought to the attention of the Interstate Commerce Commission again today.

The Wabash Railroad, which has a merger plan pending before the commission, took exception to recommendations of commission examiners that the Baltimore and Ohio be authorized to acquire the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh by purchase of capital stock.

Warnings Issued On Market Rumors

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Members of the stock exchange and the curb market have issued written warnings to their employes declaring the circulation of rumors regarding the financial standing of any person, firm or corporation will result in instant dismissal.

This action was taken in an attempt to stamp out wild rumors that have been circulating through the financial district. Members explained that, while brokerage house employes are not held responsible for starting the stories, they intend to make certain the rumors are not passed on by their workers.

U. S. Steel Banks Furnace at Gary

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—One blast furnace at the Gary works of U. S. Steel Corporation has been banked, leaving seven active stacks at that works. Seven are blowing at South Chicago and one at Joliet. The corporation now has 15 of 27 blast furnaces active in the West. In the Chicago district 24 of 36 blast furnaces are now active.

Steel ingot production in the West is at 75 to 80 per cent of capacity.

Northwestern Buys 52,000 Tons Rails

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Chicago and Northwestern Railway placed orders for 52,000 tons of rails, chiefly for delivery in 1930. Illinois Steel Company was awarded 36,000 tons and the Inland Steel Company 16,000 tons.

Wabash Railway is in the market for 23,000 tons of rails, which is expected to be divided between the Illinois and Inland Steel companies.

New Hamburg Mill Resumes Operations

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 12.—The New Hambury Mill, operated by the Victor Food Products Company, has started operations with D. J. Gruntz as manager. The mill has been re-equipped for the production of special flours.

WALL STREET HEARS

That a "bear" clique, headed by a well-known Boston operator, was a heavy seller of stocks late yesterday.

That at the recent low established by Chrysler common stock, the aggregate market value of outstanding shares was less than $125,000,000, or about $60,000,000 above cash on hand.

That another special distribution is likely in U. S. Steel common at the January meeting of directors.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Bond prices showed easier tendencies today, reflecting further selling coincident with the drop in stocks. Prime investment issues again received only fair support, and there were numerous losses in the low coupon rails. United States government listings were active and irregularly higher. Convertibles, hard hit by the drop in share values, yielded substantially.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—(AP.)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows. 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars):

Large Rail Order Expected Shortly

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—A contract for 122,000 tons of rails is soon to be awarded by the Southern Pacific Railway. The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, Colorado Iron and Fuel Company and possibly the Bethlehem Steel Corporation will divide the tonnage.

The Rock Island, St. Louis-San Francisco, Burlington and Missouri Pacific Railroads are expected to place freight car orders in the near future.

Heinz Completes Huge Kroger Order

What is said to be one of the largest movements of canned foods this year has just recently been shipped from Pittsburgh and other plants of the H. J. Heinz Company to the Kroger Grocery and Baking Company.

The purchase consisted of a solid trainload, about 50 cars, of Heinz merchandise. The Kroger Company will distribute these foods in one week's time from the 5,000 stores.

While the purchase of this amount of merchandise is by no means an exceptional incident, it is a surprising quantity of any one brand to be distributed through one organization within one week's time.

Reserve Council May Suggest Rate Cut

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—With the stock market finding continued difficulty in getting on to an even keel after the dramatic crash of the last few weeks, therapeutic remedies may be discussed next week when the Federal Advisory Council holds its quarterly meeting with the Federal Reserve Board.

The council, composed of business men from each of the 12 reserve districts, will meet November 19, in the first session since prices of stocks did their unprecedented nose dive.

Officials said today that undoubtedly the stock market situation and its relationship to the Federal Reserve Banking structure will be the principal topic before the council. They saw the possibility of recommendations for a general reduction of the reserve bank rediscount rates to 4 or 4½ per cent. The present level is 5 per cent.

For a year prior to the stock market the advisory council had been urging increases in the rediscount rates to curb speculative activity and to divert credit from the market. At several meetings resolutions were made public through the reserve board.

This Town of Ours

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.

VIRGINIA POOLE of Washington (the former Mrs. Frank Gould) and Bobby Witt will middle-aisle it soon . . . The Fifi D'Orsay-Fred Berrens romance has phfft! . . . The Jay Stuart Barnes' of the social register (he's Africa-bound for lions now) are On The Verge, as are the Norman (Frontcover) Rockwells, and Ernest and Madeeline Boyd of the litrry set . . . PLAIT OF HAND

SEALTIEL, the Richman Club magician, has Paw Trouble . . . Ernest Hemingway and Scribner's are this and that way because "The Call to Arms" was edited here and there . . . Flo Hart and Kenneth Harlan, her Ex, are merely arm-in-arming it and will not be re-welded . . . Roger Ramsey, the aviation expert, and Margaret Miller of the "Great Day" chorus were handcuffed here Satdee . . . That open air garage at 58d and 7th, was owned by the late A. Rothstein, who wanted to be buried there. Of all things! . . . The Duchess de Richelieu's manse at 86th and East End Ave., contains many of the antiques and relics belonging to the Cardinal . . . The F. Walkers have reconciled . . . Gladys Deering, named by Mrs. George Mosby as a husband-burglar, will be in the ensemble of "Woof-Woof" which he is backing.

Chic Sales wrote "The Specialist" while touring with "Gay Paree" and tried it on the terpsichorines to see if it was comical . . . Evelyn Laye, who carries her rave reviews in her purse, will strand "Bitter Sweet" for the phlickers February One, and Peggy Wood, who is said to be twice as good in the role (impossible!) in the original London version, will replace her . . . Jesse Livermore is supposed to have made 30 million selling short . . . Arthur Loew dropped five million . . . C. B. Kelland lost 600 Gs . . .

CRITIC TO ACT

A. WOOLLCOTT and Leslie Howard will WOR the quarrel scene from "Julius Caesar" . . . Richard Halliburton has gone back to Memphis for good. Good! . . . That newsreel episode showing the Washington murderer's confession will not be released nationally . . . After 3 yrs of playing in it the "Dracula" cast was called for rehearsal last wk . . . Preston Sturges, author of "Strictly Dishonorable" rates $1600 per in royalties . . . The "mysterious" author of the forthcoming "Ex-Husband" tome (which is to be Macaulayed) is on the staff of Cape-Smith which parented "Ex-Wife"!, but the latter won't know it until now . . . Ruth Etting says this would be a better world if collegiates thought more of passing their exams than the car ahead.

Recommended to diversion seekers: The Broadway Number of Judge . . . The grand band at the Alhambra Theater, in Hahhlm, plenty nice . . . Paul Whiteman's version of "Love Me" with Skin Young's vocal chorus . . . O. Roy Cohen in the SEPost . . . The "Censored Mother Goose Rhymes" . . . Rube Goldberg's "Is There A Doctor In The House?" Winchell, of the famous Winchell tribe, and a pretty thing tagged Ruth Kurman, are swapping baby-talk . . . John Bakeleas, formerly of The Forum and The Living Age, is plotting a mag.

INEQUITY IN EQUITY

AND now even the Press is barred from Equity Balls, which won't admit collitch boys, either . . . "Winter-Bound," due at the Provincetown, is by Thomas Dickinson, university prof, who is pediculous with degrees . . . Hermann Oelrichs, the millionaire, can do that Keating bird trick and almost any other . . . He once paid a grand to a starving magician for it and is the life of the smart set parties . . . Claire Windsor's real tag is Olga Cronk . . . Hugh O'Connell, who does such a swelegant drunk on stage, never touches the stuff.

William Boyd, who was recently divorced from Eleanor Fair, is now the heart of Dorothy Sebastian . . . Eddie Cantor says that the likeness is his in the ciggie ads and wants to collect . . . Winchell Smith, who retired quite formally, with interviews, two months ago, is directing a show for Dillingham . . . John Gilbert was Wall Streeted For All . . . It was announced that Wilson Follett couldn't be reached and that he spurned the O. Henry Memorial second award, having gone High-Hat . . . As a matter of fact Follett has been seriously ill on the Maine coast and needs the $250 badly . . . Paramount is making Joe Frisco's life story.

County and state officers, after continued search, arrested Millens in the Baltimove and Ohio Railroad station at Pittsburgh. He was carrying a revolver when arrested.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES
DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

And don't think Bayer Aspirin is only good for headaches, sore throats, and colds! Read the proven directions for relieving neuralgic, neuritic, rheumatic, and other aches and pains. Remembering, of course, that the quick comfort from these tablets is not a cure; for any continued pain, see a doctor.

ATTRACTIVE, FRIEND DECLARES

Young Woman Recovered Lost Pep With World's Tonic.

"I was the most popular girl in my set about eighteen months ago and was the leader in every kind of fun that came along," writes Miss Marion Stanwix, of McKeesport, Pa. "The days when I did not have dates were very few, and in the evenings I was always on the go. I guess I must have overdone it, because I began to have trouble with my stomach. I had to take different kinds of physics every night to get my bowels to move. I found I could not eat as I had done, but had to be very careful, as gas would form on my stomach after eating and I would belch up gas. That took some of the joy out of our parties. Then my blood seemed to be getting impure, and a rash broke out on my face and bosom. I could not keep up up the pace, and soon I found myself being left out of things. I got so that I did not care. I did not have the ambition to hold on to my friends, and I knew I lacked the pep that had attracted them. As I grew worse I lost more and more of my friends, so that I spent most of the evenings alone. My stomach got worse, and my breath got bad as I had catarrh.

"One of my old friends dropped in to see me one evening. He was astonished at the change in me, and went out and got me a new medicine he said some of his friends had used. It was called World's Tonic. As he was the only one who seemed to care what became of me, I tried to be extra nice to him, but it was too much of an effort to entertain, and I saw I was too sick to please him. But I did take the medicine, and I was surprised to see how quick it made a change in me. My bad breath left, my face cleared up, my stomach acted right, and my blood seemed to be clean again. In a couple of weeks or so more I had all the pep in the world, and I must have won back my magnetism, for now I have scores of friends, and I am going out as I used to. The friend who brought me this new medicine says I am more attractive than ever. I feel I owe a great deal to World's Tonic as well as to him for getting me started on it." World's Tonic may be had of Dow's (formerly McCulloch's), also May's, and Mayflower Stores, or of any other first class drug store. (B-24)

Kansas Board of Health has issued a bulletin to nurses and teachers which says—

Don't kiss on trains, at fairs, food shows, in theaters, department stores, chain groceries, elevators, movie houses, and when playing postoffice at parties, gargle frequently.

If you must practice the art of kissing, do it on the quiet and do not tempt others.

When kissing, insist on fresh air and adequate ventilation. Guard against sudden changes in temperature.

We have no particular comment to make, except to say that the rule against kissing in chain grocery stores seems sensible enough.

And the "if you must practice kissing" clause is probably all right—but surely by this time no one need waste time practising.

"Preach Haddock has a whisker thirty-three inches long carefully preserved in alcohol and on display at his barber shop. This whisker came from George Poff, who carries the mail on route two out of Lamar. Preach was shaving Poff and noticed a bump or knot on Poff's jaw, from which a hair protruded. It was found to be thirty-three inches long."

BOOK REVIEW

"Palaces of Sin" by Colonel Dick Maple.

"A SOCIETY PEACOCK"

Today we continue our review of Reformer Maple's withering Book—"Palaces of Sin." We have told how the author, after inheriting his aunt's money, went from Indiana to Washington, D. C., to investigate sin.

"YOU can imagine my surprise," narrates the author, "when an interviewer called and showed me an article stating that the talented Hoosier (meaning me) had fallen heir to $9,000,000 and was spending it with a lavish hand. Now, reader, to imagine my feelings you will have to drink about four quarts of 'Hard Cider' and take two teaspoons full up of soda, as I indeed felt blowed up.

"The reporter asked my plans and I told him I was out for a good time, and did not give a red cent what it cost, as I had more money than forty men could count in a century and it was all in hundred dollar bills.

The Reporter

"I convicted him of the truthfulness of my statement by showing him a thousand dollar bill and gave him to understand that I wanted every move of mine to appear in print, and had him send for two other reporters from other leading papers which I treated in like manner, therefore I was the most talked of man in Washington and at least four hundred society leaders set traps to catch the 'Rich Hoosier' for their daughters."

The Colonel proceeds to tell how one invitation from the wife of "an official from the State of Missouri" requested the honor and pleasure of his presence on the following Wednesday evening at a party to celebrate her daughter Clara's eighteenth birthday.

Tomorrow's installment begins the recital of the shocking birthday party.

Country Does Not Want To Be Slid Into League

The mysterious Bank of International Settlements is a mystery no longer.

IT IS FRANKLY AND OPENLY ON ITS WAY TO BECOME THE FINANCIAL AGENCY OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

The cat escaped from the bag and jumped across the Atlantic in two dispatches from Baden Baden, where two American international bankers are at work helping form the constitution of the bank—AFTER THE ADMINISTRATION AT WASHINGTON REFUSED TO LET THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM HAVE ANYTHING OFFICIALLY TO DO WITH IT.

A New York Times cable of November 5 thus describes the "revision" clause of the bank's charter:

"Upon the approval and consent of the governments the statutes can be revised so that the bank can draw its authority from some international source. It is a small loophole, depending upon the consent of all governments concerned, BUT THROUGH THIS THE LEAGUE COULD BECOME LINKED WITH THE WORLD BANK, THE DRAFTING EXPERTS ARE AGREED."

The dispatch states that immediate connection of the bank with the League would be impracticable, because "the opposition is too strong, notably that of the United States which, at the present moment, at least, would be expected to see in a League connection only another cause for remaining aloof from the bank."

However, the dispatch goes on, "there still persists hope that this opposition, once the bank is established and has proved its value to world finance, will diminish and that the Federal Reserve may see its way to collaboration."

Now every informed person knows that the chief purpose of the International Bank will be to unload German reparation bonds upon the American people.

The bank is authorized to issue and sell German bonds, whose proceeds will be used to pay off Germany's war debts to the Allies in lump sums.

The bonds are to be sold mainly in the United States because we alone have the financial power to absorb them.

But they could not be sold here as long as the American people were buying stocks. Now, however, the time is coming. Read this cable of the Associated Press from Baden Baden, also dated November 5:

"In circles close to the conferees the rumor is persisting that the New York Stock Exchange situation had something to do with the sudden burst of speed in the work here, since Europe confidently expects that the American market will be able to absorb German annuity bonds more easily 'now that the stock speculation fever is over.'"

So this stock market catastrophe is serving the purpose of getting us ready to take the place of Germany's war creditors. American investors, frightened out of American securities, are to be gently led into the "safer" German annuity bonds.

This country does not want to be slid into the League of Nations by official or unofficial membership in the League's financial section, the International Bank, nor by membership in its legal department, the World Court.

IT WOULD HELP IF THE PRESIDENT WOULD MAKE THAT CLEAR TO EUROPE.

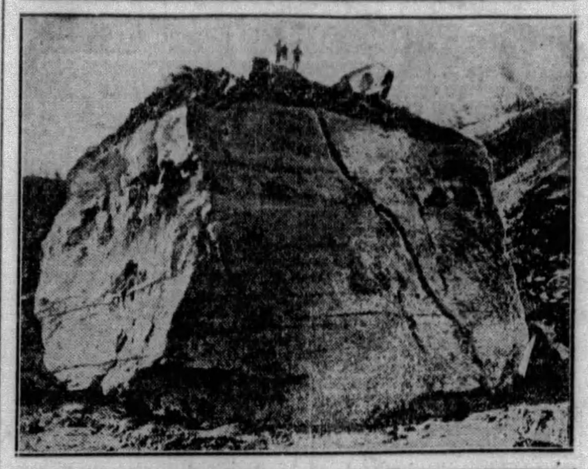
A REAL Earthquake

They Had It in New Zealand.



THIS ROCK WAS FLUNG 150 YARDS

When Nature really breaks loose strange things happen.

In New Zealand recently they had a REAL earthquake, such as this country has never seen, and, let us hope, never will see.

The gigantic rock above, its size made clear by the human beings standing on it, was hurled through space and flung 150 yards by the earthquake's power, thrown the length of more than two ordinary city blocks.

It landed on a New Zealand homestead, utterly wiping out the house. Several dead lie under this rock, which becomes their tombstone.

The earthquake reduced the level of lakes. In one place hurling enormous rocks into a big river, it turned the river aside permanently from its regular course.

While admiring Nature's marvelous powers, let us hope she will be kind enough not to demonstrate them here among us in the New Zealand fashion.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Many popular theatrical road players seem unable to make the grade on New York's Rialto. Yet they open here year after year, languish a week or so, and depart for "a tour of the tanks." They never lose hope of eventual metropolitan recognition.

In nearly all cities westward they have distinct followings and many of them are talented performers. Why they do not receive the Manhattan plaudits is one of those unexplainable "hoo-doos" that often hover over those who give their lives to the theater.

I think as I write of such entertainers as Fiske O'Hara, William Hodge, Walter Whiteside and a few others whose names escape me. They are not those trouping "hams" who walk ties in the funny papers. Their plays are by finished playwrights and are well cast.

They are far more capable than innumerable who tread the local boards. They know how to move audiences to tears and laughter, but they meet, in many instances, only derision. Their first nights are sometimes an anguishing period of diffidence.

Such players are often unable to rise above the stigma of what Broadway calls "hokum," the unforgivable sin in the New York theater, although very few plays are without it. The trick is to dress "hokum" so it will pass for sophistication.

Broadway will often chuckle at situations that mist the eye in Indianapolis and Omaha. The good girl here spurns the villian with a cute crack that inspires a titter instead of a sob. What we used to know as "heart interest" becomes a pathological complex.

The child toddling down stairs to telephone heaven, virtue triumphant, and other familiar pazaza are no longer a part of the theater's illusion. They have given way to Mayfairish epigrams, divorce triangles and boudoir smut. And that's why many of us trot to the movies.

I often wonder—and I somehow feel this isn't going to be much—why most of us do not really begin to appreciate the music we hear at musical shows until we have heard them a few times over the radio or via an orchestra.

* * *

Wall street knows when a storm—not financial but atmospheric—is blowing up. Before clouds gather there is a pungent aroma of coffee from wholesale houses along the East River. It never fails. And that is more than can be said for one or two weather prophets.

* * *

Riverside drive, too, has a natural barometer that forecasts the coming tempest. The sheer and empurpled palisades in New Jersey begin to turn a dead gray long before the weather bureau flashes the storm warning.

New York, it might be whispered, is not giving California earthquake stories the hoot of late. Beginning in mid-summer and extending at intervals to early fall, there were several gentle rockings hereabouts. "Trembles" we old mountaineers back in the Beverly Hills call them. The world has a strange attitude about earthquakes. They are always denied. Yet they are felt at intervals in every part of the globe in the same way as heavy storms and cyclones.

Music note: A symphony orchestra conductor eats a pint of banana ice cream before facing an audience.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

At Huddle College

CARNEGIE FOUNDATION might continue its illustrious investigation of collegiate feetsball and find out what the players do in a huddle.

"Bugs" Baer

So far as we can understand about the nefarious nutriment of terrace massacres, the huddle corresponds to the minute rest between rounds.

The good Prof. Dumble of Yale gazed upon his first educational huddle during the game between Dartmouth and Harvard. He breathed upon his granulated bifocals and screamed:

"Why, that huddle's bigger than my class in history."

This year's Princeton team uses the huddle for comfort and support. The players lean on each other instead of leaning on the enemy.

Prof. Dumble thinks that huddled players do not have their minds on the game. He fears that one of the players might possess loaded dice.

He advises young players about to huddle to take a football with them.

The Carnegie Foundation failed to state the exact moment when huddling becomes necking.

Collegiate football games are 60 minutes in duration of which time about 40 are spent in stubborn filibusters. There cannot be anything important mumbled in these varsity caucuses because we never saw a stenographer taking down notes.

The boys just put their 11 heads together while the referee practices the overture from William Tell on his whistle. Then the huddle opens up like a cabbage bursting into bloom.

The athletes stroll into position, the football is snapped and the boys are thrown for another huddle.

We paid $10 to see Navy and Pennsylvania play two separate games of ring-around-a-rosy.

Each team was an earnest young clinic which spent most of its time in a circular squad apparently engrossed in an operation on a guinea pig.

The old-time pictures of college football teams showed 11 husky dockwallopers gazing with scorn upon the photographer.

The 1919 daguerreotypes of trans-campus athletes show 11 shrinking youths hiding their faces in a deep-dish huddle.

If we could conjure about 200 pounds of Conan Doyle's ectoplasm from the past we would like to see it take the shape of Tom Shevlin, Andy Smith or Johnny Poe and watch anyone of those old-timers rip through a huddle like a weasel through a chicken farm.

IN THE FOWLER'S NET

By Herbert Kaufman

THE mills of the gods are still working.

But even this electrically sped age can't teach them to grind FASTER.

The more deliberate centuries were quite satisfied to let destiny amble along at LEISURE, confident that cause would ripen into effect at the pre-established hour.

Without such assurance in adjusted balances, yesterday would have had nothing on which to pin faith in retributive justice, or the correction of prevalent social wrongs.

Moralities are afterthoughts of nature. Evolution is the transcendant miracle.

Radio, television and aviation are trumpery and inconsequent performances compared with the transformation of tiny ooze inhabiting animals—with the vaguest rudiments of the five senses—into philosophers, architects, chemists, printers, surgeons, steel forgers, mechanics and Edison.

THE instincts came first, then the expediencies and FINALLY the decencies.

Experience, not divinity, shaped our moral, legal and sanitary codes.

History is nothing but a vast experimental laboratory, in which we have tested the quality of right and wrong, conducted researches in ethics as well as dynamics in politics, and determined the rules under which we seem most likely to derive comfort, happiness, longevity and stability.

We have concluded that whatever is best for the majority must regulate the behavior of the individual.

In no OTHER way may progress be ordered and systems maintained.

EACH generation, profiting by the record of its predecessors, adds nips and tucks to inherited practice and rejects manifest error, corrects incompetent method and increases the instrumentalities of mutual benefaction and protection.

Whenever emergency requires it, we resort to the scalpels of revolution and repudiation.

But we advance FASTER along the routes of reflection and conference.

As time accumulates, special privileges tend to diminish and the presumptions of wealth and power are canceled by common consent.

Thus monarchies yield to democracies—the gulfs between noble and peasant slowly, but inexorably, disappear—and the influence of money and genealogy is correspondingly demoted.

THERE isn't enough gold on earth today to bribe aside the lash of scorn and the knout of punishment from rascality and felony.

Lust, corruption, treason and predacity have begun to discover that jails and ostracism play NO favorites—regardless of the criminal's antecedents, political entrenchment or financial rating.

The assortment of bankers, congressmen, governors and Blue Book notables occupying State and Federal penitentiary cells TOGETHER with Messrs. Sinclair, Fall and the especially affluent Pantages, offer testimony that not even the BIGGEST bird can escape the fowler's net.

It took a great many aeons to bring it all about. But considering what little sense man had to START with, you couldn't expect it VERY much SOONER.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

HAVE you not found that even at times when you were having the best time with new friends you still longed for the old friends?

Perhaps you have discarded these old friends who did not keep pace with your financial or social advancement. Perhaps you selfishly thought they might interfere with your progress up the worldly ladder.

But you find as the years go on that there are none who can completely replace the old friends who knew and understood you long ago.

The old friends liked you for what you represented as an individual.

Perhaps the new friends have chosen to be nice to you for your financial standing or your reputation for achievement along some line.

It is sad to realize that you are sought from other than a personal standpoint or interest.

You want others genuinely interested in you and your welfare.

But in how many are you interested beyond a friendly greeting?

This is the general condition, irrespective of indication which many people give of a deeper feeling.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS

In Collaboration With

Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE SIMPLEST item in his consumption is the water he drinks, either pure or with various coloring, flavoring or stimulating additions. About 59 per cent by weight of the human body is water, the proportion varying from tissue to tissue; thus bones, which include a large amount of lime between the cells, have only 22 per cent, but the liver contains 69 per cent, muscle 75 per cent and the kidney, which is comparable to a sponge of tubules whose pores are full of blood and urine, contains as much as 82 per cent of water.

The inside of cells is fluid and consists largely of a solution of various substances in water; moreover, water acts in certain characteristic ways on molecules which are dissolved in it, so that the properties of aqueous solutions — upon which vital phenomena depend—are unparalleled by other mechanical systems.

H. G. Wells.

Life without water is about as conceivable as music in a vacuum. As Sir Arthur Shipley says in his attractive little book "Life," "Even the Archbishop of Canterbury comprises 59 per cent of water."

Water is continually being lost by the body. It evaporates from skin and lungs, and it is used also to flush away the waste products of cell activity. To make up for this loss, a resting man needs somewhere about three pints of water a day; a man taking considerable physical exercise much more.

In addition, Mr. Everyman must swallow a variety of other substances, chiefly the more or less altered, living or dead tissues of plants and other animals, and trust his marvellous internal arrangements to assimiliate them to his needs.

Nowadays we read so much of the "break-up of the atom" and so forth, that some people seem to be in doubt whether they may still think and speak about atoms.

Thirty or 40 years ago the atom was supposed to be a very simple little particle, the smallest quantity, the unit amount of an element that could go into combination.

Well, we now know the atom has an extremely complicated structure, but the fact remains that an atom is the smallest quantity of an element that can go into chemical combination. And the "molecule" still means the smallest quantity of a chemical substance that can exist separately.

It may consist of from one to a vast number of atoms of the same or different elements, but though there are large molecules as well as small ones, the largest molecule is still ultra-microscopic and minute beyond our everyday imagination.

A water molecule contains three atoms; a molecule of common salt two, but in many of the substances we shall next deal with the atoms may run to thousands or tens of thousands.

In these discussions on digestion we are always hearing the terms carbohydrates, fats and proteins. Carbohydrates and fats are two classes of organic compound made up of carbon, hydrogen and oxygen. They differ from each other in the proportions of these three elements that they contain; in carbohydrates there are two atoms of hydrogen and one of oxygen to every carbon atom (hence their name, for water is H_2O), while in fats the proportion of oxygen is much lower.

They differ also in the pattern on which the atoms are fitted together. The best-known carbohydrates are sugar and starch. The term fats as used in physiological discussion includes the vegetable oils (such as olive oil) in addition to the more obvious fatty substances. Both carbohydrates and fats are readily combustible—hence their importance to the living body.

They are the chief fuels that it consumes. They can be substituted for one another; the Esquimo get their energy chiefly from oils and fats, while a tropical vegetation substitutes carbohydrates to a large extent.

The third class foodstuffs, the proteins (or proteids), are a vast variety of much more complicated substances containing not only carbon, hydrogen, and oxygen, but nitrogen and often other elements such as sulphur and phosphorus and iron.

Their relatively gigantic molecules contain hundreds and even thousands of atoms. Gelatin is an example of a pure protein; egg white is another, nearly pure; of the commoner foods, meat, cheese and vegetable seeds (such as peas, beans and lentils), are richest in protein.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

"WHAT'S the RIGHT thing to do?"

You've asked that question thousands of times, trying to establish some definite law for yourself or your neighbor. PARTICULARLY FOR YOUR NEIGHBOR! Your grandfather didn't ask it. He kept one eye on the Ten Commandments and the other on the village constable and got along without any doubts or misgivings. But you, in this more complicated day, don't find it so easy to establish the truth.

A friend wrote this for me on the flyleaf of a book:

"Say not, 'I have found the truth,' but rather,
'I have found a Truth.'
"Say not, 'I have found the path of the soul.'
"Say rather, 'I have met the soul walking upon my path.'
"For the soul walks upon all paths.
"The soul walks not upon a line,
"Neither does it grow like a reed,
"The soul unfolds itself, like a lotus of countless petals."

And there, I think, is the truth about the "right thing to do"—the truth about TRUTH.

Truth isn't a definite THING which may be assembled, tagged and placed in a public place for the guidance of all. TRUTH IS A VISION. IT IS A VISION OF BEAUTY AND ORDER WHICH LIGHTS THE DARKNESS OF OUR IGNORANCE.

Every man has a vision in his darkness.

But no two men have the same vision.

For no two men have the same understanding of beauty and order. Each man's vision is colored by his own understanding, his own growth.

I see life in one way; you see it in quite another. For me, a RIGHT life may imply danger, change, risk, experiment, rebellion. For you, a RIGHT life may require safety, stability, submission. Our plans of life are entirely different, and yet they both are RIGHT plans. Yours is right for YOU. Mine is right for ME.

And I should be allowed to live out my plan—within, of course, sensible bounds—until I shall arrive at a better plan, catch a greater glimpse of Truth.

And you should be allowed to live out your plan until you, too, develop beyond it.

For, indeed, that is the only way we CAN develop—by living out Truth as we see it for ourselves from day to day—letting "the soul unfold itself like a lotus of countless petals."

What an amazingly different affair life would be if we'd accept that plan!

How differently parents would treat children.

How differently society would treat the individual.

Think what YOUR OWN LIFE would be under those circumstances. If you could have your chance to Be Yourself—to follow the Truth as you see it!

Isn't It So?

Sometimes a youngster can be switched on to the right track.

Many a man's opinion of himself is too big for him to get away with it.

Money is no respecter of temperature. Where one man has money to burn, another will freeze on to it.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

SOME women can think up the most exciting stories about their pasts. They can talk in five accents and they've been somebody big in some other state that you haven't any relatives in. It's good conversation.

Well, there was a woman that was sore because the talk at the bridge game had turned on some younger woman's shape. She says, "Well, you know, I used to be an artist's model myself."

"That so?" says the woman across from her. "Any artist we know, about?"

"Why, yes, I posed for Millhaul, in his famous picture of the Lady With the Donkey."

"Well, well. How thrilling," says the other one, raising her eyebrows and looking at her cards. "Who took the part of the lady?"
